DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES AND MEASURES.

A strict construction of the Constitution, and no assumption of doubtful powers.

A Diplomacy asking for nothing but what is clearly right and submitting to nothing wrong.

No connexion between the government and banks.

An ad valorem revenue-tariff.

No public debt, either by the General Government or by the States, except for objects of urgent necessity.

No assumption by the General Government of the debts of the States, either directly or indirectly, by a distribution of the proceeds of the public lands.

No extensive system of Internal Improvement by the General Government or by the States.

A constitutional barrier against improvident State loans.

The honest payment of our debts and the sacred preservation of the public faith.

A gradual return from a paper credit system.

No grants of exclusive charters and privileges by special legislation to banks.

No swindling corporations.

No connexion between Church and State.

A preference for Democrats over Whigs for every office.

Acquiescence in the rule of the majority in all cases of party discipline.

No proscription for honest opinions.

Fostering aid to public education.

A "progressive" reformation of all abuses.

A Domestic Picture.

BY OLIVER GOLDSMITH.

Blest be that spot, where cheerful guests retire
To pause from toil, and trim their evening fire;
Blest that abode, where want and pain repair,
And every stranger finds a ready chair;
Blest be those feats with simple plenty crowned,
Where all the ruddy family around
Laugh at the jests or pranks that never fail,
Or sigh with pity at some mournful tale;
Or press the bashful stranger to his food,
And learn the luxury of doing good.

More Truth than Poetry.

Want sense, and the world will o'erlook it;
Want feeling, 'twill find some excuse;
But if the world knows you want money,
You are certain to get its abuse.
The wisest advice in existence,
Is ne'er on its kindness to call:
The best way to get its assistance,
Is to show you don't need it at all.

A Child's Laugh.

'I love it, I love it—the laugh of the child;
Now ripling and gentle, now merry and wild;
Ringing out on the air with its innocent gush,
Like the thrill of a bird at the soft twilight's hush;
Floating upon the breeze like the tones of a bell,
Or the music that swells in the heart of a shell—
Oh! the laugh of a child, so wild and so free,
Is the merriest sound in the world for me!'

LAW LATIN.—The New Orleans Picayune, Boston Courier, and the Mobile Register are all cross purposes in discussion upon the singular and plural of certain Latin terms. The denfends the use of ommibi as the plural of omnibus, against the Boston Courier, in the following perspicuous manner:

"Law Latin is good Latin enough to hang a man on, or clear one on too. Hence law Latin is the usefulest Latin that is. Does the Courier know whence the term alibi? Alibi means two places; for generally the defence is set up for persons who commit crimes in one place when they are in another place—ergo, omnibi is good."

To this the Mobile Register says:—

"Ergo, by the same rule, the singular of alibi must be alibus; omnibus, omnibi, alibus, alibi—good. If, in the Picayune Latin, alibi means two places it must take alibus to mean one place. Therefore, if a man is acquitted on showing that he was 'elsewhere' than in the place charged, let it be said, on the authority of the Picayune, that he had proved an alibus"

The Picayune here rejoins:—

"When the Mobile Register says that alibi is the plural of alibus, the Mobile Register says well; but when it says that when a man proves he was elsewhere than at the place where a crime was committed, at the time it was committed, he proves an alibus, the Register says not well; for the prosecution proves in the first instance that the man did commit the crime, and was at the place where it was committed—the prosecution proves the alibus, and the man afterwards proves another alibus, which is to say, proves an alibi. Good law Latin. Would the Register say that when the prosecution proves the locus and the defence another locus, that the two together prove two locuses? Not good."

The Register's reply to the Picayune's rejoinder is this:

"Learnedly argued—we listen and we learn. But have patience with us, good Picayune, while we ask another question, just for instruction. In this new school of the classics, wherein you are distinguishing yourself as a teacher, there are some matters which we do not comprehend. If on your rule the plural of omnibus is omnibi what is the plural of omnibus rebus? Is it omnibi rebi? Enlighten our ignorance, but don't ask us any questions."

The Boston Post says:

"The word is completely Anglicised, whatever its origin, and omnibuses is the proper plural in the case. We have spoken."

SCOLDING.—A great deal of injury is done to children by their parents scolding. Many children have been nearly or quite driven out of doors, and often driven from home, to become vagabonds and wanderers, by scolding. It sours your temper, provided it is sweet, which is a question; if you scold, the more you will have to scold, and because you have become crosser, and your children likewise. Scolding alienates the hearts of your children. Depend upon it, they cannot love you as well after berating them, as they did before. You may approach them with firmness and decision, you may punish them with severity adequate to the nature of their offences, and they will feel the justice of your conduct and love you notwithstanding all. But they hate scolding. It stirs up bad blood, while it discloses your weakness, and lowers you in their estimation. Especially at night, when they are about to retire, their hearts should be melted and moulded with voices of kindness, that they may go to their slumbers with thoughts of love stealing around their souls, and whispering peace.—New York Evangelist.

