DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES AND MEASURES.

A strict construction of the Constitution, and no assumption of doubtful powers.

A Diplomacy asking for nothing but what is clearly right and submitting to nothing wrong.

No connexion between the government and banks.

An ad valorem revenue tariff.

No public debt, either by the General Government or by the States, except for objects of urgent necessity.

No assumption by the General Government of the debts of the States, either directly or indirectly, by a distribution of the proceeds of the public lands.

No extensive system of Internal Improvement by the General Government or by the States.

A constitutional barrier against improvident State loans.

The honest payment of our debts and the sacred preservation of the public faith.

A gradual return from a paper credit system.

No grants of exclusive charters and privileges by special legislation to banks.

No swindling corporations.

No connexion between Church and State.

A preference for Democrats over Whigs for every office.

Acquiescence in the rule of the majority in all cases of party discipline.

No proscription for honest opinions.

Fostering aid to public education.

A "progressive" reformation of all abuses.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF THE GREAT ROTHSCHILD.—We yesterday dined at Ham-house, to meet the Rothschilds; and very amusing it was. He (Rothschild,) told us his life and adventures. He was the third son of the banker at Frankfort. "There was not," he said, "room enough for us all in that city. I dealt in English goods. One great trader came there, who had the market to himself: he was quite the great man, and did us a favor if he sold us goods. Some how I offended him, and he refused to show me his patterns. This was on a Tuesday; I said to my father, 'I will go to England.' I could speak but German. On the Thursday I started. The nearer I got to England the cheaper goods were. As soon as I got to Manchester I laid out all my money, things were so cheap. I made good profit. I soon found that there were three profits—the raw material, the dyeing; and the manufacturing. I said to the manufacturer, 'I will supply you with material and dye, and you supply me with manufactured goods.' So I got three profits instead of one, and I could sell goods cheaper than any body. In a short time I made my £20,000 into £60,000. My success all turned on one maxim. I said, I can do what another man can; and so I am a match for the man with the patterns, and for all the rest of them! Another advantage I had. I was an off-hand man. I made a bargain at once. When I was settled in London, the East India Company had 800,000 pounds of gold to sell. I went to the sale, and bought it all. I knew the Duke of Wellington must have it. I had bought a great many of his bills at a discount. The government sent for me, and said they must have it. When they had got it, they did not know how to get it to Portugal. I undertook all that, and I sent it through France; and that was the best business I ever did." Another maxim, on which he seemed to place great reliance, was, never to have anything to do with an unlucky place or an unlucky man. "I have seen," said he, "many very clever men, who had not shoes to their feet. I never act with them. Their advice sounds very well; but fate is against them: they cannot get on themselves: and if they cannot do good to themselves, how can they do good to me!" By aid of these maxims he has acquired three millions of money. "I hope," said—— ——"that your children are not too fond of money and business, to the exclusion of more important things. I am sure you would wish that. Rothschild—"I am sure I should wish that. I wish them to give mind, and soul, and heart, and body, and everything to business; that is the way to be happy. It requires a great deal of boldness, and a great deal of caution, to make a great fortune; and when you have got it, it requires ten times as much wit to keep it. If I were to listen to all the projects proposed to me, I should ruin myself very soon. Stick to one business, young man," said he to Edward; "stick to your brewery, and you may be the great brewer of London. Be a brewer, and a banker, and a merchant and a manufacturer, and you will soon be in the Gazette. One of my neighbors is a very ill-tempered man; he tries to vex me, and has built a great place for swine, close to my walk. So when I go out, I hear first grunt, grunt, squeak, squeak; but this does me no harm. I am always in good humor. Sometimes, to amuse myself, I give a beggar a guinea. He thinks it is a mistake, and for fear I should find it out, off he runs as hard as he can. I advise you to give a beggar a guinea sometimes, it is very amusing."—Memoirs of Sir Thomas Fowell Buxton.

MEDICAL FACTS.—Merchants generally die of the billious, printers of the typhus and brokers of the remittent fever.

