

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

H. T. Johnston the postmaster of Dufur was in the city Saturday.

Mrs. Georgia Smith of Hood River made a flying visit to the city today.

A very large quantity of merchandise was discharged from cars at the depot today.

Chas. E. Bayard left Friday morning for Seattle where he expects to remain for some time.

Miss Minnie Garrison of East Portland is visiting at the home of her grandmother Mrs. Garrison.

B. S. Huntington went to Canyon City Saturday, to attend court, which is in session at that place.

So far this season, the run of salmon has hardly commenced, which is an unusual thing at this time of year.

A wagon load of fish hogs owned by C. M. Van Duyn were sold Thursday at five and one-fourth cents, on foot.

C. M. Van Duyn sold two cars of beef cattle to Mr. Lewis of Portland, last Friday.

Hon. Robert Mays has returned from his ranch at Antelope where he has been for the past few weeks.

The regular meeting of the Eastern Oregon Pomological society was held Saturday in the council chamber in this city.

James Fulton, Jr., of Lower Ten Mile was in town. He says they had a fine rain at his place and the grain is looking splendid.

Herman Baster formerly of Kingsley now of Kings valley, Benton county came to town on train Friday on a visit to his old ranch at Kingsley.

The Columbia river at this point had a raise of one foot yesterday and is on a stand at about eleven feet above low water mark.

The musical jingle of the bell on the lead horses of the six and eight horse freight teams from the country is being heard on the streets.

Stock Inspector Rice is so far recovered from his sickness as to be able to go out to his father's ranch on Fifteen Mile to spend a short time for a change of air.

Potatoes seem to be a drug in this market. We saw two persons from the country Friday who could not dispose of some they had brought into town, at any price.

Twenty cars of cattle, a whole train, were fed Saturday at the stock yards. They belong in part to Reynolds & Childers and part to Kirkhawk & Coolee and are for the Sound market.

Edgar Pratt of Wamic, A. J. Wall of Eight Mile, C. P. Balch of Dufur, Alex. Strachan of Dufur, Frank Gabel of Wapinitia and Wm. Holder, state lecturer of the Grange from Grass Valley, were in town Friday.

The following statement from Mr. W. B. Denny, a well known dairyman of New Lexington, Ohio, will be of interest to persons troubled with Rheumatism. He says: "I have used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for nearly two years, four bottles in all, and there is nothing I have ever used that gave me as much relief for rheumatism. We always keep a bottle of it in the house." For sale by Snipes & Kinnersly.

The land contest case on hearing for the past three or four days between Richard Sigman and Robert Bradley of Dufur was settled by the mutual agreement of the parties, Friday. The contest involved 80 acres of railroad land which the parties agreed to divide.

A. J. Wall bought a fine trotter from C. P. Balch of Dufur Friday morning. Wall says the price paid was $300, and that the animal can trot in 3 minutes. The Chronicle is privately informed that under favorable circumstances on a good track she might make a mile in 10 minutes.

Mr. William O'Dell of Hood River who has been under the medical care of Dr. Vanderpool at Dufur for some time was moved to this city Thursday last and is the guest of Superintendent Shelley. Mr. O'Dell stood the journey from Dufur better than was expected. He will proceed to his home as soon as it is thought prudent.

He wants it known—Mr. J. H. Strawn, a well known German settler of Fort Madison, Iowa, was terribly afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism when Mr. J. F. Salmon, a prominent druggist here, advised him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. One bottle of it cured him. His case was a very severe one. He suffered a great deal and now wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured him. 50 cent bottles for sale by Snipes & Kinnersly.

This is a plain and truthful utterance, made to an Oregonian reporter by E. B. Dufur, of The Dalles: "Eastern Oregon is with Portland, heart and soul, in its efforts to build a portage road between The Dalles and Celilo. Every man, woman and child endorses the scheme adopted at the Portland convention. I am satisfied that our section of the state will put up its portion of the amount needed. If Portland does not get the river opened its Eastern Oregon trade will surely go over the mountain to Puget sound."

So the state militia is to go into camp in a couple of months and for the time conduct themselves as real soldiers. The state has shown how appropriate it is of the boys by making an appropriation so exceedingly liberal that six overcoats will be issued out to each company of 60 men for the men on guard duty. The boys will be permitted to furnish their own bed and bedding; if they indulge in the luxury of target practice they can blow off their own ammunition for the state won't furnish any, and besides all these privileges and emoluments they are paid a wage of $1.50 a day. You see it's a fair job this. Let us all join.

