The Trustees of the Sailor's Home Society, at a meeting recently held at the "Home Reading Room,"

Resolved, That all the correspondence in the possession of the Board up to the present date, relating to the sale of Spirituous Liquors on the Bethel Block, be printed in the Polynesian, and Commercial Advertiser.

CORRESPONDENCE.

HONOLULU, May 8th, 1856.

Hon. G. M. ROBERTSON,
Chairman Committee Sailor's Home Society:—

SIR:—I beg to inform you that, having taken counsel on the subject, I have decided, that as the Bethel Block was included in the limits specified in the Resolution of the Privy Council, passed in 1853, fixing the boundaries which hotel licenses were to be granted by the Minister of the Interior, a license is to be granted to Mr. Maxey for an hotel, on the corner of Nuuanu and Merchant streets, for one year from the 1st of July proximo, as he had been promised a license before any objection had been made by the Trustees of the Sailor's Home Society, and I enclose herewith a copy of a letter to Mr. Maxey, informing him that his license will not be renewed after the 1st of July, 1856.

I would advise the Trustees to address a petition to His Majesty, in Privy Council, requesting that the Minister of the Interior, for the future, be instructed not to grant any licenses for hotels or beer shops on the Bethel Block.

I remain, Sir, yours obediently,
(Signed) KEONI ANA,
per L. KAMEHAMEHA.

MR. J. MAXEY, White Swan Hotel:—

SIR:—I am directed by His Excellency, the Minister of the Interior, to notify you that a license will be granted you for an hotel, on the corner of Merchant and Nuuanu streets, on the 1st of July proximo, for one year, and that it His Excellency's intention not to renew the said license the year following, or to grant any hotel or beer shop licenses on the Bethel Block after the 1st day of July, 1856.

I beg to remain, Sir, your obedient servant,
(Signed) S. SPENCER,
Clerk, Dep't Interior.

TO HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS, PRINCE L. KAMEHAMEHA, ACTING MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR:—

HONOLULU, August 1, 1856.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HIGHNESS:—

The undersigned, Trustees of the Sailor's Home, having observed that the sale of intoxicating drinks is continued in the Royal Hotel, notwithstanding the period for which the original license was given, has expired, and contrary to the assurance given by Your Highness on the 8th of May, A. D. 1855, and the subsequent ordinance to the same effect passed by His Majesty in Council and communicated to this Board of Trustees, by the Hon. E. H. Allen, Minister of Finance, beg leave to express their disappointment and grief on this account, and respectfully petition Your Highness to do whatever may be necessary to carry out the original and benevolent intention of His Majesty's Government.

We have the honor to be most respectfully,
Your obedient Servants.
(Signed by the Trustees of the S. H. S.)

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT, August 8th, 1856.

S. N. CASTLE, Esq., Chair'n of the Sailor's Home Society:—

SIR:—I beg to inform you that the memorial signed by several of the Trustees of the Sailor's Home Society, requesting that the Resolution passed by the Privy Council on the 21st of May 1855, be carried into effect, was brought before His Majesty in Council on the 5th inst., and that I introduced before the Council all the facts relating to the said Resolution.

Mr. Maxey's petition to His Majesty was then read, in which he applied for a renewal of his license, on the grounds that it was on the assurance he received from this office, that the lot where his Hotel now stands, was within the limits prescribed by law for the sale of spirituous liquors, that he purchased the lot and erected the Hotel, and that he would be a ruined man if his license was not renewed.

It was considered by the Council, that the Sailors who live in the Home, will be persons who do not frequent Hotels, and under any circumstances, that the "Sailor's Home," would derive no benefit by Mr. Maxey's Hotel being closed as there are other Hotels equally near to the "Home" as Mr. Maxey's and therefore a Resolution was passed repealing the one of May 21, 1856, and authorizing the Minister of the Interior to grant a license to Mr. Maxey.

In a letter to G. M. Robertson, Esq., dated May 8th, 1855, I enclosed a copy of my letter to Mr. Maxey, informing him that his license would not be renewed this year, which were the instructions I had received from the Privy Council, passed by a vote of the majority then present. Subsequently a resolution was passed instructing me not to grant any licenses for Hotels, etc., on the Bethel Block.

The Privy Council has the power at any time to repeal its own acts, so long as by so doing, it does not prejudice the interests of any parties, and in this instance, the Council was convinced, that by refusing Mr. Maxey a license, the Sailor's Home would derive no benefit as there was a Hotel immediately opposite this Hotel, at the corner of Marine street, and granted Mr. Maxey's petition as they did not wish to ruin him by depriving him of his license, and because during the past year, no complaint was ever made against this house for being disorderly.

I would likewise state that the Government fully appreciate the good intentions of the Trustees of the Sailor's Home, and that it will be always willing to support the real interests of the institution.

I beg to remain sir, yours etc., etc.,
(Signed) KEONI ANA
per L. KAMEHAMEHA.

It is stated in Blackwood's Magazine that there are nearly eleven thousand boats engaged in the Scottish Fisheries, and that they give employment to about forty thousand fishermen, besides occupying as coopers, gutters and laborers, nearly thirty thousand other persons. The amount of capital invested in the fisheries is about $2,730,000. The value of the herring fishery for 1855, is estimated at one million pounds sterling. The amount of cod and ling (a species of cod) taken in 1854 was 183,892 hundred weight. Large quantities of herring are exported to the continent of Europe, 388,360 been shipped thence in 1855.