Masons usually go off with stone, gravel or dropsy.

Abolitionists and colliers always die of the black vomit.

Most tailors leave the world in fits—though their customers rarely do.

Disappointed actors usually die of mortification.

If an editor is unwell you may be sure there is something wrong in the circulation.

Misers are frequently troubled with the gripes and pains in the chest.

Seamstresses suffer much from stitches in the side.

Some of our benevolent men are frequently attacked with inflammation of the bowels.

The children of coopers are never free from the hooping cough.

Lovers have a palpitation of the heart, and expectorate too much. The best remedy is a strong solution of Sal Soda.

Our congressional orators are never troubled with shortness of breath, although flatulence is not uncommon:

Dyers are subject to the blues and scarlet fever, and clock makers to the tic doloureux.

Glaziers are never without pains.

Brewers are constantly ailing.

The King's Evil is not known in this country, and is becoming rare even in Europe.

"My dear," said Mrs. Dalrymple, to her gay young husband, after he had retired to rest, early one morning, "why is it that Mr. Brown, who is in the same business that you are, passes all his evenings at home, while you are hallucinating about town till past midnight?" "Why, my sweet rose, the cause is—hie'—the cause is, Brown is not married!"

GENERAL AGENCY AND INTELLIGENCE OFFICE.

THE undersigned, believing that an office of the above description is wanting in this rapidly increasing city, at the solicitation of several of the citizens, propose giving his entire attention and services to the same, and will immediately open books to the entry of all lands, houses and lots to be sold, leased or tenanted, or for the disposal of all personal property, merchandise, &c. a particular description of which will be made where and how it can be had; the chain of title, &c. &c.: such persons as may wish to hire, by application at this office, can have their names taken, age, qualification, employment, &c.; by this means they may obtain employment much sooner, and a better home, as house-keepers will no doubt gladly avail themselves of examining the list, to find such as they may want.

All persons or companies having taxes to pay or debts to collect, or property to take care of in this city, by application to the undersigned, will receive his strict and careful attention.

To farmers or others having large lots of produce, hogs, cattle, sheep, or horses, can, for a trifle, find speedy sale, as by this means those who may wish to purchase, by calling at this office, can be directed to the seller.

For the want of such an office as the above, there are many persons both in town and country no doubt, who have property long remaining on their hands the way it now open; strangers and others calling at this office will see at once where these things may be had.

Office above J. F. Hill's store, where there are three large and commodious rooms for the reception of merchandise or produce for sale. All charges for his services shall be reasonable. Any reference necessary can at any time be given.

Indianapolis, June 1, 1848. 113tf ISAAC N. PHIPPS.

MADISON AND INDIANAPOLIS RAILROAD.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

ON and after Monday, May 1st, 1848, the Passenger Cars will leave Madison and Indianapolis daily, (Sundays excepted,) as follows, viz:

Leave Madison at 7 o'clock A. M., and arrive in Indianapolis at about 12, 50. P. M.

Leave Indianapolis at 7½ o'clock A. M., and arrive in Madison, at about 1. 35. P. M.

Freight trains run daily leaving Madison and Indianapolis at 5 o'clock A. M.

All Freight for the Northern Station must be at the depot at Madison by 3 o'clock, to insure its shipment the succeeding day.

May, 1848. 81 tf HENRY R. HALL, Sup't.

Regular Packet Line FROM MADISON TO CINCINNATI.

In connection with the M. & I. Railroad.

THE new and splendid steamer WISCONSIN, T. T. Wright, Master, will leave Madison every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, on the arrival of the cars at half past one o'clock, P. M., and will leave Cincinnati every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 12 o'clock, M.

MADISON BELLE will leave Madison every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday at 11 o'clock, A. M., and will leave Cincinnati every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, at 12 o'clock, M.

Passengers coming in on the cars will find it greatly to their advantage to take this line of boats, as they can always be furnished with a good state room. Also, in coming from Cincinnati, and all intermediate ports, to take the cars, they will find this line the cheapest, as they can remain on board all night free of charge.
