GRAND ARMY POLITICS.

address to the graduating St. John's College, Fordham, r day, General John Newton caution to express his opinion of licians who have found their the various associations of and are using their opportuni- partisan ends. Nor was there eral phraseology in his remarks. that the late war developed two ol soldiers. "The real soldier, ntered into the war to take its d do his whole duty, realizing gations and responsibilities, and tical speculators, who embarked war mainly for selfish motives, eaded to avoid as many risks as e, not from deficiency of cour- t in order to outlive his term of and satisfy his ambition for nd preferment." Unfortunately country the political soldier did ay down his arms," so to speak, he war was over, but kept on s machine. Says General Newnecessarily active in all the associa- the veterans of the war to take ad- of any event which appeals to senti- prejudice. He joins an association intent and hope of making a poli- chine of it, while proclaiming in pub- entire freedom of the organization litics. Late events have unmasked secrecy of this pretention by the gross offered to the Chief Magistrate of the n in two instances—in Iowa and in this ington. In both the attempt was scarcely with disguise, to turn over anization to the support of one of the al parties, and thus to better the pros- f the agitators. Should this barefaced succeed, it would then be a close on whether such organizations are com- with the free working of our system ernment, and whether it does not be- he honorable members of that organ- to abandon it.

becomes the members of the Grand to take this language into serious deration. The record of General on is such that he is entitled to hat he pleases, and what he says itled to respectful attention.

have noticed, however, that the- ician of the Grand Army is not ys a Republican. There are in- ces where he wears Democratic s, and is quite as offensive as any r man who makes his connection the Grand Army his stock in e.

ow, it is not to be expected of the bers of the Grand Army that they have no politics. They are cit- free to speak, free to vote, free to to men who [illegible] rently seek occasion for political ociety, or to others like General child, who display at times an in- erance of partisanship which never s well in a true soldier.

he Grand Army veteran occupies a tion which demands of him a pe- ar exemplification of disinterested otism as opposed to machine poli-

He should be the type and nym of loyalty under all circum- ces—loyalty to the Government, ty to the flag, loyalty to the Con- tion and the laws and those who pecially designated by the people minister them. It was his to aid in the perpetuation of it should be his abiding am- observe the obligations of that pact of States and maintain pence, fraternity and domestic uility which it was designed to ote and insure.

E new Postal Treaty with Mexico into effect to-day and from the ern border of Canada to the eramost point of Mexico, uniform l rates are established for a letter d in the United States. To the Mex- nails all matter subject to mail portation in this country is ad- able, and an example is thus set Canada and the Central and American countries are quite o follow. The day is rapidly ap- ching for an American Postal surpassing in many respects any al convention in the history nable relations. It will be re- ered that Mr. N. M. Hall, the tendent of Foreign Mails, in annual report, called special to the importance of better relations with Mexico, and the s now accomplished are due in no part to the earnestness and prac- ability of his recommendations.

board for the [illegible] of army ms has taken up the protest of ng against army [illegible] on Sunday. The discussion is which General Sherman took recent interest. He maintained ar Sunday mass parade was an tion that throughout the country had been universally lized and approved. In support statement it is observed that there t and never had been a mother land who did not make a Sunday arade of her children.

Civil Service Commission re- that of thirty men and twenty- women, clerks in the Quarter- General's office, examined for tion, all but six men and two succeeded in attaining the re- percentage. It is further stated ter the examination papers had ssed upon the results were com- with the marks for efficiency in ently made by the chiefs. Upon this comparison the clerks were found to have attained almost exactly the same percentages in the examinations as had been credited to them for efficiency, thus indicating that the examinations must have been not only reasonable and in good faith, but well adapted to testing the merits of the clerks examined. The results of this first examination will do more than all the discussion, so widely indulged in, to establish this new feature of civil service administration.

"This is a dull season in Washington," says the Courier-Journal, "and whenever a Democratic Senator arrives there it is straightway telegraphed to the country that he is to succeed Mr. Lamar as secretary of the Interior, when the latter shall have been promoted to the Supreme Bench." So far as heard from, however, Mr. Cleveland has expressed no intention of letting Mr. Lamar out of his Cabinet. He is making an excellent Secretary of the Interior, and it is much to be doubted if the President desires to part with him.

The State Commissioners of Charities of New York are investigating the management of the City Insane Asylum on Ward's Island and unfolding a chapter of brutality, that in this boasted age of enlightenment is scarcely conceivable. Drunkenness and cruelty appear to be the chief characteristics of the keepers, according to the testimony thus far adduced, and general inefficiency the crowning virtue of the superintendent. But, of course, there are two sides to the story, and one of them is likely to be well whitewashed.

Mr. Tarbox, the Comptroller of the Currency, makes a reassuring report of the bank situation throughout the country. Speculative bubbles had been blown, East and West, which had to burst before the financial atmosphere could become clear, and the wheat crank and the Wall street flurry afforded the necessary relief. The banks are none the worse for these agitations, and the situation is in every respect bright and promising.

