GRAND RAPIDS, JULY 18, 1885.

MINOR MICHIGAN MATTERS

Horse thieves at South Bay City.

The Port Huron city jail was empty on Wednesday.

A street railway company has been allowed a franchise at Adrian.

Isaac Deane, a resident of Adrian since 1826, died on Thursday morning.

The Strikers Nine is the name of a new base ball club at South Bay City.

South Boardman parties have just received a patent on a new carpet-sweeper.

The expenditures of the recent races at Kalamazoo exceeded the receipts by over $700.

J. L. Quimby is expected to start up his organ mill at South Boardman next week.

John H. McKee, a furniture dealer at Kalamazoo, made an assignment on Wednesday.

The shores of Goguac Lake are to be decorated by a fox hunt next Sunday afternoon.

Eight dollars a ton was asked for a load of new mown hay at Battle Creek on Wednesday.

The young ladies' base ball club picked nine, from Ypsilanti, were to play yesterday afternoon.

The funeral of Gage Begole, of Ypsilanti, who was fatally injured while playing cricket, took place Thursday.

It was expected that H. H. Culver's shingle mill at South Bay City, would start up on Wednesday morning.

F. W. Prescott, the editor of the Montpelier (Vt.) Watchman, has accepted the presidency of the Battle Creek College.

Miss Minnie Edwards, of Albion, edited the Albion Republican while the editor was away on the press excursion.

Forty-two cottages at Charlevoix summer resort are opened and occupied and about sixty boarders are at the Belvedere house.

It is estimated that the cost of putting down the artesian well at Muskegon will be $1,300, based on a cost of boring at $3.50 per foot.

It is said that the genuine Pinkerton denies all connection with the men sent to the Saginaw Valley, and says they are bogus detectives.

James Huntley thinks the Detroit Journal has defamed his character to the extent of $20,000 and has sued the paper for that amount.

The colored people of Mecosta are making preparations for another grand emancipation celebration, to take place the 11th and 12th of August.

Rev. C. O. Brown, of Kalamazoo, has declined the very urgent invitation of the Congregational Church at Dubuque, Iowa, to become its pastor.

While on a visit to some of his friends, John Allen, an inmate of the poor house, took arsenic and died at Lapeer. He leaves a family in Ashtabula, O.

The remains of Mrs. C. D. Erichsen, of Detroit, were taken to Philadelphia on Thursday, for cremation, at her earnest desire expressed repeatedly before death.

Rev. S. H. Cheadle, pastor of the Mecosta Congregational Church, will leave for Seattle, Washington Territory, on the 10th of next month, for the benefit of his health.

Wm. Bilderback died at his home in Silver Creek township, Allegan county, Tuesday night, aged 70. The deceased had been a resident of that township for about thirty-five years.

According to our exchanges the farmers all around are cutting wheat. The harvest of that cereal in New York State is much later, some of the farmers there not expecting to reap until week after next.

Two fat steers jumped into the river at Detroit and started to swim for Canada, but a couple of dock wollopers lassooed them and towed them back. The name of their bank or amount taken is not stated.

It appears now that only a dollar was taken from Mrs. Wood's house at Kalamazoo. The house was torn up and in a very disordered condition, but it was evident the burglars would have money or nothing.

Smith & Curry, of Ionia, grist mill owners, have invited the Mecosta grist mill committee to visit their plant at Ionia, and if found satisfactory they will remove it to this place; if not, they will pay the committee's expenses.

Mrs. Jas. E. Catlin, of South Bay City, who has been suffering for some time past with rheumatism, died very suddenly on Wednesday morning with apoplexy. The deceased was about thirty-five years of age, and leaves a husband and two children.

The annual school meeting held at Muskegon on Monday evening was considered the largest one of the kind ever held in that city. F. A. Nims and M. Wilson were re-elected as trustees, and were requested to continue the system of the past year.

At a railroad meeting on Wednesday night, at Howell, a committee was appointed to raise $20,000 more aid for the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan Railroad. Maj. Anderson and Col. Merrill were there to help the committee. The largest capitalists promise to give.

Gov. Alger has made the following appointments: George W. Hill, of Berrien county, to be coroner, to fill vacancy; Henry B. Ledyard, Philo Parsons and Hamilton E. Smith, of Detroit, commissioners to select and provide for a statue of Gen. Lewis Cass, to be placed in the capitol building at Washington.

The idea that the Government has established a fog horn station out by the Central Michigan fair grounds is not correct. The uncouth noises coming from that direction at all hours of the day and night, of late, are caused by a lonesome jackass, which some enterprising citizen has imprisoned there.—Lansing Republican.

Three Muskegon boys tell a queer story according to the Chronicle. They were in the woods on the north side of Bear Lake and saw a man's head lying on a stump. They picked it up with sticks, threw it into the lake and the gun which they found resting against the stump they took home with them. It is a breech loading, single barrel shot gun, made in 1810, with the "Zain" stamped on the barrel. It is at police headquarters at Muskegon awaiting an owner.

At the third annual meeting of the Michigan Division L. A. W., at Coldwater, prizes were awarded to the following wheelmen: Fred. M. Warner, of Farmington; Chas. Champion, Coldwater; C. C. Smith, Detroit; James Hedges, Adrian; Geo. Bowerfind, Adrian; M. Terry, Battle Creek; Charles Weisinger, Adrian, and in the double race Weisinger and Finch, Adrian. About fifty bicyclists sat down to an elegant banquet in the evening.

