ADVICES FROM THE ORIENT.

Japan Has Decided to Resist Russian Aggression.

Preparing to Drive the Czar's Troops From Corean Territory.

Rebels Increasing in Power Daily in Chungking Province, China, and Committing Atrocities of Every Sort and Kind, Plundering Towns and Massacreing Hundreds of People.

VICTORIA (B. C.), Nov. 28. — The steamer Glenogle has arrived here after a tempestuous passage, bringing an interesting budget of news from the restless East. From Tien Tsin comes news which shows that Japan has decided to resist Russian aggression. She is preparing to drive the Czar's troops from Corea, and to this end large detachments of troops are being landed in the hermit kingdom.

News is also at hand from Tien Tsin that a large number of Japanese spies have been captured by the Russians at Port Arthur and shot. Seven Japanese, all officers of the imperial Japanese army, were taken, and on their persons were found drawings of the principal fortifications. But a day elapsed after their capture before they were marched out before a firing party of Russians and similarly shot.

The rebels in Chungking, according to advices by the Glenogle, are increasing in power daily. The Tung Liang and How Chow Chow Railway is completely under their control. They have compelled well-to-do people to provide them with money and provisions, and are making weapons day and night. Merchants in Kiang have wired to Shanghai and other ports stopping the shipment of goods. The rebels are daily committing atrocities of every sort and kind. One of their leaders, Yii, went to the Governor of Lung Shui Chin and demanded a large sum of money and was refused, and the rebels, 2,000 strong, plundered the town, killing hundreds.

Two days afterward they went to Tung Liang and demolished all the houses of the Christians, and mascred those who tried to escape, with shocking brutality. Then they declared that they had gone to that city especially to oppose foreigners and Christians. Others, they said, were not to be molested unless they offered resistance.

Two French priests and a missionary of the C. M. S. had gone to the magistrate's yemen for shelter, and late in the afternoon the rebels went to the magistrate and asked that they be delivered up. The magistrate refused, but he afterward relented and allowed the rebels to enter the yemen to take the missionaries. The Methodist drew a revolver and he was at once killed. The two French priests were bound and carried away as prisoners. The rebels then retired to Wang Choa Tung. They are, it is said, seizing and murdering Christians daily.

According to the reports from Chemulpo, matters have reached a grave crisis in Corea. The Emperor is being worried to death with petitions by the Independence Club, which is forcing his hand to dismiss some of the higher Ministers, when the whole phalanx of the Independence Club will invade the palace and take charge of the Government's affairs.

The execution of the unfortunates accused of the attempt to poison the Emperor was a ghastly affair. The doomed were taken from a scaffold on which they were to have been executed by a mob. Then began one of the most gruesome exhibitions of savagery and bloodthirstiness ever seen in any land. The condemned men were actually torn to pieces by the mob, and even when life was extinct the most devilish indignities imaginable were heaped on the mangled and bleeding remains.

Considerable excitement prevails in Pekin among the Manchu faction over the action of the Empress Dowager in bestowing upon Tsai Chi, Prince of Tuan, and Prince Tsai Lien with a sword called the "Shang Fand" sword, which carries with it the right to behead any person regardless of rank or dignity without first asking permission from the throne. This is to guard against sudden signs of treachery. Although the Shang Fand sword has been an institution of the country ever since the earliest Chinese history, it has only been bestowed once before during the present dynasty, when the Mongol General, Si Shang, was appointed by the late Emperor Hsien Feng special generalissimo of the imperial forces acting against the Tiping rebels.

The "Japanese Times," speaking of the critical state of affairs at Pekin, says: "The real fear in the heart of the Empress is that the Manchu dynasty will go the way of previous dynasties, so she clings to Russia as her strongest support."

The Japanese Government has ordered another new battleship, which is to be constructed by Messrs. Vickers Sons & Maxim of the naval construction works, Barrowin-Furness, at a cost of £930,000. It will exceed anything yet built in size and in offensive and defensive qualities. It will be over 15,000 tons' displacement.

Disquieting rumors come from Hinoura, Shirikishi, Uchimura, Oshima, where people are subsisting on bamboo roots and other herbs owing to the scarcity of rice, and the sardine fisheries, which heretofore have furnished lucrative occupation, but have proven a failure this season. The people are on the eve of an outbreak, and most stringent measures have been taken by the Government to prevent an uprising. Steps have been taken to ship the necessary supplies until such time as they can resume their usual avocations.

The Chinese Government has issued a special gazette prohibiting importation of Japanese yen into Pahang district. The cause assigned for such action is that the Pahang province is bitter against the Japanese Government and will not recognize the coin of the realm.

