A Riddle Charade.

Young gentles of these tropic climes,
Your listening ears I plead—
A word and name in humble rhymes,
And riddling words I read.

The letters making up my word
No number only seven;
'Twas felt when Eve—the flaming sword,
Did sunder her from Heaven.

'Tis felt again with bitter spite
In war's wild butchering ire;
When charging columns in the fight,
With bleeding ranks retire.

And ah! 'tis felt with sadder woe,
When Hope its passion pleads;
And azure eyes look calmly, no,
Whilst the heart that's baffled bleeds.

And now two letters take away,
From this and end of strife;
The very first—and you display,
The gauge of human life.

At last, we hail the whole—a name
Most worthy of renown;
That with good will and welcome came,
When Lunalilo wore the crown.

And now again its voice we hear,
In strong yet peaceful tone;
Waking a welcome loud and clear,
When Kalakaua fills the throne.

VARIETY.

No man can enjoy religion who does not keep himself clean.

Why should a horse dislike wet weather? Because he is so much troubled with reins.

Why is Robinson a good name for a rooster? Because—Robinson Crusoe.

When can a horse eat the best? When he has not a bit in his mouth.

What is the difference between a hill and a pill? One is something hard to get up, and the other is often hard to get down.

Refused.—A bashful compositor refused to accept a situation in an office where girls were employed, saying he never set up with a girl in his life.

Delinquent subscribers should not permit their daughters to wear this paper for a bustle. There being so much due on it, there is danger of their taking cold.

An exchange says the best way for a lady to get the fashionable "tangle" on her hair is to fill it full of corn-meal and set a lot of spring chickens to scratching the meal out.

An insane man was asked if he was not "connected with a paper." "Oh! no," said he, "I have been to the insane asylum, and got cured—a man never runs a newspaper after he is cured."

A noted violinist remonstrated with his daughter about the use of rouge, saying: "Why do you use paint, my dear?" "For the same reason that you use rosin, Papa, to help me draw my beau."

Improve Your Looks.—It can be done by constant control of temper, by temperance, and by purity of thought and action. Reverence some ideal of comeliness and goodness, and the assimilative and imitative tendency in human nature will improve your looks.

"I should think you would be ashamed to pitch into that little boy," said a pedestrian lately, as he caught a big bootblack cuffing a small newsboy. "Ye would, hey?" sneered the lad as he gave his nose a wipe. "D'ye think I'd go for a big boy and get all pounded up?"

Fenia Epps of Hamilton, Ohio, asked her mother to take a note for her to a friend of the family living in a near street. The note when opened was found to read: "This is a little ruse of mine to get mother out of the house. Before she can get back I will be on the cars with dear Lorenzo, and before night will be married."

Judge (to intelligent juryman)—"Would you convict a man on circumstantial evidence?" "I dunno wot dat is, Jedge." "Well, what do you think it is?" "Well, cordin' to my jedgment, sarcumstanshil is 'bout dis: Ef one man shoots anudder an' kills him, he orter be hung for it. Ef he don't kill him, he orter to go to de plenipotentiary."

It is said that a Boston girl who was riding out, wanted to give her horse a drink; and as he sniffed at the water, she unbuckled the crupper in order, as she thought, to enable him to get his head down to the stream. She was probably not as familiar with the habits and capabilities of animals as the South Carolina girl, who tied a heavy stone to a noisy donkey's tail to keep him from braying.

A young man who was visiting abroad came home Saturday, and in the morning at breakfast remarked, as he reached his plate over, "Father, a little of the mixture in the brown dish, if you please, and a small piece of the prepared meat." The old gentleman, who is a plain, matter-of-fact man, replied, as he loaded up the outstretched plate, "We like to have you come a-visitin' us, John, but just remember that while you're eatin' here, if you want hash, say so; and if you want sausage, call for sausage, and not go to spreadin' on any Brooklyn misery at my table."

Couldn't Give it up.—A couple were arranging terms for a separation, to avoid the scandal of a judicial divorce, and a friend had been employed by the husband to negotiate the matter. The latest mission was in reference to a valuable ring given to the wife before marriage by the husband. For this he would make a certain much-desired concession. The friend made the demand. "What!" said the indignant wife, "do you venture to charge yourself with such a mission to me? Can you believe that I could tear myself from a gift which alone recalls me to the days when my husband loved me? No! this ring is my only souvenir of happiness forever departed! 'Tis all!"—and here she wept—"that I now possess of a once fond husband." The lady supplicated, grew obstinate, grew desperate, threatened to submit to a public divorce as a lesser evil than parting with the cherished ring, and at last confessed that she had sold it six months before.

Mrs. Battles, says Max Adeler, suffers from cold feet, and the other night she warmed up a brick, intending to take it to bed with her. She laid it down by the bedside while she attended to the baby, and then she forgot about it and turned in. After a while Battles came over to the bedroom, and when he had assumed his night-shirt he began to say his prayers. When he was about half way through he happened to move his knee a little to the left, and it came in contact with the brick. For an instant he thought that something had stung him, and, jumping up, he came back to ascertain what it was. He saw the brick lying there, but it never occurred to him that it was the cause of the trouble, so he picked it up for the purpose of throwing it out of the window. Then he suddenly dropped it with a cry of pain, and, after an indignant denunciation of Mrs. Battles he procured a piece of paper, and in a furious rage he fired the brick through the window-sash. It hit a policeman who happened to be standing on the pavement below, and in less than ten minutes Battles was on his way to the station-house, where he was locked up all night on a charge of assault and battery. He was released in the morning, after paying $20 fine. He has not finished his prayers yet, and Mrs. Battles now warms her feet with her flannel petticoat.
