SELF-CONFESSED PERJURY.

A Witness Who Confesses He Swore to a Number of Lies.

The suit of Eugene Belt of Baltimore for divorce from the lady he recently married, and who was formerly Mrs. Godfrey of this city, has developed a most villainous attempt to blacken the character of a woman by perjured evidence. A second witness for the prosecution returned to the commisioner this morning and admitted that he had deliberately sworn falsely.

The name of this witness is Battle Minor and he was the only witness examined this morning. He said that Mr. Cunningham, a private detective, had told him that if he made certain statements he would be paid. He said he wanted to take it all back, now. Turning to his evidence several passages were read, and he was asked if that was a lie. He replied "yes" to all the questions. He swore, in the first place, to the bad character of certain people with whom Mrs. Belt associated. The next evidence taken by the defense will be in New York. The case will be heard in Baltimore in November, when this evidence will be read. It is stated that Mr. Cunningham has left the city.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

THE Cannstatter Volksfest takes place Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, in Guethler's Park.

REMEMBER that the best fifteen-cent lunch with dessert is found at the Casino, 725 Seventh street. Restaurant open on Sundays.

Willard W. Goodwin died at Freedman's Hospital to-day from the effects of a fall from a second story window of Forsythe's cafe last evening. Goodwin was employed as a waiter at the cafe. By falling from the window he broke his hip and jaw and received internal injuries. He was immediately removed to the hospital, where he died early this morning.

THE Virginia Democratic Association last night elected the following officers: H. L. Biscoe, president; M. Wallace, first vice-president; R. C. Glasscock, second vice-president; I. R. Fisher, secretary; G. A. Taylor, assistant secretary; P. C. Hungerford, treasurer; Eppa Norris, sergeant-at-arms; L. Q. Washington, W. I. Tune, G. A. Taylor, I. R. Fisher, T. J. Elam, executive committee.

ADDRESSES were made yesterday by Professor M. G. Ellery of Georgetown College and Colonel Robert Beverly of Virginia at the Falls Church Granger's Fair. The following awards were announced: Jersey cattle, M. R. Rowe of Fredericksburg, Va.; four-horse team, Wm. Felrey of Falls Church; two-horse team, Elida Merry of Falls Church; best plow, Bissell chill plow, first prize, and Crystal plow and Universal plow equal.

The Gynecological Society.

The American Gynecological Society will hold its tenth annual meeting at the Columbian University, Washington, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 22, 23 and 24. Papers will be read by Dr. S. A. Busey of this city, Dr. Ellwood Wilson of Philadelphia, Dr. Theophilus Parvin of Philadelphia, Dr. H. F. Campbell of Augusta, Ga.; Dr. Wm. T. Howard of Baltimore (the president's address); Dr. T. A. Reamy of Cincinnati, Dr. E. W. Jenks of Detroit, Dr. H. J. Garrigues of New York, Dr. R. S. Sutton of Pittsburg, Dr. Wm. Goodell of Philadelphia, Dr. Fordyce Barker of New York, Dr. J. R. Chadwick of Boston and Dr. Joseph Taber Johnson of this city. All members of the profession are cordially invited to be present.

Mr. Bacon's Appointment.

The following is a special to the New York World: Regarding the appointment of Mr. Bacon, Mr. Cleveland's brother-in-law, as Superintendent of the Custom House at Toledo, O., the friends of the President justify him in appointing a relative, who is also a Republican, by asserting that he was emphatically the best man of all the applicants; that the other applicants themselves admitted as much, and that the President positively refused to permit the appointment until he also was convinced that Mr. Bacon was the best man for the place. Two years ago Representative Hurd recommended Mr. Bacon for the position because of his capabilities, notwithstanding they are of opposite political faith.

The Marine Band Concert.

The Marine Band will perform the following programme at the White House grounds this afternoon, beginning at 4:30 o'clock; March, "Climbing Up the Golden Stairs," Ross; selection, "Faust," Gounod; potpourri, "La Gioconda," (by request) Ponchielli; song, "Esmeralda," Levey; characteristic piece, "Chinese War," Michaelis; valse, "Mon Reve," Waldteufel; collocation, "The Mikado," Sullivan.

The White House Detail.

Major Dye yesterday detailed Officers Coomes and Marks of the Capitol Hill Precinct to do duty at the White House. These officers have spent the best part of their lives on the force, and are now past the meridian of life, and the long years of unusual house of duty and exposure have told on them, and their new duty will be more in keeping with their age than street service.