CEREMONIES OF THE CHINESE ON THE OCCASION OF EXHUMING THEIR DEAD.—As time progresses, the white residents of California are gradually becoming familiar with the manners and customs of their strange neighbors—the Chinese. The Chinamen exhibit their peculiar civilization in a multitude of ways; they build houses, catch and cure fish, take in washing, do a general trading business, speculate in rice, and worship in a Boodhist Temple in San Francisco, and in the interior, their occupations are still more varied.

One of their customs is to send the remains of their deceased friends to their native land, and in this work many thousands of dollars are expended every year. A correspondent of the San Jose Tribune, describes thus the ceremonies of some Chinese on the exhumation of the body of one of their countrymen who died in 1854, at Snelling's ranch, in Mariposa county.

Anticipating that the proceeding would be of rather a novel nature, I accompanied them to the graveyard, and will describe as near as I can the rites and proceedings had there.

Before touching the grave, they unfolded a package and took from it four pine sticks, painted red, and about one foot long, the ends of which had been dipped in tallow until they were about the size of an ordinary candle. These they stuck in the ground, about one foot apart, at the head of the grave, (the four forming a square,) and set them to burning. They then took from a little red paper case fifteen very small pine sticks about the size of broom straws, one foot and a half long, and covered with a substance that burned very like a slow match. Lighting these, and setting them in the square before named, they proceeded to take out divers bundles of papers—one, which I noticed, being the smallest, contained fifteen slips of brown paper, each having fifteen holes in it, and were piled in three piles around the square. Taking up another bundle, they produced fifteen large sheets of brown paper, each silver-gilded in the centre to about the size of a playing card, and these they arranged in piles as they had the smaller papers. Another bundle, and the last, contained fifteen similar sheets, except that the gilding in the centre was of gold; these they also arranged like the preceding bundles, and setting the whole on fire, waited solemnly until all were consumed; then, taking up their spades, commenced work.

Reaching the remains, they examined very particularly as to whether John died wearing his cue. Finding it, they rejoiced exceedingly, and on my asking the cause, one of them, who speaks better English than any I have yet seen, explained to me that it was a part of their religion; and those who ceased to wear it after leaving China were refused burial inside of the Great Chinese Wall, but that their remains were sent home and buried outside of it.—San Francisco Chronicle.

HORRORS OF WAR.—The Liverpool Times of the 12th ult., contains the following from its Crimean correspondent:

"The Russians do not disguise their joy at the prospects of peace, and, indeed, they must have suffered enormously in the seige. They say that the shot of the allies sometimes struck their boats full of men crossing from the north side, and sunk them, and they take pride in relating the horrors of the siege. Some of them will never be known. Mr. Deane, the diver, has, however, brought others to light.

The English poet, Rogers, died lately at the age of ninety-six. His long life, in a prominent position, kept alive his poetry which, otherwise, would have died long since. The mind of Rogers had few or none of those feelings and inspirations which make a man a poet. He was always rich and comfortable—smelling sweet savors and eating good things—a sleek-headed man and one that slept o'nights. He had a £100,000 note framed as an ornament above his mantel-piece—the idea is tremendous. But it is not poetical; a true poet would not make such a blazon. But what poet, since the beginning of the world ever had an opportunity to do so? The fame of Rogers is an accompaniment to that of the bright wits of his age—and will be remembered for their sakes—and this he knew very well. It is curious enough that the most expressive little song of humble cottage contentment should come from that London banker who had the hundred-thousand-pound note over his mantel-piece—"Mine be a Cot beside a Hill!" Rogers could not live out of London.

It appears that the advance copy of the treaty of peace, which eventually appeared in the London Daily News, was hawked about among the London press, but not one of these "enterprising" papers would pay for it the price demanded—1,000 francs, about $200!

The colored population of Washington city, numbering in all about 10,000, have eleven places of worship, the aggregate value of which is $40,000. Ten of the colored congregations pay their pastors on an average of $650. There are above 1000 children in the Sabbath Schools, who are mostly taught by members of the several congregations.

A little boy died in Bangor recently, from the effects of using an old tobacco pipe to blow soap bubbles with. His little sister, who used it with him, is lying dangerously ill. It is supposed they were poisoned with the essential oil of tobacco, imbibed from the pipe which they were using.

EUROPEAN HOTEL RULES.—The "Victoria Mansion" in Brussels, contains among its regulations, the following:—

"The bedrooms are supplied with every reasonable comfort—clean bed linen is replaced every two weeks. Two towels weekly are allowed, and where more linen is required, it can be had for the mere cost of washing. One foot bath weekly, all extras ½ a franc each. The proprietors do not undertake to supply enormous quantities of cold water."

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—The Boston Post is responsible for the following:—"A friend says he had two: a kiss from his wife and another from his daughter. The first he valued for its rarity, and the second for its disinterestedness—being given for a gold bracelet."

THE ECCENTRIC. I have ever thought eccentric persons a great blessing to mankind. But for them, we should all be crushed down into a semi-fluid state of utter respectability, entire conformity, and superabundant folly. They are the centrifugal forces in life—they are the salt of the earth. Better to have them, even when they border upon madness, than not to have them at all.
