WESTERLY

Mr. and Mrs. John Stanton celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Deering J. Fisher, in Providence. Fifty years ago in the Seventh Day Baptist church at Ashaway, Rev. Henry Clarke united Miss Annie E. Crandall of that place and John Stanton of Charlestown, R. I. Three years later they went to California and lived there six years. On their return Mr. Stanton established a general store in Hope Valley and managed the same for 23 years. Mr. and Mrs. Stanton are now making their home with Dr. and Mrs. Fisher. Mr. Stanton at the age of 72 is in the active employment of Blanchard, Young & Co.

Mr. Stanton was born in Charlestown Jan. 26, 1848. He represented the town of Richmond as a republican representative in the general assembly of 1895-6. He is a past grand master of Mechanics lodge of Odd Fellows of Hope Valley.

Mrs. Stanton was born in Ashaway May 23, 1848, and is a sister of Isaac Cundall of Mystic and of the late Edward G. Cundall, for several years sheriff for Washington county, subsequently clerk of the Third district court, and of the reportorial staff of the Westerly Sun. Constant T. Cundall of Westerly is a nephew of Mrs. Stanton. Her two brothers served in the Civil war.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton have three sons and four daughters: John C. Stanton of Westerly, Fred Stanton of Bristol, Elbert Stanton of Hope Valley, Mrs. Deering J. Fisher of Providence, Mrs. Everett Jaques of Franklin, Mass., Mrs. Samuel T. Lindsey of Walpole, Mass., and Mrs. Emma T. Greene of Providence. The competition was very close between the six schools, which were judged best in their respective sections at a previous session, and placed in the semi-final class.

John J. Dunn of Weesterly, secretary of the state board of agriculture, and one of the three judges, declared that the board had been interested in school gardens for several years, supplying the gardeners with commercial fertilizer bulletins and achievement badges for those who sent in reports of their work to the state club leader at the state college in Kingston. He said that the board had always tried to forward movements which impress the young people with the importance of the basic industry of agriculture.

Mr. Greene was born in East Greenwich July 23, 1832, son of Captain Nathaniel Greene, a mariner, who was a nephew of General Nathaniel Greene of Revolutionary war fame.

Mr. Greene married Katherine C. Larned, daughter of Samuel Larned of the diplomatic corps, and step-daughter of the late Richard Ward Greene, chief justice of Rhode Island. She died in 1917. No children survive.

The members of Westerly lodge, 678, B. P. O. E., held their annual outing at Barnes' Point, Brightman's pond, Thursday. The event was exclusively for Elks, and there were guests from some other lodges. With none present but those designated as the Best People on Earth, all in one brotherhood, and all on pleasure bent, there was fun and frolic without cessation, except during the time assigned for the attacks on the chowder and the clambake. Even these attacks were pleasurable and every individual Elk took active part therein, and this big feature was thoroughly enjoyed. There were eats and drinks aplenty, but there was lack of that refreshing and cheering liquid that usually flower frely at some outings befoie prohibition interfered. But—Sinn Fein.

Louis Catto, 26, son of Caroline Catto, died in the ambulance at Jamestown Wednesday evening while the young man was being transferred from the hospital in Providence to his home in Westerly. With the hope that he could reach his home before the end came the trip from the hospital was made. He had been in failing health for a long time, his chief ailment being kidney disease. Besides his mother, he is survived by three sisters and a brother. His father was drowned several years ago.

It is the duty of everyone not only to preserve the natural beauty of the hair, but to improve it. You cannot afford to neglect it, and just a little care will work wonders.