What the Thieves are Doing.

Charles Sanderson of 714 E street southeast reports that his horse blanket was stolen about a week ago. Lewis Jackson of 120 L street reports that a gold watch and locket were stolen from his room yesterday. A coat, vest and pair of pants were stolen from the room of Henry Sharp of N, near Canal street, yesterday afternoon.

Protecting the Monument.

A platform was rigged around the cap of the Washington Monument to-day and operations are in progress on the arrangement of metallic tips, designed to protect the shaft from lightning.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Ladies and gentlemen can obtain first class board for twenty dollars per month at the Casino, 725 Seventh street.

"Josth's Old Stand,"

CONSECRATING A BISHOP.

A Description of To-morrow's Impressive Ceremony.

The consecration services at St. Peter's Church, Capitol Hill, to-morrow, will be a memorable day in the history of Catholic churches in this city, and particularly St. Peter's church, where Rev. Father O'Sullivan will be raised to office of Bishop of Mobile. In addition to the programme printed in THE CRITIC yesterday the procession will enter the church in the following order at 10:30 o'clock.

The cross-bearer and the acolytes, wearing purple cossacks and white cottas, followed by about sixty priests, dressed in black cossacks and white surplices. Behind these will come the Roman prelates and bishops, who escort the bishop-elect, attended by his chaplains, and followed by the assistant consecrators, in capes and white mitres, and finally the archbishop, in his episcopal robes and attended by his assistants and insignia-bearers.

Upon arriving at the sanctuary, the archbishop will ascend the throne, while the bishop-elect, the assistant consecrators and chaplains will proceed to the small altar at the epistle side of the sanctuary.

After further formalities the letter of the Pope will then be handed to the consecrator and passed by him to the notary, who will read it. At its conclusion the bishop-elect will kneel before the archbishop and make the profession of faith required by the church and take the oath of obedience to the Apostolic See.

Later the Archbishop will then take his seat in front of the high altar and intone the litany of the saints. The bishop-elect will prostrate himself on the floor of the sanctuary, while all the other prelates and priests on their knees answer to the invocations of the litany. The bishop-elect will then rise and kneel before the consecrator, who will place his hands on his head and say: "Receive thou the Holy Ghost and the Holy Spirit." The Scriptures will then be placed upon his back and shoulders, his head and hands will be anointed with holy oil, the crozier or pastoral staff will be thrust and placed in his hand, and the ring will also be blessed and put upon his finger.

The newly-consecrated bishop will then present to the archbishop two lighted torches, two loaves of bread and two small ornamented barrels of wine, a relic of the ancient discipline, after which the mass will proceed with the archbishop and the new bishop celebrating. At its conclusion the archbishop will pronounce the solemn blessing, the mitre will be brought and given to the new bishop, who will be placed in the Episcopal chair. After this, accompanied by the assistant consecrators, he will pass through the church blessing the people.

THE ARMY AND NAVY.

Notes of Interest to the Service From all Along the Line.

Captain John Livers, U. S. A., retired, died last Saturday at Boston.

Colonel John P. Willard, paymaster, U. S. A., has applied to be placed on the retired list for disability.

Cadet George Le Roy Irwin, who has just been admitted at West Point, is the son of Colonel Bernard J. D. Irwin, surgeon, U. S. A.

Lieutenant John M. Carson, jr., Fifth Cavalry, the son of Major Carson, the well-known journalist here, will leave Monday, to join his troop at Fort Reno, Indian Territory.

The pneumatic carriage for heavy guns, which was the invention of the late Captain James A. Powlett-Vane, will be ready for trial early in November. It is to carry a 12-inch breech-loading rifle.

Colonel Thomas F. Barr, deputy judge-advocate-general of the army, has returned from his visit to the New England coast, but will be relieved from duty here very soon, and will go again to General Terry's staff at Fort Snelling.

General Charles C. Gilbert, colonel Seventh Infantry, who goes on the retired list March 1, next, has taken a leave until that date. Unless there happens some casualty meantime, General Alexander Chambers, lieutenant-colonel, Twenty-first Infantry, will succeed General Gilbert.

Paymaster William N. Watmough, U. S. N., is granted six months' leave from Monday; Lieutenant A. K. Culver is granted six months' leave from October 1, with permission to go abroad; Ensign Hugh Rodman, who recently returned home from the Wachusett, has leave until December 1; Passed Assistant Surgeon James M. Murray has resigned, to take effect January 1, and Ensign Percival L. Drayton, to date April 30, 1886, and he has leave till that date.