The only sister of Mr. J. M. Patterson, of this city, Mrs. G. W. Browne, died at Spokane this morning from the effects of a grippe. Mrs. Blanche Patterson was at her bedside at the time of her death, and will bring her body down here and, being joined by her husband, will go through to Salem, where the funeral will take place. The deceased lady leaves a child of her own and the infant child of Mr. Patterson's older sister who died last fall, and for which she has been caring. Mrs. Browne was woman of lovely character and her loss will be sadly felt.

From our Wamic Correspondent.

WAMIC, Or., April 23, 1891. EDITOR CHRONICLE:—Dear sir, I sent you a few items from here last week but I did not find them in your columns I presume they found their way to your waste basket. I won't let you off easy I'll bore you with this one anyway.

We are increasing very fast this spring, for a daughter was born to the wife of A. C. Sanford, April 9th, and a daughter to the wife of Orange Brittain, April 13th, a son to the wife of S. H. Douglas, April 19th, a daughter to the wife of W. H. Patison, April 19th and a son to the wife of Rufus McCorkle, April 23. That is all we have heard of lately, but the deuce only knows how many more there are in this locality.

Jas. Patison and family left here for Fossil last Monday where his wife will visit her sister while he is shearing sheep.

The ground is very dry and many were compelled to let their summer fall ground lay idle this season from the snow. All grain that is sowed looks nicely and will raise a fair crop without any rain, but rain is needed very badly.

Wishing your paper success, and hoping to always have the opportunity to pick up the CHRONICLE at all spare moments to get the correct news I am very respectfully, OUGHT.

ANOTHER SURVEY.

But as Usual the Matter is Shrouded in Mystery.

Evening Telegram.

It is understood that in a few days a party of engineers will start out from here to go over the line of the old Hunt system on the north side of the Columbia. Just what the object is cannot be learned, but it is believed that the engineers represent.

Ground Selected.

Mr. Joseph Paquet who has the contract for building the boat for The Dalles, Portland and Astoria Navigation Company was in this city Saturday and chose the grounds and selected the location on which he is going to build the boat. It will be at the foot of Washington street. The contractor has all arrangements made for the work and will have the lumber and men here on Monday next and will then begin operations and push the boat through to completion inside of three months.

The Government Slow but Sure.

Our townsman Marshall Hill this morning received from the government at Washington the sum of $57.03. There is nothing particularly striking in that, but from the circumstance that it was payment for services rendered by Mr. Hill when he was a lad not then twenty-one years of age. He is now fifty-four years old. Mr. Hill thinks the United States government a slow paymaster but a sure one.

Notice to tax Payers.

All state and county taxes, become delinquent April 1st. Taxpayers are hereby requested to pay the same before that date in order to avoid going to the delinquent list, which will be of interest to persons troubled with Rheumatism. He says: "I have used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for nearly two years, four bottles in all, and there is nothing I have ever used that gave me as much relief for rheumatism. We always keep a bottle of it in the house." For sale by Snipes & Kinnersly.

FOR SALE.

R. E. French has for sale a number of improved ranches and unimproved lands in the Grass Valley neighborhood in Sherman county. They will be sold very cheap and on reasonable terms. Mr. French can locate settlers on some good unsettled claims in the same neighborhood. His address is Grass Valley, Sherman county, Oregon.

A choice lot of brood mares; also a number of geldings and fillies by "Rockwood Jr.," "Planter," "Oregon Wilkes," and "Idaho Chief," same standard bred. Also three fine young stallions by "Rockwood Jr.," out of first class mares. For prices and terms call on or address either J. W. Condon, or J. H. Larsen, The Dalles, Oregon.

Merino Sheep for Sale.

I have a fine band of thorough bred Merino sheep consisting of 67 bucks, about 340 ewes and about 200 young lambs, which I will sell at a low price and upon easy terms. Address, D. M. FRENCH, The Dalles, Or.

Stock Strayed.

Three 3-year-old fillies—(2 sorrel and one bay, 2 two-year-old both bays) all branded "1" on the left shoulder. I will give $5 apiece for the recovery of the same. J. W. ROGERS, Boyd, Or.

City Treasurer's Notice.

All City Warrants registered prior to July 1, 1891 are now due and payable. Interest ceases on and after date. J. S. FISS, City Treas.

Lost.

Pair of gold bowd eye glasses in case. The finder will be rewarded by leaving at this office. J. N. BOGGS.

Horseman Attention.

The spring rodder for horses will meet at Bake Oven on the first day of May. R. BOGGS, City Treas.

