A large party of children and a good number of grownups constituted the picnic party to the First Congregational church Sunday school that left the city via the 8.25 special electric car for Ocean beach Friday morning. The Knights of King Arthur of the First Congregational church are to camp out at Columbia lake for a week. The party will leave for camp Monday and will be in charge of Rev. William S. Beard, pastor of the church. Several tents will be required to house the boys. Rev. Mr. Beard will be assisted by Raymond Parker, J. Stanley Walden and John Boss. One of the rules of the camp will be that swimming may be indulged in but once a day, and a bright little chap was reported as having asked if that meant they could go in in the morning and stay all day.

TERM EXPIRES SUNDAY.

William B. Roberts, After Serving Sentence for Intoxication, Will Be Presented on Murder Charge.

William Burrows Roberts' term of imprisonment in Brooklyn jail, where he was sentenced from this city for intoxication, will expire Sunday, and it is expected that he will be turned over to the sheriff of Tolland county Monday. Roberts is the man from the Wellswood district of Columbia, who is held responsible by the Tolland county authorities for the sudden death of his wife, that occurred on the night of June 7. He is to be taken to Columbia for a preliminary hearing before a justice of the peace, and there is no doubt but that he will be bound over to the next term of the superior court.

According to State's Attorney Phelps of Tolland county the charge will be murder in the first degree. Mr. Phelps says that the papers are all ready to serve.

W. A. H. Ely, who is editor of The Press-Record of Tarrytown, N. Y., and a nephew of Mr. Roberts, was in this city and arrangements were made whereby ex-Attorney General William A. King has been retained to defend Mr. Roberts.

In all probability the preliminary hearing Monday will be before Justice of the Peace Joseph Clark at Columbia, and there the state's interests at that time will be looked after by Coroner R. H. Fisk of Stafford, who will assist the state's attorney in the case.

Attorney King stated Friday afternoon that he was undecided upon the possibility of his asking for a continuance of the case on Monday next.

LISBON GOLD MINE

Expected to Pay Dividend by October 1—Stockholders Happy.

Ernest Gingras has just returned from a trip to Lisbon, N. H., where he has been investigating the development of a gold mine in which many eastern Connecticut men have invested.

This mine is located in the mountain district about Lisbon and is regarded as destined to be a money-making proposition. All of the machinery formerly in use at the Foster gold mine and shipped from Danielson to Lisbon is now in use at the mine and it is expected that gold will be taken out in paying quantities within the next two weeks. Andrew Welton, formerly of Danielson, is the mining engineer in charge of the men in the camp. At present twelve men are employed. A shaft has been sunk to the depth of about 125 feet and the claim is that there is sufficient pay rock in sight to make the mine a paying proposition for many years to come. The assays of rock taken from this mine have averaged better than $35 to the ton. There have been many delays in getting the mine going because of attempted manipulation of the stock to give certain parties control, but this bad feature has been overcome, and the stockholders are looking for a dividend about October 1.

The Danielson men who are interested are Ernest Gingras, Abel L. Reeves and Joseph Bodo. Many other stockholders are in Willimantic, Baltic, Taftville and other towns in this section of the state. There are also many stockholders in New Bedford and Central Falls.

To Prepare Jury List.

Charles H. Brown, Charles S. Hyde and Edgar S. Warner, jury commissioners for Windham county, have given notice that they will examine the list of jurors nominated from each town on Monday at the superior court in Putnam, and erase one-half of the names of those nominated. The jurors remaining will do service for one year from September 1.

D. A. R. Outing at Judge Back's Cottage.

Members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., and Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter of Putnam were the guests at the pretty cottage of Judge and Mrs. Harry E. Back near Alexander lake Friday afternoon. The Danielson members left on the 2.10 cars. The grounds about the cottage are very charming at the present time and the large attendance of ladies from both chapters found many pleasures during the afternoon.

Dedication of Central Fire Station.

The members of the fire department are talking about a fitting ceremony to mark the dedication of the new central fire station.

The suggestion has been received with much favor that the building be dedicated on Labor day, and that a firemen's muster be held in connection with the event. It has been several years since Danielson has had a parade of the department with visiting companies.

It will cost considerable money to arrange for such an event as is planned, but the department members are confident that they will be able to secure subscriptions sufficient to warrant the success of the affair.

The new building, it is said, will be used to fulfil the purposes of all the burned buildings. The burned trees will probably be cut down and replaced by maples.

