It does not leave the bowels costive, and never gives pain in its operations. This Panacea will remove all the bad bile from the stomach, and give tone to the system, and thus keeps off all attacks of malignant Fevers. If the stomach is in a healthy state, and the pores of the skin are open, so as to admit of free exalation from the body, there can be no attack of Yellow Fever. This office the Panacea will positively perform, and we recommend the unscelimated and others to try the article, if they wish to insure health during the summer. As a Family Medicine, it is unequalled for Coughs, Colds and all Diseases of the Blood, and Kidney Complaints; for all these things it is warranted unequalled, and all who do not find it so may return the bottle, and get their money again.

Full Accounts by the Europa.

By Saturday's mail we received full accounts of the very interesting news brought by the Europa, the substance of which will be found below.

ENGLAND.

Sentences of the Chartists.—On Monday, August 28, at the Central Criminal Court, J. G. Rezer, 28, was indicted for sedition. The Attorney-General, Mr. Welsby, Mr. Bodkin and Mr. Clerk appeared for the Crown. The defendant had no counsel.—After a lengthened trial, the jury immediately returned a verdict of guilty.

The other defendants, Snell, Crowe and Bryson, who had previously been convicted of a similar offence, were thereupon ordered to be placed at the bar with the defendant who had just been convicted, to receive sentence.

Baron Platt addressed them, and said they had severally been found guilty of the offence of uttering seditious speeches for the purpose of disturbing the public peace and exciting the people to insurrection. After a short address, he sentenced George Snell, Robert Crowe, and John James Bezer, to be imprisoned in the House of Correction for two years, to pay a penalty of $10 each to the Queen, and, at the expiration of their imprisonment, to enter into their own reconizances in £100, with two sureties of £50 each, to keep the peace for five years. The fourth defendant, Bryson, was sentenced to the same term of imprisonment, and to find the same amount of sureties for five years, and, in addition, to pay a fine of £20; and the whole of the defendants were further ordered to be imprisoned until the surities were entered into and the fines paid.

When the sentence was pronounced, Bryson exclaimed to his companions,—"Never mind, brother Chartists, come along." This attempt to cheer his comrades' spirits appeared to have very little effect.

IRELAND.

[From the Dublin Freeman's Journal September 2]

The calamity of '49 is no longer a menacing probability. The hearts of men are no longer fluctuating between flitting gleams of hope and appalling dreams of what is to come. We have passed probability. We have arrived at certainty. There can be now no rational doubt that the darkest year in Ireland's history of misfortune still awaits us.—The fourth year of a continued famine in a country like this is a calamity that can admit of no parallel. The first famine—that of '46—brought little desolation. The poorest had some resource to fall back on—if not in means of their own, in the then unexhausted and ready charity of the public.

The famine of '47 was doubly destructive, because the previous year had carried off the poor man's all. The famine of '48, when the crop but partially failed, owed all its severity to the fact that it followed two successive famines. The calamity of one year produces the exhaustion which tells upon the year following. The destruction of human food which in '46 would do little or no injury to human life, cannot fail in '49 to produce deaths by the thousand.

We think it is high time for all classes to look steadily at facts, and see what can be done to mitigate the calamity of '49 and prevent its consummating the miseries of past years by plunging all classes into one common ruin.

The potato crop may be looked upon as lost. There is, of course, a disposition to recoil from this fearful contemplation. And the public mind still hopes against hope that the ruin of this crop may not be so universal as is represented. Heartily do we wish it may not; but we see no reason to indulge such expectations. Without dwelling on the accounts which reached us from the country during the past week on this painful subject, we may lay it down as a broad indisputable fact that the Pointo crop, viewed as the staple food of the masses, is lost.—None will now deny this.

This is the first fact. The second fact is, perhaps, more alarming still. The wheat crop is one-fourth below an average produce. On former occasions, when potatoes failed, wheat was invariably above the average yield. This is the first year in which both crops were simultaneously defective. Oats, too, owing to the late incessant storms of wind and rain, are seriously damaged.

These three facts—the loss of the potato crop, the defect in the produce of wheat, and the damage sustained by the oats—are quite sufficient to show that we have to apprehend the direst scarcity.—When in connection with these melancholy facts we take into consideration the exhausted state of the country after three successive years of famine, we must admit the inevitable inference that the calamity of "49" is likely to be far more disastrous in its results than any we have yet been doomed to witness.

Affairs in the South.—The stipendiary magistrate at Kilrush has formally contradicted the statement that he had helped any lady, old or young, from the steamer to the shore, on the day search was made for Mr. Richard O'Gorman.

A few indications were presented in the southern papers of the 28th ult. of the unsound and immoral condition in which society continues there. A few nights since an armed party attacked a house near Newcastle, County Limerick, and beat a man named Kennedy, the owner, dreadfully. Kennedy had recently come into possession. At Billanaboola, in Kerry, on Thursday night, some men attacked the house of a person named Carroll, shot his horse, stabbed eight cows, and burned four stacks of corn. Pretty work for one night!

Arrests are daily taking place, either of persons suspected of treasonable practices, or charged with being directly implicated in the recent insurrectionary proceedings. A letter dated Limerick, August 27, states that that morning Messrs. M'Namara, attorney, O'Shaughnessy, grocer, and O'Neale, were marched into this city under a strong escort of mounted dragoons and a strong body of police, and lodged in the County Jail under a warrant signed by the Lord-Lieutenant, under the Habeas Corpus suspension Act.

FRANCE.

The Press Muzzled.—We mentioned in our last paper the suppression of four more journals by General Cavaignac, since then the Government has given notice to the editors of the Reforme, the Constitutionel, and the Democratic Pacifique, that if they are not more measured in their language they will be suppressed. M. Thiers went to M. Senard, the Minister of the Interior, to remonstrate with him on the danger to which he exposed the country by his violence against the newspapers, and declared that the Republican Government was much more severe and arbitrary than even that of the Bourbons or Louis Philippe had been. M. Senard replied that the dynasty of Louis Philippe had fallen, notwithstanding its rigors against the press; and as the Republic was not sufficiently strong to resist such an engine, it is necessary for it to use more energetic measures.

Flight of Louis Blanc and Caussidiere.—The fugitive leaders of the Red Republicans are said by some to have left France, while others maintain that they are lurking in Paris; but M. Louis Blanc has published the following letter, announcing his intention to surrender and take his trial:

"Assailed—not as a guilty man, for that was impossible—but as an enemy, by men whose political passions have silenced every sentiment of equity, I withdraw, the better to protest against the consequences of the state of siege and the empire of force. I cannot believe that France is of a humor to permit that the regular cause of justice shall remain suspended much longer. When the day of trial shall arrive, I shall be present.—Paris, Aug. 26."

Louis Blanc escaped to Ghent, whence he proceeded to Dover, and is now in England, alike the country of refuge for the ex-King of the Barricades of 1830, and the would-be Socialist dictator of 1848. The whereabouts of M. Caussidiere is not known, but he has been too long acquainted with the police not to know how to elude their pursuit, even if the