Among the Glenogle's passengers was Captain Frederick Keye, Company B, First North Dakota Volunteers, who left Manila October 26th on a leave of absence.

EXPLOSION AT HAVANA.

Thirty-Eight Persons Killed or More or Less Seriously Injured.

HAVANA, Nov. 28.—A box of powder exploded this morning near the Reina Battery, killing or injuring a large number of persons.

The explosion occurred on the Avenue Infanta, between the Santa Clara and Reina batteries. Many boxes of powder were stored in a private house, which also contained five rooms full of Mauser and other cartridges. The careless handling of one of the boxes of powder or of one of the boxes of cartridges caused the explosion, which killed or more or less seriously injured thirty-eight persons.

CORBETT-SHARKEY FIGHT.

INQUIRY INTO CHARGES OF A JOB HELD.

McVey Jumped Into the Ring Because He Thought Corbett Was Being Beaten.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—James J. Corbett declared to-day that he believed Connie McVey innocent of any intentional or prearranged wrong-doing when he entered the ring during the ninth round of the Sharkey-Corbett contest last Tuesday night, and consequently forfeited the contest to Sharkey.

This statement on Corbett's part was made at the close of the inquiry which was instituted by the Directors of the Lenox Athletic Club to fix the responsibility for McVey's actions. The inquiry, or investigation, took place in the presence of a large number of sporting men, the principals, with their handlers, and the club officials being present. The only absentee was McVey, whose invasion of the ring caused all the trouble. It was said that McVey had left the city, but his whereabouts could not be ascertained.

State Senator Timothy D. Sullivan, representing the Lenox Athletic Club, acted as chief inquisitor, and invited any and all of those present to ask whatever questions they pleased of the witnesses.

W. B. Gray, Kid McCoy's manager, was the first witness. He said that six or seven days before the fight while in company with McCoy he met two representatives of local newspapers in the Astoria. He told them that a friend of his, whose name he was not at liberty to disclose, had informed him that the bout was to end in the ninth round, and that Sharkey would be declared the winner.

Senator Sullivan asked Gray to produce his informer, and promised to give $500 to any charitable institution if Gray would bring his man and have him repeat the assertion. Gray left the building, promising to try and get his friend to reiterate the statement.

"Honest" John Kelly, the referee, said: "Up to the ninth round I thought it was an even thing, and I firmly believe that there was no faking on the part of the principals, who were fighting to the best of their ability. As to McVey's actions, I believed then and as still of the opinion that McVey was 'had' by some person or persons. The reason that I declared all bets off was to protect the public, as it was clear to me that McVey's interfering was a prearranged plan. I cannot say who 'had' McVey. I don't believe that he got into the ring to save Corbett from defeat."

George Considine, Corbett's manager, was emphatic in his denial of any knowledge of a put-up job.

Charley White, Corbett's trainer, said he knew nothing of any deal or job, and that no man in the world could get him to be a party to any crooked work. He knew nothing of McVey's intentions until Connie had jumped into the ring and declared dramatically "I would kill anyone, if necessary, to prevent such an infringement of the rules."

Tom O'Rourke, Sharkey's manager, thought Sharkey had undoubtedly the best of the fight. In fact, Sharkey was the only one in it. "All I am sorry for," he said, "is that the contest ended as it did, but such a thing cannot occur at the club again, as a new rule has been made. In case any man attempts to enter the ring of the future he will be promptly arrested, and the fight will be continued and decided on its merits."

O'Rourke denied all knowledge of any telegrams or documentary evidence which would tend to show collusion, and stated that the amount of money which Sharkey received was $16,845, while Corbett's share was $6,845. These sums were made up of 75 and 25 per cent. of a $20,000 purse, and 50 per cent. of the receipts exceeding $40,000.

While O'Rourke was making his statement Corbett and Sharkey growled and snarled at each other, but they desisted when requested by Senator Sullivan.

Sharkey, on his own behalf, stated that the fight was "on the level." He went into the ring to win, and was convinced that he would have knocked out Corbett in another round had the fight gone on.

Corbett, the last witness, said: "I won't believe McVey was bought. He has been with me for many years. I have supported him, and he has eaten my bread and butter. After we returned to my dressing-room on Tuesday night McVey said to my brother Tom, 'I could not see the big fellow licked, and I got into the ring. That is all there was to it.' I had the better of the fight from the second round."

Senator Sullivan reviewed the evidence, and said: "It seems that McVey thought Corbett was being beaten, and jumped into the ring to save him. No evidence to the contrary is forthcoming, and the Directors have done all that they could do to set the matter right in the eyes of the public. As to the bets, we have nothing further to do with them."

This ended the inquiry so far as the club was concerned.

