DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister.

Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable.

PROGRAM BY CHILDREN FOR MUSIC ASSOCIATION

At the December meeting of the Music association held in Slater hall Monday night a program conspicuous for its originality, and illustrative of songs to and by children, was presented to the pleasure of a large audience. All things pertaining to childhood, including the Sandman, Jack Frost, the Brownies, with the birds and beasts dear to youngsters' hearts, were sung about or played, and a spirit of youth dominated the entire evening.

The program opened with two piano solos delightfully played by Miss Olive D. Linton, who gave a spirited interpretation of the hilarious jubilee music and an equally sympathetic rendition of Paingren's charming lullaby. Four whimsical little songs, set to catchy tunes, words and music written by Alif Stevens and Ruth Stevens Porter, both nieces of Mrs. Charles W. Gale, were sung with unaffected simplicity and charm by Miss Marian Geer, whose voice was as sweet and clear as a bird's.

Steny Miss, a virtuoso of tender years, played a violin solo with remarkable skill, getting from his strings a depth of tone which demonstrated the natural gifts of a juvenile Paganini. Charles H. Caswell, choir director of the Congregational church in Willimantic, contributed greatly to the pleasure of the evening. Possessing a rich baritone voice of high range and appealing quality, his interpretation of Wells' four tender and humorous ballads was a rare treat.

A unique and very pleasing feature was the sweet and tuneful flute playing of Miss Lois Caswell, who drew from her instrument a wealth of charming woodland notes and trills. Nevins' Woodpecker being particularly irresistible and typical of that busy bird. Following other selections sung by Miss Geer with ingenuous mannerisms of gesture and voice, characteristic of the clever words and music, Mrs. Reuben P. Potter, whose voice is always lovely and appealing, sang an interesting trio of songs with much sweetness and artistic feeling.

The program closed with two baby dances, Little Miss Muffett and Curly Locks, danced and acted with vivacious mimicry by Miss Florine Scofield, teacher of physical culture at the Norwich Free Academy. Very graceful and charming in her abandon to the music, Miss Scofield entered delightfully into the pantomime of the old nursery stories dear to childhood, and her efforts to escape from the spider, in fear of which she left her wooden bowl and spoon, were most realistic, while as Curly Locks her pantomime acting was arch and typical of the fair lady who sat on a cushion and sewed a fine seam.

Mrs. C. D. Geer, Miss Linton, Mrs. C. H. Caswell and Frederick W. Lester by their sympathetic and artistic accompaniments also contributed greatly to the success of this novel and diversified program, which was in charge of Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham.

The entire program follows:

The decorating committee anticipated and carried out the spirit of Christmas with a very pretty arrangement of small fir trees as a background for many lighted candles in brass sconces. Large bunches of holly tied with red added to the general holiday effectiveness. The trees and greens will be taken this week to the Backus hospital, where they will help to make the wards attractive on Christmas day for the shut-ins.

The next meeting of the association will take place on Monday evening, Jan. 24, when Fred Patten, baritone soloist at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church in New York, will give a recital.

Automobile Kills Bulldog

Slippers, French bulldog owned by Herbert G. S. Spencer of Washington street was killed by an automobile on lower Washington street Saturday afternoon about five o'clock.

SAYS IT FIRST AND SAYS IT LAST.

Carrie G. Harrel, 119 Nicholson St., Norfolk, Va., writes: "I'll tell anybody that Foley's Honey and Tar is all right. It did me all the good. I said it first and I'll say it last." Thousands of bottles of this reliable remedy were bought last week by careful mothers so as to be prepared to check coughs, colds and croup at the beginning. It acts almost instantly, cuts phlegm, soothes raw, irritated membranes, stops tickling in throat. Lee & Osgood Co.

TAFTVILLE

Thomas Corcoran, age 75 years, died at his home, 25 South A street, Sunday. He was born in Ireland and came to this country 33 years ago with his wife, making his home here in the village. He is survived by five children, three daughters, Miss Hannah Corcoran, Mrs. James McNeeley, Mrs. Mary Twohig of New York and two sons, Mortimer and John of New York.

Saturday afternoon J. O. Tellier had a half bushel of apples which were in his wagon in his shed on Hunters avenue, stolen from him. It is thought that some of the younger folks made away with them.

Napoleon Bourdon has returned from a visit in New York.

Edward Lucier was a week-end visitor in New London.

John Frohmander has purchased a Hudson touring car.

The peace of the village was disturbed yesterday afternoon when two young men engaged in a fist fight which was of short duration on one of the village streets.

BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN FOR ARNOLD MACFARLANE

A birthday party was held at the home of Arnold Macfarlane at 586 Main street on Saturday evening. In the games played, Raymond Bordeau won first prize for planning the eyes on a pumpin, Margaret Macdonald second prize and John Alexander the booby. In shadowgraphs the first prizes were won by Margaret Macdonald and Arthur Beaver, the second by Marion Denison and Joseph Elgo and the boobys by Ruth Ballou and Russell Storms. A lunch was served including a fine birthday cake. Favors were hidden in cakes and nuts. The guests were Margaret and Roberta Macdonald, Helen Marion and Rowland Denison, Arthur Beaver, Joseph Elgo, Cora Button, Loretta Lanoie, Raymond Bordeau, Russell and Robert Storms and John Alexander. Mrs. Beaver and Mrs. Macdonald assisted in serving.

EXPECT MANY TO HEAR DR. MEREDITH'S ADDRESS

The town school board is anticipating a big audience Wednesday evening this week at the Community house on Church street to hear Dr. A. R. Meredith, state commissioner of education. The school committee is bringing him here for a free public meeting in order that Norwich citizens who are interested in school matters, which should mean everyone, may hear what Dr. Meredith has to say about The Educational Outlook for Connecticut.

Dr. Meredith has not yet appeared before a Norwich audience so that there should be made public interest in hearing what he has to say about educational matters in this state.

HUSBAND IN MEXICO, SHE SEEKS DIVORCE

On the grounds of intolerable cruety since Dec. 1, 1917, Evelyn Fisher Starr of New London, has brought suit for divorce from Edward F. Starr, now of Vera Cruz, Mexico. They were married four days before she says the intolerable cruelty began. She wants to have her name changed to Evelyn Fisher.

SEARCH CONTINUES FOR DIAMOND THIEVES

Search has gone on unremittingly for almost two weeks now in following up every available trail that might lead the local police or the Pinkerton detectives to the three men who robbed the John & George H. Bliss Co. jewelry store of about $12,000 worth of unset diamonds on the afternoon of Wednesday, Nov. 24, but how near the authorities have got to locating and capturing the robbers has not been disclosed.

Two Pinkerton men have spent much time here and Clifford E. Wilson of the Bliss store has spent many hours in the aggregate in conference with them at night at police headquarters. Over a score of men, probably, have been summoned to police headquarters to be questioned either by the local police or the Pinkerton operators along lines that might throw some light on aspects of the case that have cropped up.

One of the first lines of investigation that was taken up immediately after the robbery was to question the members of a carnival company that was in the city in the week of the robbery. According to a statement by an officer, practically every member of the carnival company was up before the authorities for investigation at one time or another, but it is not believed that any very fruitful information was gleaned from this line of inquiry.

Reports that a certain saloon had been visited by the robbers several days before they made their daring scoop of the Bliss Co. diamonds started another line of investigation, and it is reported that men were found who will be witnesses to identify the robbers if they are ever found.

More recently a line of investigation was taken up on a report that the three robbers, all of whom were said to have been wearing driving gloves at the time they visited the Bliss store, had been in this city several days before the robbery and had kept their automobile at a garage. The proprietor of the garage was summoned to police headquarters and questioned one Sunday night. The following night he was there again with men in his employ. What developed from this questioning has not been disclosed.

According to the authorities, they are working on the theory that the bold robbery was the work of professionals. I that theory proves to be the correct one, it has been argued in some quarters that the "rogues' gallery" of the Pinkerton men should doubtless contain the pictures of the men who carried out the robbery and the most likely way to get close to the robbers would be to have Mr. Wilson and the other men who say they can identify the robbers look over the Pinkerton's gallery. They might be able to pick out from it some crooks who looked like the men they say they can remember. Then by checking up the whereabouts of these crooks whom the Norwich men picked out, it might be possible to say whether they could have been the trio that got the Bliss diamonds.

$1,000 TODAY IS AIM IN CHRISTMAS SEALS SALES

With only one day left in the Christmas seal drive, Norwich stands nearly $1,000 short of her accepted quota of $3,000, which means that there must be an exceptional sale of seals today and the return of a large number of mail orders for seals and health bonds. This sounds like a large amount of money, but considering that Norwich has a population of 30,000 it will mean that each person in town would have to give only about three cents. If every person should duplicate their purchases today, Norwich would go over the top with a record equalled by no place in the country.

The result of Monday's sales is as follows: Total to Monday, $1,865.84, received Monday—Breed theatre $14.51, Davis theatre $13.55, Porteous & Mitchell $15.17, Boston store $4.85, Thames bank $23.26, Uncas bank $18.26, Norwich Savings society $7.35, Wauregan house $28.31, headquarters $30.92, mail orders $57; total Monday $213.25; grand total $2,079.09.

The booth at Porteous & Mitchell's was taken in charge Monday for the rest of the drive by Mrs. E. Howard Baker, and Mrs. James J. Casey of Broad street was at the Davis theatre on Monday afternoon.

Tuesday afternoon the Red Cross booth at the Davis theatre will be in charge of Mrs. P. F. Sweeney and Tuesday evening Miss Margaret Daley will be in charge, assisted by Miss Rose Dennis.