Long Ward offers for sale one of the best farms of its size in Sherman county. It consists of 340 acres of deeded land at Erakiville. There is a never-failing spring of living water capable of watering five hundred head of stock daily. The house, which is a large stone building with ten rooms attached alone cost $1700. A blacksmith shop and other buildings and the whole surrounded by a good wire fence. Will be sold cheap and on easy terms. Apply by letter or otherwise to the editor of the CHRONICLE or to the owner, W. L. Ward, Boyd, Wasco county, Oregon.

The temperance lecture of Major Scott last Thursday evening was one of the finest of the kind ever heard here. For over an hour he held a large audience as not one out of a hundred public speakers could do. His language, though pointed and strong, was not calculated to arouse antagonism. It was excellent seed sown in good ground and will produce rich fruit, though it may not form any who are already drunkards or debased tipplers.—Polk County Itemizer.

Dr. J. B. Mahama, the inventor of the single rail railway, is a citizen of Union, Oregon, but is constructing his first railway in Vermont, from Rutland to Montpelier, a distance of seventy miles, on a subsidy of $3,000 per mile, and twenty carloads through freight per day, per annum.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Co., under a contract will appear in The Dalles in a few days. It is spoken very highly of and a rare treat in its prospect.

A PLAQUE OF UNBELIEF.

THE MOVING CAUSE OF ALL THE PLAGUES OF CITIES.

Dr. Talmage's Masterly Contrast of the Effects of Christianity and Agnosticism. The Glorious Results of a Living Faith. What Has Infidelity Done?

NEW YORK, April 5.—Continuing his course of sermons on "The Ten Plagues of the Cities," Rev. Dr. Talmage today took for his subject "The Plague of Infidelity." The discourse was delivered to large and appreciative audiences at the Brooklyn Academy of Music in the forenoon and the New York Academy of Music in the evening. The text was Romans ii, 4, "Let God be true, but every man a liar."

That is if God says one thing and the world says another, the opposite. Paul would accept the Divine verity; but there are many in our time who have dared arraign the Almighty for falsehood. Infidelity is not only a plague, but it is the mother of plagues.

It seems from what we hear on all sides that the Christian religion is a heavy burden; that the Mosaic account of the creation is an absurdity large enough to throw all nations into rollicking guffaw; that Adam and Eve never existed; that the flood of Noah's ark were impossibilities; that there never was a miracle; that the Bible is the friend of cruelty, of murder, of polygamy, of all forms of base crime; that the Christian religion is woman's tyrant and man's justification; that the Bible from lid to lid is a fable, a cruelty, a humbug, a lie; that the martyrs who died for its truth were miserable dupes; that the church of Jesus Christ is properly galled as a fool; that Jesus Thomas Carlyle, the skeptic, said "The Bible is a noble book," he was dropping into imbecility; that when Theodore Parker declared in Music Hall, Boston, "Never a boy or girl in all Christendom has been profited by that great book," he was becoming very weak minded; that it is something to bring a blush to the cheek of every patriot that John Adams, the father of American independence, declared, "The Bible is the best book in all the world"; and that lion hearted Andrew Jackson turned into an availing coward when he said, "That book, sir, is the rock on which our republic rests"; and that Daniel Webster abdicated the throne of his intellect, power and resigned his logic, and from being the great expounder of the constitution and the great lawyer of his age turned into a man who was as weak as a kitten and resolutely refused that the gospel of Jesus Christ must be a divine revelation.

From the time that at my mother's feet or on my father's knee I first learned to read the sacred writings they have been my daily study and vigilant contemplation, and if there is anything in my life that is enough to be commended to credit is due to my kind parents in instilling into my mind an early love of the Scriptures; and that William H. Seward, the diplomatist of the century, only showed his perversity when he declared, "The whole hope of human progress is suspended on the ever growing influences of the Bible"; and that it is wisest for us to take the book from the throne in the affections of uncounted multitudes and put it under our feet, to be trampled upon by harlot and lewdling, contempt and scorn, and your old father was bookwinded and colored and cheated and befooled when he leaned on this as a staff after his long and arduous career; and his tremulous, and his steps shortened as he came up to the verge of the grave; and that your mother sat with a pack of lies on her lap, and she read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance of the ending of all her aches and pains, and remotion not only with those of you who stood around her, but with the children she had buried with indelible scars, so that she could read no more until she took off her spectacles and wiped from the heavy mist of many tears, a "Aha! that for forty and fifty years they should have walked under this delusion and had it under their pillow when they lay a-dying in the back room, and asked that she would read the better countenance