BIG GATHERING IN LEDYARD

Church Anniversary Exercises Attracted Many From Nearby Towns—Historical Address by the Pastor—Rev. H. J. Wyckoff Among the Speakers.

Favored by splendid weather conditions, with a large number of the church members and friends present at the exercises, and with a good-sized representation from other interested parishes, many of the ministers who were there taking a prominent part in the affair, the concluding session in connection with the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the First Congregational church in Ledyard took place on Monday and passed off to the delight of everyone. All of the addresses listened to were of an exceptional high order, the historical address given in the morning by the pastor, coming in for especial attention. The music was varied and afforded pleasure to all who heard it and the spirit of good cheer that was to be found everywhere was delightful and characteristic of the Ledyard people. It was a glorious occasion for all and a day that will long be remembered by those who were there.

LEDYARD CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The one hundredth anniversary exercises of Ledyard Congregational church began Sunday, December 4, with a sermon by the pastor, Rev. W. F. White, on the subject, The Acts of the New England Apostles. It was suggested that such men as Eliot, Mather, Cotton, Stone, Williams, Hooker, Davenport, Edwards, Dwight, Storrs, Beecher, Goodrich, Robinson, Humphrey, Moses Hallock, Dr. Wood and Timothy Tuttle, the latter for fifty-four years pastor of Ledyard Congregational church, might with many others be called apostles without injury to the name. The searchlight was thrown upon them in their boyhood, manhood and ministry in the pulpit and out, and the conclusion was drawn that history must again be re-written to give them their rightful place in national and religious life.

On Sunday, December 11, in spite of the extreme cold and bad traveling, there was a good audience. The church was prettily decorated and a tablet was placed on the walls containing the dates 1725, 1810 and 1910. Old-time music prevailed in the impressive service, the musical programme being in charge of Thomas P. Norman.

REV. W. F. WHITE,
Pastor.

The pastor preached the fiftieth anniversary sermon of Rev. Timothy Tuttle, most appropriate and timely, and was closely followed by all.

Following the morning service there was an historical session of the Sunday school. Billings T. Avery briefly reviewed the history of Bible study and the Sunday school. Supt. John M. Gray reviewed the history of Ledyard Sunday school, producing old-time question books, old rules for scholars and teachers, an early class record, and many other items of interest. Older members of the Sunday school spoke of former days. The school was organized in 1818.

After the Sunday school, all met in the vestry for luncheon around tables, after which the roll was called. Eighty members responded. Many letters from absent members indicated great loyalty and reverence for the church. The present membership is 127, of which 42 have been added during the present pastorate.

Monday was the anniversary day proper, and the services in celebration of this began at 10.30 o'clock, with an organ prelude, which was rendered in a pleasing manner by the organist, Miss Lillian Gallup. Before Jehovah's Awful Throne, an anthem, by the church choir under the direction of choirmaster Thomas P. Norman, came next, and this was followed by a reading of a passage from Scripture by Rev. George B. Spalding. The hymn, Oh, Where Are Kings and Empires Now, was sung by the entire church body. Following which Rev. John O. Barrows offered prayer. Another hymn, A Mighty Fortress is Our God, was sung, in which all present joined heartily.

Historical Address.

At this position in the programme an historical address was delivered by the pastor, Rev. W. F. White, and was followed with strict attention by his audience all the way through. He spoke in part as follows:

The leaven of Puritan worship and love of political and religious liberty were active in the early settlers from the first. Those, like the wife of Jonathan Brewster, who came over in the Mayflower, and Jonathan himself, the son of Elder William Brewster, after peace with the Pequots, gave attention to worship and education. Their earliest efforts are unknown.

It is known that about 1700 Edward Avery and his family rode home on horseback from attending church in New London and as they came up over Avery hill saw the house of Thomas Rose, on Rose hill, on fire. Mr. Avery spurred on his horse and snatched a flintlock gun and a pewter platter before it fell. A meeting was called in the house of Capt. John Morgan, now the home of James Holdridge, January 2, 1725-6, which is called the first meeting of the society.