Police Court Notes.

Mrs. Margaret Urner of Twenty-third and M streets was before Judge Snell this morning on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. General Whitaker and Mr. Wilcox were among the complainants. Mr. C. Carrington appeared for the accused, and had thirty-seven witnesses present. After hearing half a dozen witnesses the Court suspended sentence, took the defendant's personal bonds and returned her collateral.

Wallace Stetson, a white boy, 16 years of age, was a defendant at the Police Court this morning for carrying and flourishing a pistol. A young man named W. G. Betts swore that the defendant drew a pistol on him and charged him with cursing his sister. A fine of $20 was imposed.

Annie Brown, a colored servant girl, was convicted by Judge Snell this morning of stealing a lot of cooking utensils from Mrs. Perley of 512 Twelfth street. She was fined $5 or fifteen days.

Thomas Warren, a white boy, was in the toils at the Police Court this morning for trespassing on the grounds of the Soldiers' Home and stealing celery therefrom. A note was read to the judge which was sent by his mother, who said he was a fit subject for the Reform School, because he was a very bad boy and carried a pistol. The Court committed him to that institution to remain during his minority.

Edward Wheeler, for stealing a gun from Richard Burgess, was sentenced by Judge Snell to-day to 30 days in jail. He borrowed the gun and told the owner afterward that he had shot a man with it and the man took it from him. He was also ordered to restore the gun.

John Ellis and John Stewart were before His Honor, Judge Snell, to-day, on the charge of stealing a chain from G. W. Hoffman at Guethler's Park. It was shown that Stewart gave the watch to Ellis, who was discharged. Stewart was sentenced to 30 days and restitution ordered.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Items of Minor Importance Gleaned From the Courts.

A petition has been filed with the court to appoint a committee to take charge of the estate of Annie G. Gaston, an alleged lunatic.

Marriage licenses have been granted to John H. Selpp of Baltimore, Md., and Caroline Ackershauser; William Flower and Annie Harris; Charles A. Coleman of this city, and Georgianna Jenkins of Fredericksburg, Va.; Henry Hicks and Mary C. Ross, both of Baltimore.

The curious will ease of Henrietta Plant was before the Probate Court yesterday. The deceased was the wife of George H. Plant, the river captain. Her first will was subsequently changed by memoranda and corrections and a codicil was added. A second will was made, but it was only signed by two witnesses. The question arose which of the wills is the correct one, or whether either of them is good. The papers were admitted and the alleged wills will be construed by the Equity Court.

OPEN-AIR SPORTS.

Baseball.

An Associated Press dispatch this morning announces the disbandment of the Virginias, "with the championship almost within their grasp." There is a slight error in the last part of the dispatch. The Virginias did have what seemed to be a firm hold on the pennant, but by the hardest kind of uphill work the Nationals wrested the lead from them, and at their disbandment led them by two games. The Richmond club was not, strictly speaking, a Richmond institution. Its manager, a stranger, located a nine there, as he would locate any business, and on this account there was probably less local pride than there would have been under other circumstances.

Quite a large crowd assembled yesterday to see the second game with the Trentons. These games are really more interesting to a majority of the spectators than are the close games with little if any batting. The Nationals gave another fine exhibition of batting yesterday. Bang! would go the ball far out in the field, and away would go the runner for two or three bases. The game also abounded in fine plays, and some of the pickups and catches were loudly applauded. The Nationals were credited with twenty base hits. Hoover, Powell, Knowles, Burch and Barr led the batting. Only five base hits were made from Barr's pitching. The same clubs play again this afternoon.

The transfer of the franchise of the Buffalo club to the Detroits was consummated day before yesterday. This makes the second club the Detroits have swallowed this season so far. It settles Buffalo for next year, but makes the Detroits one of the strongest clubs in the country.

The scores yesterday were—St. Louis-Providence, 7 to 3; Metropolitan-Pittsburg, 9 to 8; Newark-Louisville, 6 to 2; National-Trenton, 18 to 2.

The Eastern League is very much mixed up. Only three of the original clubs have so far lived through. The Nationals were safely ahead when the Richmonds disbanded.

The game Monday between the St. Louis and Nationals promises to be a great one. O'Day and Cook will probably be the home battery, and many are waiting to see if O'Day will keep them down to as few base hits as Barr did. Every effort will be made by our boys to turn the tables, and another big crowd may be expected.

