Saint Mary's Beacon.

LEONARDTOWN, MD.

Leonardtown Maryland, March 28, 1907.

The importance of Democratic control in the coming political campaign should be overestimated. This Fall's election is a most important one and upon its result depends the control of the State for likely a long time to come. Democrats who have party success at heart should be willing to display "a give and take feeling," and not let their spites and prejudices stand in the way of a party victory. It is no time for a display of jealous obstinacy. Be ready to meet your fellow party men in a friendly spirit and to contribute something towards creating a harmonious sentiment in the party. If the Democracy is to win it wants every Democrat to contribute its success and the "reading of any man out of the party" does not help the cause. Talk sense, act sensibly and there need be no fear of the result.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington D. C., March 25, 1907.

Anybody who has spleen to vent on the railroads world is hereby invited to walk up and vent it on Mr. Harriman. He appears to be having a hard time, and the world notoriously likes to kick a man when he is down. To be sure Mr Harriman if he is down has many million dollars and several profitable railroads in his pocket but the general idea seems to be that he is due for the fiercest prosecution the government can frame up. Senator Cullom on coming from the White House the other day said that if there was a law capable of doing it, Mr. Harriman ought to be put behind the bars for a term of years. Gov Deneen unquestionably came to the White House at the invitation of the President to see what could be done by the State of Illinois in the way of a State prosecution of Harriman for the looting of the Alton. There are two special attorneys for the Interstate Commerce Commission now working on the case of the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific, and they will make a report to the Interstate Commerce Commission to whom it will be transmitted to the Department of Justice for action if possible under the Sherman Anti-Trust law. Indeed it is said that there is a fair chance of convicting Harriman under the Sherman Act, the case of the two railroads being almost the duplicate of the Northern Securities case.

* *

The railroads as a whole are still very nervous of action by the Administration. The fact that Secretary Cortelyou has refused to accept any more railroad bonds as security for bank circulation is thought to be a possible forerunner of action demanding the withdrawal of bonds already so deposited. The mere fact that Mr Cortelyou has said he has no such intention is not received with the assurance such a positive statement would seem to warrant.

A number of the railroads have of course that is a little puzzling. The Erie for instance has issued peremptory orders to discontinue work on about $8,000,000 worth of improvements. This will mean cancellation of orders and throwing thousands of men out of work. One of the big southern lines has taken the same step, though the work is not quite so extensive. Many of the other roads have suspended work on extensions and are doing only the most pressing work of maintenance. The roads taking this action allege that it is almost impossible to the present state of public feeling to get money to carry on their work. This doubtless is true to a measure but there is little doubt also that the situation is not so desperate as the roads make out. It looks more like an organized attempt to start a serious depression and accomplish by this sort of a threat what the flurry in the stock market did not accomplish, namely a break in the President's policy of railroad legislation intended to produce really honest railroads.

* *

Much practical work is being done by the Forest Service in aid of tree planting in the middle west. The Service has been anxious all along to disseminate as much information as possible about tree planting and to encourage the work. Many important works on tree culture, treating in detail of the different varieties have been issued. But it was found that a man was seldom interested in more than one or two varieties of tree adapted to his particular locality. The Service therefore has adopted the plan of issuing leaflets that are printed with a view to their use in certain localities and farmers and others interested in the culture of the best trees for their own particular sections can be furnished much valuable information in a very small compass by applying or writing to the "Forest Service" Washington, D. C., and merely stating their locality and asking for the literature bearing on or that region. Much money is being saved on printing and postage and more is left to be devoted to other lines of forest research.
