THE ATTENTION

Of Parties seeking a Good, Safe Investment is called to the adjoining subdivision of Burleith, which we are authorized to put upon the market. This property lies well, is

HIGH, DRY AND HEALTHY!

Overlooks the entire City and surrounding Country. The view is indeed superb. The broad and

Beautiful Potomac, Arlington, Insane Asylum,
Alexandria, Episcopal High School,
Forts Foote and Washington,

And other points of interest being plainly visible.

Its close proximity to the street cars, to the thickly populated portion of our City, and being directly in the line of permanent and substantial improvements, closely located to the President's "Red Top," to Secretary Whitney's and to the Massachusetts Avenue Extension, will commend this property largely in preference to any other now upon the market. We are confident investments now made will double themselves in a very short time.

The Princess of Wales' Gown. A prominent society lady in New York is having a costume made that will cause all the other social leaders to turn green with envy. She has received information about a handsome dress that the Princess of Wales has just had made, and is going to have one exactly like it. She recently told a reporter for the Mail and Express how the costume is to be built. It is tailor-made, principally of blue and white striped cloth. The skirt has a foundation of blue velvet, embroidered with white silk spots, while the overskirt is composed of the cloth draped in a costly style, the right being caught up with a blue and white silk girdle to match, while the left side opens the entire length to show a panel of embroidered velvet. A tabit-shaped waist buttons diagonally across the front with a high collar and full scarf waistcoat of the velvet. There is an overjacket of novel design made of the same cloth and trimmed to match the costume.