DISTRICT GOVERNMENT NEWS.

Matters of Interest Considered by the Commissioners.

The Commissioners have declined to subdivide square 554.

A. B. Morgan has been appointed an additional private on the police force.

The Commissioners have fined Officer W. H. West $10 for violating the rules of the force.

M. L. Higgins requests the repair of the pump on D street between First and Second streets northwest.

The authorities have been requested to lay a water main on Twenty-second, between K and L streets.

Prof. Gallendet of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum has petitioned the District for gas lamps on Seventh street from K to Boundary streets.

A permit has been granted to Frederick Schafer to build a handsome residence on N, between Thirtieth and Thirty-first street, at a cost of $9,000.

The Commissioners have disapproved the applications for bar-room licenses of Lucy E. Lang and Louisa Pierce, and approved that of John H. Richardson.

Building permits have been granted to Mr. E. L. Davis to erect a store on G street, Fourth and Fifth streets to cost $200; N. H. Jenkins to build addition to 311 Fifth street southeast, $400.

M. Hettinger of Illinois has inclosed to the Commissioners a copy of letters patent for means of supporting telegraph wires over the middle of streets, and states that they can secure the right to use it on reasonable terms.

Mr. F. P. Madiguene has asked the Commissioners to pass an order defining the act of Congress making records relating to real or personal property open to inspection, and that the Collector of Taxes be instructed in his duties thereunder.

S. C. Ford has written the First Comptroller of the Treasury to know whether he shall obey the order of the Engineer Commissioner to the effect that he as Inspector of Gas and Meters, should pay the fees coming into his possession; to the collector of the District. He has received a reply, telling him that they should be paid into the Treasury of the United States.

The Engineer Commissioner has recommended that the following sewers be laid: In alley in square 725; Tenth street, between Massachusetts avenue and B street northeast; South Carolina avenue, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets; alley in square 275; alley in square 478; in Jackson alley; Fourth street, between South Carolina avenue and G street northeast; Fourth street, between N and O streets northwest.

Tender Feet.

The study of the human foot and of fitting the same comfortably, neatly and with good taste has always been our thought and ambition. It is a well-known fact that the majority of people are afflicted with feet troubles. The cause is not natural—it results from ill-fitting shoes. To such we will say that our shoes remedy these defects; give perfect comfort, sustain the ankles, strengthen and give liberty to the muscles, freedom of circulation and perfect ease and grace of motion. Our success in fitting feet consists in understanding the anatomy of the human foot, and being sufficiently practical and experienced in our business, we in all cases supply our customers with shoes that will set well to the foot, smoothly and comfortably, holding and sustaining them at the proper parts without interfering with the nerves of motion. Our entire stock for the fall trade has been carefully selected from the best manufacturers, and all who are in want of shoes will be able to convince themselves of the correctness of the above by calling at the shoe parlors of Dalton & Strickland, 589 Pennsylvania ave. n. w.

WEST WASHINGTON.

On Thursday, October 1, the corner-stone of the new Christ Church (West Washington) will be laid by the Bishop of Maryland. All former rectors and vestrymen, the Protestant Episcopal clergy of the District and a few specially named clergy from outside the District have been invited.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon a horse attached to a jump-seat carriage, belonging to Mr. A. H. Stamp, of 616 Third street northwest, became frightened at the mill at Rock Creek and Broad Branch, and ran away, demolishing the carriage to atoms, but fortunately doing no other damage. Officer Jones assisted in getting the pieces of the carriage together and returned them to the owner.

Arrived: Canal boat M. C. W. Boyer with 4,100 bushels of wheat to J. G. & J. M. Waters; sales of wheat at 96 cents. Cleared: Schooners Laura Messer with 650 tons of coal for Portland, and Charles Mitchell with 1,000 tons of coal for Boston.

The steam packet H. G. Wagner carried a very large excursion from Hamline M. E. Church to Great Falls to-day.

Mr. William Snowden, collector of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal, who broke his collar bone while riding horseback at Annapolis junction about ten days ago, appeared at his office yesterday for the first time. He is slowly improving.

GORGEOUS FRENCH DRESSES.

A Peep into the Wardrobe Judie Will Bring Over With Her.

Judie's dresses will play an important part in the diva's tour. They are accompanied in several cases by hats made by Mme. Virot, who understands what is most becoming to Judie's oval face and generous form. The diva's great, velvety black eyes usually look out from under rather flaring fine straw brims.