The imaginative special correspondents have fixed upon nearly every day in the next three months for the President's departure for some attractive resort or political centre. The President has cut off the earliest dates by announcing that he will limit his travels to the drive from the White House to Oak View until July 12, when he will go to Clinton, New York.

It is remarked by a New York paper, as something peculiarly worthy of remark, that "more than a hundred new doctors—of divinity, laws, philosophy, and humane letters—have been made within a week." It must be taken into consideration that clients, patients, and sinners are increasing in about the same proportion.

Fifty-nine railroads reported an increase of earnings for the second week of June. Reports for the third week are to about the same effect—the earnings increase, of course the kicking against the Interstate Commerce law will decrease.

NOTES AND GOSSIP.

It is a curious fact that the only men who know just how a newspaper should be conducted are generally engaged in some other business.—[Puck.

The antimony mines, Sevier County, Arkansas, in which operations were started about a week ago, are yielding handsomely, with considerable silver intermixed.

Gen. Blanchard, Surveyor of Portland, [illegible] some time, [illegible] not he will [illegible] to the duties of his office.

Manager John Stetson of the Boston Globe Theatre was married yesterday to Miss Katharine Stokes, formerly a noted equestrienne with Barnum's circus and latterly an actress.

A book entitled "Fifty Years a Queen," written by Mrs. Katherine Hodges of Jersey City, has been presented to Queen Victoria by Mrs. Caroline W. Romney, an American journalist.

At a concert given in Paris Monday evening for the benefit of the Confederate Monument Fund of Kentucky, Miss Currie Duke of Louisville, the eminent young violinist, made a great success.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has three plans under consideration for his proposed baronial castle at Cresson, Pa., but will make no selection until he returns from his bridal trip. The estimated cost of his castle is $250,000.

The Hendricks Association of St. Louis are arranging for an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration. It will be held at Forest Park, and the programme includes salutes, anthems, orations, music, fireworks and the Declaration of Independence.

Says General James S. Robinson, Secretary of State of Ohio: "The State only owes $2,000,000, which can be settled at any time. Ohio never was in a better condition financially, and the people generally are prosperous. Politically, the State is for Sherman, and so are Indiana, Wisconsin and Missouri."

Charles W. Smith, vice-president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, was formerly on the Chesapeake and Ohio and has been thirty years in the railroad business. The Chicago Mail says one of his superstitions is a fancy for the number 99. This is the number of his private car, and he will travel in no other.

NEW BOOKS RECEIVED.

From Wm. Ballantyne & Son, 428 Seventh street:

Courtships and Our Neighbors: Short Chats on Social Topics. By Louise Chandler Moulton, author of "Idle Time Stories," "Some Women's Hearts," "Random Rambles," etc. Boston: Roberts Brothers.

From the Publisher:

How the Dominie Bit Dr. Rules for Behavior in Children as they prevailed a hundred years ago, with illustrations to suit. William H. Morrison, 478 Pennsylvania avenue.

From the Publishers:

A Branch of May. Poems by Lizette Woodworth Reese. Baltimore: Cushings & Bailey.

A modest little volume—scarce forty pages—yet many a sprightly and dainty bit of verse will be found within its cool, linen covers. Miss Reese has written some of the prettiest things in the language and is a lady of marked poetic gifts. Here is one of her sonnets, as complete a picture as was ever drawn:

A Summer Afternoon.

The long and still week's wind, like any quiet
Has settled itself to sleep. This morning's rain
Has strewn the stairway with the petals wild,
Red, ragged, of my sweet-pea vine. The lane
Shows me the poplar tree, thickened and hoary,
Clapped to its heart a dangling empty nest.
A few dull yellow leaves stir here and there,
And all the air is clear from east to west.
The year, I think, lies dreaming of the May,
As old men dream of youth, that lord of lost things.
A spring-like thrill is in the weather gray.
I wait to hear some bird begin to sing;
And half expect, as up and down I go,
To see my neighbor's cherry trees a-blow.

WHY, INDEED!

Why continue to sweter in heavy clothes when we have provided such a world of light and breezy garments with which, for a very small outlay of money, you can make life enjoyable during the heated term? You'll have to come to it some time. Why not now while the stock is full and the sizes all complete? Serges, Linens, Alpacas, Mohairs, Sicilians, Pongees, Seersuckers, Zephyr-weight Cassimeres, Cheviotcens, Drap d'Etes, Nuns' Cloth, etc., etc., in single garments, Coats and Vests and entire Suits.

Think of a Seersucker COAT and VEST for One Dollar, sizes 36 to 42. Not in one, but twenty different patterns. That's what you can find here—and only here—and everything else as low in proportion. Do you think then 'twill pay you to keep on wearing heavy clothing such weather as this? Hardly. The finest and richest of light-weight fabrics for midsummer wear are to be found here in abundance, such as Japanese Silk Coats and Vests, White Flannel Suits and Lawn Tennis Suits in the most pronounced patterns. All these stylish and comfortable styles are by our reasonable prices placed within the reach of all. Delay no longer then, but come right here and make living a pleasure while you may. Notice our handsome display of White and Fancy Vests in show window, Seventh-street front.