DEAD BABIES.

The Curious Way by Which a New Yorker Makes His Living.

[N. Y. Herald.]

There is a tenement on Eighth avenue which is occupied by a plasterer as a place of business. There is nothing noticeable in that fact, but there is a peculiarity about the place, which is that he has a sign on and nearing that he makes the heads of dead infants. Several specimens of this kind of work are displayed at the entrance of the shop.

The plasterer was found in the basement surrounded by benches, tools, ceiling ornaments, fragments of cornices and half finished busts in plaster. He was asked if the show making a business of taking casts of the features of dead children was original with him, and he said that he had never heard of anybody else doing anything in that line. The people in the neighborhood, he added, were mostly Irish and lived in tenement houses. Formerly no expense was too great for them, as far as a funeral was concerned, and he had happened to come in for a little share of the profits.

"One day," said the plasterer, "a man came down here and said he had just lost his baby. He was on his way to the undertaker's, and had evidently stopped several times to brace up. He saw an old plaster cast at the top of the steps, and it struck him that he'd have something like that to remember his baby by. He insisted that I should go to the house with him and model the baby's head, and as I had a taste for that kind of work, we struck up a bargain. I made a pretty good cast, if I do say it myself, and I got five dollars for the job."

"Did you have much of that kind of work to do after that?"

"Well, that set the fashion, as you might say. There are a good many people in a tenement-house, and the children die off pretty fast. I had a good deal to do for awhile, and I had to hire an extra hand to help in the common plastering. But after a time the people got poor, or the cases got to be too common, or there were too many in one family, or something, and there isn't any money in it now."

"So you leave your sign out as a matter of form?"

"That's about all. In fact, I've forgotten what it says. I guess I'll go up and take a look at it."

RECENTLY published cook-books include one with the odd title: "Why Not Eat Insects?" The question probably occurred to the man who ate a piece of cake in a dark closet.—Boston Post.

WOMEN are not inventive as a rule. They have no eagerness for new wrinkles.—Chicago Tribune.

A GREAT PLACE.

Mrs. A.—"What a great store Heyn's New Bazaar is! Why, one can get most anything there, and so very cheap too."

Mrs. B.—"Yes, they certainly deserve success, for they have brought down prices in other stores, and we get the benefit."

Mrs. A.—"But in no other store do I find the prices so low. I do a great deal of shopping, but finally make my purchases at Heyn's Bazaar."

Mrs. B.—"They have such a splendid assortment of useful and ornamental goods, the famed Whitney carriages, etc., etc., which make very pretty presents for wedding, birthday, or any other day. I noticed several elegant things in their Art Goods Department which I mean to get."

Mrs. B.—"Have you noticed their prices on that superb lines of Fans? I was never so surprised in my life. Actually one-half and less what other firms are asking. They sell a beautiful one for 50 cents and have every conceivable style from 25 cents upward.

Mrs. B.—"I was in there yesterday. They have all manner of sensible Toys, Games, Dolls, and other things for children and grown up folks. I could have spent a fortune there, everything was so reasonable and cheap."

Mrs. A.—"I find it pays to buy there every time. You should see the Ambrina sets and elegant glassware and a thousand useful articles at one dollar each and less. It is just the kind of an establishment Grand Rapids has needed."

Mrs. B.—"Yes Heyn's Bazaar is a great place and should be well supported, for we could not get on without it."

OUR next advertisement will be of more interest to every purchaser of Dry Goods and Carpets than any that has ever appeared in any paper in this country. It will surprise everybody, and will astonish every dealer in this State. More than half a million people will read it. Everyone in this city will read it that can read. Extra editions will be printed containing the advertisement. Everyone getting a copy will keep it, as it will contain matters of such interest that you will want to keep in your family and preserve for future generations.

SPRING & COMPANY.

July and August will be grand months for everybody to trade. Everything is marked way down. Many goods will be closed out at nearly half their value to reduce stock, as we are making the most extensive preparations for a large business to take place about the first of September, when we expect to open the new addition to our store, making it the largest establishment of its kind in the State.

The LABRADOR.

White Mountain Freezers

Five reasons why they are the Best.

FIRST. Every Freezer has the side crank.

SECOND. There is no wood work on top of the pail to warp and split, but all the machinery, as well as the cross piece, is of iron and substantially made.

THIRD. A triple motion is obtained in the White Mountain Freezers which no other has. The can itself revolves continually in one direction. The scraper, which throws the frozen cream to the center, revolves in a reverse direction, while the beater, which passes within the scraper, revolves in an opposite direction to it. This constant triple motion freezes the cream rapidly, mixes it perfectly, and makes the smoothest, most delicious article.

FOURTH. The beaters and all the iron work that comes in contact with the cream are thoroughly tinned. There is no galvanized iron about it to poison the contents by contact with the acid found in all cream. It has no wooden scraper to get sour, wear out, drop off, or be lost.

FIFTH. You can remove the cover from the can while stirring it, and yet work as perfectly. The can is easily placed nor removed from the pail.