The first dress made for "La Grande Duchesse" is a free adaptation of the traditional hussar uniform; fine cloth of the true hussar milky blue is combined with scarlet flannel braided in gold. The jaunty hussar jacket is of the blue, the hanging dolman of the scarlet flannel, smart with gold braid and edged with black astrakhan.

Then comes the gorgeous court dress, modeled on that of the Czarina; the sleeveless pointed corsage and short petticoat are of peach-colored satin, that changes almost to a salmon and disappears beneath a drapery of gold lace, embroidered in silver thread and strewn with tiny velvet apricots pendant from gold threads.

The immense train, which is separate from the dress, and can be detached from the shoulders, is of the same rich golden satin, with peach-like and salmon shadings, and is lined throughout with pale blue satin, but what gives it its cachet is the applique embroidery of velvet bouquets in tapestry-like designs, that recall the ornamentation of priestly robes.

The riding dress that completes the "Grande Duchesse" costumes is of the shade of gray known as reseda, and the fine cloth is draped over a white flannel petticoat; the quaint jacket of the period, with the long skirts and side pockets, has a white flannel vest.

In "La Mascotte," beside the peasant costume of pale blue and chestnut brown laine, with a coquettish black cloth basque and a gayly-colored cotton handkerchief, and the simple wedding dress trimmed with Valenciennes lace, Madame Judie will wear a Medici robe of palest pink and gold brocade, sleeveless and with a high ruff, and opening over a front of pale Nile green satin, ornamented with three bands of fine pearls, two of which extend but half way up the skirt. There is a long train to this dress.—[Paris Correspondent of Boston Herald.

The Kings Kiss and Make Up.

It seems that the King of Sweden has succeeded in arranging a reconciliation between the duke of Nassau and the German Emperor, and the Hereditary Prince of Nassau and the Princess Hilda (who is to be married in a few weeks to the Crown Prince of Baden) are to pay a visit to the Emperor and Empress at Potsdam. The King of Denmark is exerting himself in order to induce the Duke of Cumberland to make peace with Berlin, and as the Emperor and Crown Prince are exceedingly anxious to meet him half way (quite contrary to the advice of Prince Bismarck, who hates the Guelph family), it is probable that we shall soon hear that a modus vivendi has been brought about. There is some talk of the Duke of Cumberland having a meeting with the Emperor at Baden-Baden at the end of this month. —[London Truth.

Trout Fishing in Wisconsin.

Postmaster-General Vilas tells us that he found the fishing better in Wisconsin this fall than ever before. "When I get back to Washington," says he, "I am going to compare notes with the President and I am confident that he will regret that he didn't make the Western trip with me instead of going to the Adirondacks. I was at Geneva Lake three days, and in one afternoon I caught 143 trout. I found that they bit better along about sundown. Old General Bragg was with me, and we tried fishing for the trout without hooks; that is to say, we tied a big piece of raw meat on the end of our lines and let out the lines till the bait touched bottom. It was a clever scheme and we pulled in the trout as fast as we could wish. They were a mighty game fish.—[Chicago News.

A Challenge to Maud S.

I would like to match my gas meter against Maud S. I have thought about writing to Mr. Bonner before, but did not wish to take an unfair advantage of him; but I will make the conditions anything that will be satisfactory to him, only I must reserve the right to let the gas meter go as he pleases, for he will do that any way. Only I warn Mr. Bonner that my gas meter is a thoroughbred, and has been in training for several years, and the more he is trained the faster he goes. When he gets down to business and makes a spurt, their is no horse in the country that can hold a candle to him.—[Brooklyn Times.

Color-Blind in One Eye.

Examiner—What is the color of this flag? Engineer—Green, sir. "Right. Now close your left eye. What is the color of this flag?" "Green, sir; dark green." "Just so. Shut your right eye. What flag am I waving now?" "A black one, sir." "Nonsense; it's a bright red. And this flag?" "Black, sir." "Pshaw! It's white. Your left eye seems a little off." "Well, may be it is; it's a glass eye, sir."—[Taunton Gazette.

The Latest Cut.

A youngster of five was sent to the nearest barber-shop to have his hair cut.

"How do you want it cut?" asked the barber; "all mowed off for the summer?"

"No, I want it cut with a hole in it, like papa's."—[Boston Record.

"Alderney Dairy Wagons."