GOOD.—A good story is told of Senator Allen, at Philadelphia. When on board the boat, and about to leave the city Gen. Cass, being fatigued, requested Senator Allen to return his acknowledgments to the crowd which had accompanied him to the wharf. Mr. Allen ascended the deck and commenced. The Captain of a steamboat which had come in loaded with whig delegates, undertook to drown his voice by letting off steam. Allen's voice raised, and so did the noise of the steampipe, and thus they had it, whistle steamboat, scream Allen; but the stentorian lungs of the latter prevailed; and far above the noise of the engine was heard the trumpet-toned voice of the tall Senator. The captain gave it up—swearing that it was the first time his boat was ever beat. Talk no more about the bull that was butted off the bridge by a locomotive, when a western democrat can talk down a steamboat!—N. Y. Herald.

HOW TO REGULATE A CLOCK OR A WATCH.—Observe through a small hole in a window shutter the time any fixed star disappears behind a chimney, or any other object at a small distance; and if on the succeeding night it comes to the meridian 3 minutes 56 seconds sooner by the clock or watch, and on the next night 7 minutes 52 seconds sooner, the next 11 minutes 48 seconds sooner, and so on for every night, sooner in that proportion, your watch is right. In one month the variation from the first observation will be two hours, in three months six hours, in six months twelve hours, in nine months eighteen hours, and in twelve months twenty-four hours.

A man tried in Boston for stealing a horse and wagon, when called upon to speak for himself, said: "I have nothing to say in particular. The fact is, when I get half or two-thirds drunk, I think every thing belongs to me."

Whereupon the Boston Post makes this memorandum, in the way of parenthesis:

"There are some very sober people who act as if they think just as Joe does when he is drunk."

A FORCED SMILE.—An exchange paper describing a smile which one man gave to another as thanks for a favor received, says, "it was such a smile as one might suppose would result from screwing an inch auger through the spine of a man's back."

State of Indiana, Marion County, Set.

IN THE MARION CIRCUIT COURT, FOR OCTOBER TERM, 1848.

Sarah A. Gilles vs. Abraham H. Gilles.

Petition for Divorce and Alimony.

THE said Sarah Gilles did, on July 19th, 1848, file in the office of the clerk of the Marion circuit court, her petition against the said Abraham H. Gilles in the above entitled cause, also the affidavit of a disinterested person, showing that said Abraham is not a resident of the State of Indiana, of all which the said Abraham is hereby notified, and he is further notified that said suit now pending in said court, that unless he appear and plead to or answer said petition on or before the calling of the cause at the next term of said court, the same and the several matters and things therein contained as set forth will be taken as confessed, and held as true against him.

Attest, R. B. DUNCAN, Clerk.

July 19, 1848.

O. H. SMITH, Sol. for petitioner. 15-3w

In the Marion Circuit Court.

John Freeman and Letitia Freeman, his wife, vs. Samuel Brown.

Trespass on the case for Slanderous Words spoken, &c.

IN the above case, at the June term of the said Marion circuit court, in the year 1848, the parties came into said court and filed the following written statement by the defendant Brown, to wit:

"Freeman et ux. vs. Samuel Brown.

"Now comes the said parties and said Samuel utterly denies that he ever charged the said Letitia of a want of chastity, as in said declaration alleged, and he now hereby admits that he has no reason to believe that said Letitia is so guilty.

Witness, SAMUEL BROWN, his X mark.
H. O'NEAL."

In pursuance of which and the agreement of the parties, the suit was dismissed at defendant's cost.

In witness of which I, Robert B. Duncan, clerk of said court hereunto affix the seal thereof, and subscribe my name at Indianapolis, this 17th day of July, A. D. 1848.

[L. S.] R. B. DUNCAN.

15-3m

In the Marion Circuit Court.

John Freeman and Letitia Freeman, his wife, vs. Samuel Brown and Sarah Brown, his wife.

Trespass on the case for Slanderous Words spoken, &c.

IN the above case, at the June term, in the year 1848, of the said Marion circuit court, the above parties came into said court and filed the following written statement, to wit:

"John Freeman and Letitia Freeman, his wife, vs. Samuel Brown and Sarah, his wife.

"Now come the said parties, and the said Sarah denies that she ever imputed a want of chastity to said Letitia, as in said declaration alleged, and she freely admits that she has no reason to believe that said Letitia is so guilty. SARAH BROWN, her X mark.

Witness, Hugh O'Neal."

In pursuance of which, and the agreement of the parties, the above cause was dismissed at the costs of the defendants.

In witness of which I, Robert B. Duncan, clerk of said court hereunto affix the seal of said court and subscribe my name at Indianapolis, this 17th day of July, 1848.

[L. S.] R. B. DUNCAN.