This meeting and others resulted in a petition to the general assembly in May, 1725, asking for society privileges which petition received the consideration of a committee, which reported favorably, setting the bounds of the society, and society privileges were granted in October of the same year.

It was at once decided to build a meeting house in the center of what is now Ledyard, and a survey was made which fixed the center where stands the present church.

A subscription was started and the frame of the old meeting house was erected December 21, 1727. This was shortly afterward accepted by the society for a meeting house, and gradually it grew into a barn-like structure which never was fully completed during the 116 years that it stood, lastly known as Johnson's meeting-house. A full description of this ancient edifice was brought out from descriptions recorded by Rev. Timothy Tuttle and from the memories of those living who recall the building taken down in 1843. The customs and manners of oldtime services were at length pointed out. Papers are in existence showing young men and women fined in pence for ill behavior; one young man fined one dollar for "smiling and bowing" over much to a young woman in the gallery.

When the old meeting house was in building, Samuel Seabury, father of Bishop Seabury, then a licentiate, and others, preached in the homes of Robert Allyn, Ensign William Williams, Capt. John Morgan and William Morgan.

Church privileges were granted in October, 1729. The date of the organization of the old church is unknown, but is believed to have been the date of the settlement of its first pastor, Rev. Ebenezer Punderson. December 28, 1729, two months after the grant.

Pastors of the former church were Rev. Ebenezer Punderson, 1729-1734; Rev. Andrew Croswell, 1736-1748; Rev. Jacob Johnson, 1749-1772.

After Mr. Johnson's pastorate and during the revolution there were occasional services conducted by unknown transient preachers, but gradually the church became extinct and the meeting house in such a state that cattle feeding on the green entered the doors for shade.

All that was left of the old church when Rev. Walter King, of the First church of Norwich, and Mr. Timothy Tuttle organized the new church in the home of Stephen Morgan, January 12, 1810, was the dilapidated old meeting house in which it had been housed and an old pewter communion set.

The church was organized with five members, one male and four females, all but one of whom died in less than five years.

Mr. Tuttle's life has been faithfully treated and his remarkable ministry and personality emphasized and illustrated.

During his ministry the old church was repaired, and, later, in 1843, was torn down and a new one erected and dedicated December 6, 1843. A bell was hung in it June 21, 1848.

The pastors of the present church have been Rev. Timothy Tuttle, 1810-1864, Rev. N. E. Cook, stated supply as needed, 1860-1869, Rev. Charles Cutting, 1868-1881, Rev. John Avery, 1881-1882, Rev. Albert E. Kinnmouth, 1892-1908, Rev. William F. White, 1908.

The church has sent out many strong men and women to enter all walks of life. Two ministers have been raised up here, Rev. Frederic D. Avery and James A. Gallup.

Fifteen young people are in attendance on Broadway school, Norwich Academy, Willimantic normal school, Storrs college, Simmons college, Brown and Yale universities, nearly all members of this church.

The church is fairly well endowed and is working under the apportionment plan for its benevolences. It was incorporated January 4, 1810. Like all country churches it as present has its limitations, but with the present interest in country life its future is more hopeful than at any time in its history.

Two Laurel Wreaths.

Following the address, Judge Russell Gallup, in the name of the church, presented two laurel wreaths to be placed on the graves of Rev. and Mrs. Tuttle at the close of the day.

In paying his tribute to the memory of Rev. Timothy Tuttle, Judge Gallup said:

"Mr. Tuttle needs no encomium from me. I was taught to reverence him by my parents and grandparents. I was told how he had wet his pillow with tears with the agony of hunger in pursuing his studies, and how he had given his life work in love for this people.

"It is with much pleasure that I remember the aged pastor in the very last years of his labor. He was a frequent visitor at the home of my grandparents, whose counsel he sought in regard to affairs of this church. Is it not fitting that we halt this day and review the past century.