The contract calls for 12,350 of gravel and gravel telford road. Mr. Vito bid 94 cents a linear foot for 16-foot gravel road, 89 cents a foot for 14-foot gravel road, $1.67 per foot for gravel telford road and 65 cents a square yard for gutters.

EDMOND LEMIEUX KILLED.

Struck by Extra Freight While Going to Look for Work.

Edmond Lemieux, 55, of 117 Church street, was struck and killed by the Worcester extra freight near the Klondyke switch at the north end of the yard, at 4.15 Friday afternoon. Nearly all the cars of the train passed over Lemieux, and when picked up the lower part of his body and the legs were crushed to a pulp. There were also bad gashes on the head.

The body was placed on the train and brought to the baggage room in the station, where it remained for almost half an hour before it was identified by Henry Thetreault of Elm street. A few minutes later the identification was verified by Jerry Lamothe of Elm street, a brother-in-law of the dead man.

The body remained in the baggage room for some time awaiting the arrival of the medical examiner and was later given into the charge of L. E. Smith.

Mr. Lamothe said that Mr. Lemieux was probably on his way to the mill at Mechanicsville to look for work when he met his death. The dead man was a woolen weaver and, after a lay off of about two months intended to go to work Monday if he could get a place.

He has been a resident of Putnam about six years, coming here from Medway, Mass. He is survived by his wife.

COLCHESTER

Fifteen Summer Boarders Escape from Burning House—John T. Swift and Miss Swift Return from Japan.

The house on the Charles Taylor farm, located about one and one-half miles northwest of the village, was burned to the ground the first of the week. The first was discovered by a Polish man, who on account of the hot wave was out at work in one of his fields nearly one mile distant. He roused the inmates, who barely escaped in their night clothes. Some of them seized what few things they could lay their hands on. The place was recently purchased by C. D. Greenburg, who rented it to Jewish people. There were fifteen summer boarders from New York staying there. The fire started in the woodshed, which is connected with the house, and its origin is unknown. There was a small insurance on the place. But for the timely arrival of neighbors and hard work the barns and other outbuildings would have been destroyed.

GREEN FACTORY ADDITION.

New Brick and Concrete Building Just Completed.

The large addition to the hat factory of John W. Green & Sons, Inc., of Danbury, which was commenced several weeks ago, is practically completed and the work of moving into it the departments of the factory which are to be located there has begun.

The addition is forty feet wide and one hundred feet long, three stories high, and is built of brick and concrete, with concrete floors for the first and second stories. It takes the place of a portion of the original wooden factory which was in bad condition and is a model of what the entire factory is expected to be some day. This factory is now composed of excellent three story buildings occupying almost all of the four sides of a hollow square, with some lower buildings in the center. The capacity of the factory is now 220 dozen a day.

The addition which has just been completed will be occupied in part by the blocking and stiffening departments and large drying rooms. A considerable portion of it will be used as stock room.

Good News for Jimmie.

"Mister, is this the place where they shoot dogs?"

A little boy about 7 years old came into police headquarters this morning leading a little mongrel dog and asked the question of Captain McClure. The captain told him that it was not done there and asked him why he wanted to know.

"Because, mister, I want somebody to please shoot Gyp."

"Why, what's the matter with Gyp?" asked the officer. "Isn't Gyp a good dog?"

"Yes, mister, he's an awful good dog. He plays with Jimmie all day when mother and I are away. You see, Jimmie, he's my little brother and he's a cripple and can't get out to play much, and Gyp, he stays at home and plays with Jimmie when mother is out washing and I am out selling papers and doing errands around town."

"Well, then, why do you want him shot?" inquired the officer.

"Why, you see, mister, it takes all the money mother and I can make to pay the rent and keep us, and we can't pay the tax, and so we talked the matter over and thought we'd better bring him down and have him killed."

And then the little fellow gathered the dog up in his arms and, rubbing his hand down along his back caressingly, said: "Poor Gyp! Poor Gyp! Won't Jimmie cry when he knows you are dead!"

"Well, son, I guess you won't need to have you little dog killed," said the captain. "We'll see that the tax is paid all right."

"I want to be in on that," said Chief Taylor, who had been attracted to the door by the childish voice. "And I," said Ben Endres, who happened to be in the office. "And I," "And I," "And I," came in quick succession from those around. So the $2 was quickly raised, the tag secured and tied to Gyp's collar and the little boy with a whistle ran up the street, crying: "Won't Jimmie be glad!"—Leavenworth (Kas.) Post.
