Washing Won't Rid Head Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

Telephones as Fishing Instruments.

Fish when they swim make a noise, and this can be detected by the telephone, according to the following: Most of us have watched with interest the movements of shoals of fish beneath the surface of the sea or of a lake, but few will have associated with those movements the idea of noise. Nevertheless, such movements do make a noise, and Norwegian fishermen, it is said, have taken advantage of that fact to devise an arrangement to assist them in detecting and locating fish at considerable depths. They lower a microphone by means of a wire from their boat into the water, the other end of the wire being connected with a telephone receiver on the boat. As the latter slowly proceeds on her course in search of a haul, an operator keeps the receiver of the telephone to his ear and, once he has learned his task he can tell instantly when a shoal of fish is being approached.

"SAVE THE ROADS" IS MANUFACTURERS' APPEAL

In a "save the roads" appeal, the Manufacturers' association of Connecticut has sent the following to its members:

"In the interest of holding to a minimum the already extensive damage to the improved highways of Connecticut, the state highway commissioner asks that members of the Manufacturers' associatio nof Connecticut, operating motor trucks, observe the following suggestions:

"First, that the owners and operators of trucks keep the maximum load within the legal limit at all times. The legal limit is 25,000 pounds.

"Second, that at certain seasons of the year, particularly in the spring, these loads be restricted not to exceed eight tons, total load, including truck and load itself.

"Third, when any large amount of heavy trucking is to be carried over a road, information be secured from this department as to the condition of the road and the possibility of standing the character and amount of traffic to which it is proposed to be subjected.

"The loss to the state of Connecticut on account of the operation of extra heavy trucks this spring is almost impossible to compute."

State Highway Commissioner Charles J. Bennett recently issued a warning to truck owners and drivers in which he urged that protection of state highways be given full consideration.

There will be an additional run to Norwich from New London at 9.15 a. m. daily and a car will leave Norwich for New London at 2.15 p. m. daily. AT DAVIS THEATRE.

Vaudeville With Five Acts.

The second bill at the Davis theatre since vaudeville was put on by Mr. Davis this spring was even better than the opening bill, and the five acts were away above the general run of vaudeville. Opening the bill as a Paramount feature production, Too Much Johnson, featuring Bryant Washburn in a farce comedy that has a tangled plot and replete with mirth-provoking situations.

The headliners, if one can choose, are Adler and Dunbar, with a unique skit that is a scream from the first time the couple step on to the boards until the curtain drops on their act.

George Drury Hart and company have a neat sketch with a plot that ends in a most unique way, an ending that is unlooked for by the audience. This is a comedy which is well handled by the cast of four.

Valentine and Bell, two cyclists and novelty bicycle riders, have an act entitled The Furniture Removers. Practically every piece of furniture on the stage from the clocks to the phonograph can be ridden by either of the performers. Their act is one of the best in its line seen here in some time.

Harrah and Mulroy in a roller skating novelty present a clever exhibition which includes many clever feats.

Hawthorne and Cook in No Rhyme or Reason surely carry out all that the title implies.

A news film and an animated cartoon film complete the bill.

JUDGE GREENE DECLARES VON HOEGEN DISBARRED

In a report just handed down in the superior court at New Haven, Judge Gardiner Greene of this city declares Maximilian Von Hoegen, a lawyer of New Haven, disbarred from practice at the Connecticut state bar.

Judge Greene was a committee to pass upon the proceedings brought against Von Hoegen by State's Attorney Alling of New Haven county.

Von Hoegen left New Haven in the night time early in 1917. He had had experience with a party of callers at his home who had made him kneel and kiss the United States flag. In making out his selective draft papers he had written on the form that he thought American citizenship was "of doubtful honor" and had added, "Deutschland uber allies." He had considered himself "proficient in teaching socialism." From the time the world war broke out Von Hoegen had feely expressed pro-German sentiments and claimed to have assisted von Papen, a German officer, who was active in espionage. Von Hoegen in December, 1917, was arrested and charged with treason to the United States and long was held in Texas. He was finally returned to this state, turned over to a federal officer and confined in the Hartford jail until released on bail. He is now in New York. The motion to disbar from practice was made some months ago. The finding against Von Hoegen was that he is "morally unfit to be a member of the Connecticut Bar."

DR. MACKAY AGAIN TO VISIT NORWICH

Monday evening, April 12th, is to be "Ladies' Night" at the regular monthly session of the United Church Brotherhood. This meeting, the members feel, is to furnish the climax to the season's activities and inasmuch as the services of the Rev. John R. Mackay, D.D., L. L. D., of the North Presbyterian church, West 155th street, New York city, have been secured for the occasion, they are inviting their friends, women and men of the church and community alike to be present, feeling assured that a real treat is in store for all. Dr. MacKay occupies the pulpit of one of the leading churches in the metropolis and is noted for his powers as a preacher and public speaker. He visited Norwich several years ago and no doubt many still remember his wonderfully driving and eloquent address on that occasion. His topic on Monday evening will be Revealing Ourselves.

Other features of the program will be selections by the well known Norwich String Quartette (Miss Isabel H. Mitchell, first violin; Miss Elizabeth Lane, second violin; Frederick W. Lester, viola; Charles D. Gallup 'cello); and a group of songs with organ, violin and 'cello obligato by Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard.

FORTY PER CENT. OF INCOME TAX RETURNS INCORRECT

Approximately 40 per cent. of the income tax returns that were filled out by taxpayers of this state last month were found by government auditors to contain errors, United States Internal Revenue Collector James J. Walsh said Thursday. In some cases, careful examination of such returns showed taxpayers paid over to the department more money than was expected of them, but in the great majority of the cases where the returns were incorrectly filled out it was was found that taxpayers failed to make payments on certain items.

Altogether, if these numerous items were not checked up and caught by the federal auditors, the government would stand to lose many thousands of dollars—how many thousands, Collector Walsh was not in a position to state.

About 150,000 returns were filed in this state alone.

The 40 per cent. found to contain discrepancies represents only the individual tax returns checked up by Collector Walsh's agents in Connecticut. The corporation returns, about 8,500 in number, are sent on to the internal revenue department in Washing ton for scrutiny by the internal revenue bureau's selected auditors.

Collector Walsh said that whenever returns are found to be filled out incorrectly, notation of the discrepancy is made on the return, which is not sent back to the taxpayer. A letter, explaining the error, however, is sent to the taxpayer and a request is made to send the additional amount due to the collector's office.

In filling out returns this year, it is shown by statistics in the collector's office that taxpayers had less trouble and made fewer mistakes than the previous year. But the number for this year was bettered by only about 5 per cent.