Can we not see in imagery the little group in yonder dwelling forming this present organization of a church; the Rev. Timothy Tuttle assisted by the Rev. Walter C. King of the First church of Norwich.

Truly we can say that their work was not in vain. We have the proof that their work has been blessed. Is it not a happy comparison today to see the present pastor assisted by the pastor of the First church of Norwich, engaged in celebrating this 100th anniversary."

Another hymn, Glorious Things of Thee Are Spoken, was sung by the congregation, which was followed by a prayer and benediction by Rev. A. F. Farnshaw of Mystic.

Dinner and Exhibit.

At 12 o'clock (noon) the ladies of the church served a chicken pie dinner to those who attended the celebration, in the vestry of the church. A feast of good things to eat loaded down the long tables and were enjoyed by all. Following the repast there was a visit to the library, across the street, to view the historical exhibit, which afforded a great deal of interest to all.

The afternoon session began at 1.30 o'clock.

Rev. H. J. Wyckoff Spoke.

Rev. Herbert J. Wyckoff of the Second church, Norwich, delivered the first address of the afternoon, in his customary pleasing manner. Rev. Walter King of the Second church with Rev. Timothy Tuttle organized this church in Ledyard, and it was as a representative from the mother church that Rev. Mr. Wyckoff spoke.

He said that as he was walking along towards the church that morning the spirit of Walter King, pastor of the Second church 100 years ago, seemed to be with him, prompting him in what he should say at this time. Respecting the work that each group of peoples had to do, he stated that the contribution of the fathers was the preparation, the obligation of the present day members a participation, and that the part of the men and women of the future were to perform would be the fulfilment of the hopes and ambitions of the saints. In conclusion, Rev. Mr. Wyckoff, in the spirit of Walter King, wished the spirit of Timothy Tuttle godspeed.

Tells of Grandparent, Rev. Timothy Tuttle.

Edward Cook of this city, a grandson of Rev. Timothy Tuttle, and son of Rev. N. E. Cook, followed Rev. Mr. Wyckoff with a brief but exceedingly interesting account of his honored grandparent. He referred at the beginning of his talk to his grandmother, Mrs. Tuttle, and of what a help and inspiration she was to her husband. He gave a short sketch of his grandfather's life, told some of his most prominent characteristics, related a few anecdotes in this connection, and concluded with an account of the good work he accomplished and an account of his last days.

Greetings.

Words of greeting from Mrs. Charles Cutting of New Haven and Mrs. John Avery of Norwich were read and Deacon Isaac G. Geer. The greetings from the grandmother church, the Second Congregational church of New London, were presented by Rev. J. Remsen Danforth, the pastor. He spoke in a humorous vein and delighted all with his message. From the mother church Rev. James R. Danforth was delegated by the church in Groton to bring a blessing and benediction, but as he was unable to be present J. L. Randall spoke in his stead.

Three ministers of brother churches, Rev. N. B. Prindle of the Baptist "Peckham" church, Rev. C. W. Harrison of Gales Ferry M. E. church and Rev. W. E. Hooker of St. James' Episcopal church, were on the programme to speak at this time, but Rev. C. W. Harrison was the only one who found it possible to be present. His message was full of encouragement and was presented in a most attractive manner.

From the churches of the fellowship, greetings were borne to the Ledyard church by the following: Stonington First, Rev. George B. Spalding; Stonington Second, Rev. Dwight C. Stone; Mystic, Rev. A. F. Farnshaw; North Stonington, Rev. F. M. Hollister. Rev. Samuel P. Cathcart of Westerly was unable to be in attendance at Monday's exercises.

Communion Set Gift.

At the close of the afternoon service there was presented to the church an individual communion set by Edwin Reynolds of Providence in memory of his mother, also a historical poem dictated by an aged member whose name is withheld and published for distribution by Mr. Bill of Melrose, Mass.