After it was over Corbett declared that Sharkey should give him another fight, and O'Rourke promised to give the Californian a chance.

It is said that an attempt to calculate the value of the gold in the Rand district of the Transvaal has shown that there remains about 600,000,000 tons of alluvial, worth say, £1,000,000,000.

Lowell on Spanish Politics.

The November "Century" prints a number of hitherto unpublished official dispatches written by James Russell Lowell when he was Minister at Madrid, with a prefatory note on Spanish politics by Hon. A. A. Adee. In one of his dispatches, Lowell says:

There are many parties, with more or less distinctly outlined principles or opinions; but the will, the ideas, the aspirations, I might also say the very life, of all these is, I think, more completely in Spain than in most other countries, personified in certain leaders with whom selfish ambitions are apt, sooner or later, to take the place of principle, and whose partisans unconsciously substitute them for the interests of the country. It is almost always the probable action or inaction of certain leaders that the newspapers discuss, though there is no lack of ability for the treatment of more comprehensive questions. The concentration of all national life in the capital tends to intensify the personal rivalries, jealousies and animosities of these leaders by the immediate contact of competitors, and by the sight of men in power who perhaps started from a lower level than themselves. If we add to this an unmistakable tinge of Orientalism, and a very large infusion in the upper and middle classes of the most intense, restless, aspiring and unscrupulous blood of all the Jewish, perhaps we should rather wonder at the moderation than the passion of Spanish politics. It should be remembered also that the Spanish people (the elections being a sham) have no regulated and constitutional method of expressing their will, and that repression has its natural result of intensifying the desires it thwarts, and not only of justifying the means to the end, but of gradually substituting the one for the other.

A useful attachment for pocketbooks consists of a register by which the amount of money on hand can be indicated at a glance, a series of dials being placed inside the cover to be turned until the figures show the right numbers.

TWO PRETTY SCHOOLGIRLS

Being Slowly Poisoned to Death by Coffee —A Mother's Story.

"Our daughter, Maud, gradually began to show more and more nervous trouble during her school days last spring, and it came to such a pass that she was not making the progress desired and was so terribly nervous that, except by the utmost effort, she could not sit still, or get her mind upon her work. One evening I asked her what in the world ailed her, and told her to put her lesson aside until morning, so that she could rest. She said, 'No, mother; I must get this lesson to-night and be up early to get another in the morning. I don't know why it is, but I have been falling behind my class for over six months, and I must work in order to graduate this spring. I believe I will go and make me a cup of strong coffee; that will brace me up.' So a good cup of coffee was made, and Maud got through with her lessons at 11 o'clock.

"The next morning I heard a rattling at the stove about half-past 4, and went down to find Maud there building a fire. She said she could not sleep and that she had to study, so she thought she would make some coffee, as it helped her the night before. I went back to bed with a heavy heart, for there was a thought of danger creeping in. Step by step my mind went back over the last year, and the acts of our dear daughter during that time passed before me like a panorama. She used to be so well and happy, but now she acted as if she was almost crazy with nervousness and a wreck of her former beautiful self. It dawned upon the mother's mind that Maud was fading away, and looking to God, I breathed a silent prayer to the dear Father to save my child.

"The next morning I started out to consult the family physician, but just at the door I met a neighbor's daughter on her way to school. A year ago this young lady had been confined to her bed for months with nervous prostration, and it was whispered about that if she lived she would be likely to lose her mind. Her parents sent her away to a village near by, and this was the first time I had seen her since her return. I saw that she was the picture of health, and I said: 'Why, Fanny Trayer, what have you been doing with yourself? I never saw such a change in my life.' She answered: 'Why, you know I finally found out that the coffee I was drinking was ruining me, and when I got out to auntie's she took the coffee away entirely, and gave me Postum Cereal Food Coffee. That is the only thing I have had, and you can see what the result is. I am just as well as I can possibly be, and getting along beautifully with my school work.'

"I was so deeply impressed with Fannie's experience, and her former condition tallied so closely with Maud's that I abandoned my proposed trip to the physician's, and went instead to the grocer's and secured a package of Postum. That night Maud had Postum Food Coffee, instead of coffee, and the next morning the dear child said she had slept and was very much refreshed. The effect was so instantaneous that I was very much surprised, and feared perhaps there might be some medicines in Postum, but I have since been assured that it contains no medicines whatever, but that on the contrary it is made of pure cereals so handled by skilled experts in its manufacture that the delicate, small particles of phosphate of potash are retained in a natural state as found in certain parts of the cereals, and that this, together with the albumen in food goes quickly to work to rebuild the nervous system. Our daughter has been saved to us. She graduated with honor, and instead of the nervous wreck she was at one time, she is now the picture of bounding health.