NORWICH TOWN

Home Chapter to Combine Meetings—Rev. George Spaulding Speaks at First Church—Allen Latham Addresses Rhode Island Beekeepers.

Instead of having separate business and social meetings, Home chapter of The King's Daughters has voted to combine these meetings, holding them on the second Monday of the month. The first meeting under the new order was held Monday afternoon at the Johnson home. A plan for the Sundays at the Backus hospital was outlined, after which time was spent in sewing. Duets by Mrs. Reuben Potter and Mrs. William Hazelden gave much enjoyment. One of the delicious suppers for which Home chapter is noted was served at the close of the afternoon. The hostesses were Mrs. Aubrey Jarvis, Mrs. Mason Kinney, Mrs. Elizabeth Kinney, Mrs. Susan Kinney, Mrs. D. S. Lewis, Mrs. George A. Lathrop, Mrs. Henry Lanz, Miss Henrietta Lanz, Mrs. Fannie La Pierre, Mrs. Herbert Leron.

WORLD'S CONFERENCE

Described by Rev. George Spaulding of Stonington.

At the First Congregational church Sunday evening, the Rev. George Spaulding of the Road church, Stonington, gave an account of the world's conference of churches, held last summer in Endinburgh. In an address full of interest he made the conference live before his audience, speaking of the grandeur of the assembly with its many eminent Americans.

The preparation for the meeting had been made in every church the world over which had the spirit of missions. He explained the term ecumenical—a universal council embracing all the Protestant churches in the world. This council is held every ten years, the last place of meeting was in New York city, before that in Calcutta.

In the Edinburgh conference, high praise was given the American churches for the apportionment plan of giving and for the work of the women in the churches. The degree of D.D. was conferred for the first time upon two Americans. These were two Americans, Robert E. Speer and John R. Mott. There were eight reports, each of which with open discussions occupied an entire day. The reports covered various spheres and policies of home and foreign missionary work. The reports of these days are to be published in eight volumes.

Interesting photographs were shown of the assembly hall and others of Scottish scenery.

No Water and Too Much.

The water in the wells about the Norwich Town green is getting low. The church well, which has never been known to give out, shows signs of failure. The chain has to be lengthened in order to procure water.

Elisha Geer of the Scotland road has been digging a well on his place. He struck a spring which filled the well so rapidly that a pump had to be put in to remove the water. Up to this he has had to drive his stock quite a distance for water.

One kind farmer in this vicinity, whenever he is out driving, carries large milk-cans of water to those whom he knows who are without a supply.

Owl Came Down Chimney.

On Sunday morning an owl was found in the parlor of one of the houses on Huntington lane. It had come down the chimney and through the fireplace into the room. It brought a large rat; and while in the room knocked things about as it flew from point to point. A neighbor's gun despatched the bird, which was a handsome brown hoot-owl of good size.

Town Topics.

Herbert Reckard of Gardner Lake is visiting friends on Wauwecus hill.

Mrs. Howard Tucker of Scotland was with relatives here a short time last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Frisbie of New Haven are spending several days with their parents here.

Mrs. Laura Baker of South Canterbury spent Saturday with her sister, Mrs. Julia Bates of Otrobando avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Leary and daughter, Miss Evelyn Leary of Hartville, were guests Sunday of Mrs. E. A. Allyn of Tanner street.

A month's mind requiem high mass was celebrated Monday morning at Sacred Heart church for Mrs. Margaret Rhea, at which a solo was rendered by Miss Mary Murray.

Prof. Allen Latham was in Providence Saturday, where he gave an address on The Possibilities of Beekeeping before the farmers' institute of the Rhode Island state board of agriculture, held in the Providence public library.

Much attention was attracted on Monday by the representation of Fairview reservoir in the window of the Boston store at the left of the entrance. This work, which was performed clearly done by Morgan Crouch, the window decorator of the firm, displays the condition of the pond, and there is to be seen the gatehouse, dam and Bog meadow intake pipe, all done in pandkerchiefs.