BOY SCOUTS' OPPORTUNITY WEEK MAKES GOOD START

The first day in Opportnity week, the week when the local Boy Scouts will endeavor to raise $5,000 for work here in Norwich, showed exceedingly good results, the sum of $500 in cash being turned in, and pledges to the amount of $324. Five teams are at work making a personal canvass of the citizens of Norwich, and so far are meeting with success, everyone apparently being anxious to contribute to so worthy an object—the moulding of the character of the youth of Norwich.

The results of the first day's work was as follows:

	Cash.	Pledges.
Team A	$84.00	$250.00
Team B	30.00	10.00
Team C	57.00	5.00
Team D	257.00	93.00
Team E	62.00	16.00
	$500.00	$324.00

Everyone in Norwich will be visited during the week and it is expected that people will readily respond to the call that is so urgent at this time when the raising of such a small sum as $5,000 may mean the moulding of the character of the boys of Norwich in the right way. All checks should be made payable to Arthur E. Story or J. Henry Shannon, who are treasurer and assistant treasurer, respectively.

EXTRA STAMPS ON MONEY LETTERS ATTRACT THIEVES

Frequent complaints have been made at the Norwich postoffice by persons mailing letters there with money in them, directed to out of town points, have never been delivered. In most cases they are letters upon which the senders have put extra postage (special delivery) with the idea that this would be a better protection than if the letter were sent in the ordinary mail.

Postmaster John P. Murphy says that the special delivery stamps in such cases have probably had just the opposite effect, as they have drawn attention to the letter and led somebody at the delivery point to rifle the mail. The letter with money in it would have been safer without the special delivery stamp.

The postmaster's advice is that letters containing money and other valuables should be registered. The safest way to transmit funds is by money order.

In a number of the cases of stolen letters referred to above the senders of the money have been those who could ill afford to lose. It is to be deplored that men employed by the government will resort to such meanness, knowing that if detected they will lose their positions as well as serve time in the penitentiary.

SEEKS DIVORCE FROM HUSBAND IN BROOKLYN

Elizabeth de la Flechelle Cleaver of Groton has brought suit for divorce from Alfred C. Cleaver of Brooklyn, N. Y., on the grounds of intolerable cruelty since Jan. 7, 1914. They were married Aug. 3, 1913. She asks to be allowed to resume her maiden name.

COLLEGE CLUB FEDERATION CHOOSES ITS OFFICERS

At a meeting of the State Federation of Collegiate Alumni and College Clubs held recently in New Haven, Miss Ethel M. Sevin of this city was elected secretary and treasurer for 1921. Mrs. John Edwin Wells, wife of John Edwin Wells of the Connecticut college faculty, was elected president. Mrs. Elgin Snerk of Shelton was the choice for vice president.

Dr. Meredith, state commissioner of education, met with the state federation at its session. The subject of the meeting was Proposed Educational Legislative Programs. Mrs. Arthur L. Peale and Miss Ethel M. Sevin were the delegates from the Norwich College club. Mrs. J. E. Wells and Mrs. Edward P. Eggleston represented the New London club.

All the clubs in the federation have been asked to endorse the proposed program for educational legislation prepared by the State Teachers' association. At their last meeting the Norwich College club endorsed the program.

RULES FOR MOTOR TRUCKS ON CONNECTICUT HIGHWAYS

In view of the campaign by the state motor vehicle department to limit the weight of motor trucks and their loads for the sake of protecting the roads, the following regulations of the department governing the operation of motor trucks are of interest:

State of Connecticut, department of motor vehicles, regulations concerning the operation of commercial motor vehicles.

Maximum Weight With Load.

Under authority of Chapter 202 Section 16, Public Acts of 1919, the highway commissioner has issued an order, taking effect December 1, 1920, that the total weight of any commercial motor vehicle, including load, must not exceed 20,000 pounds. This restriction applies to all trunk lines and state aid highways in the state of Connecticut and will continue in force until May 1, 1921.

Maximum Width of Vehicle.

No commercial motor vehicle or trailer, including load, shall, while operated in Connecticut, exceed nine feet six inches in width unless specially written permit be procured from the highway commissioner.

Steel Tires Prohibited.

The use of steel tires on motor vehicles or trailers is prohibited.

Must Have a Mirror.

Every commercial motor vehicle, so constructed or loaded that the operator does not have a free and unobstructed view of the highway immediately to the rear and at the sides must be equipped with a mirror or reflector attached and adjusted so as to give the operator a clear reflected view of the highway directly to the rear. The mere installation of a mirror without the proper ajustment is a violation of the law.

Every commercial motor vehicle having a maximum carrying capacity of over two tons must have conspicuously in view on each side of the body, near the driver's seat, permanent marking showing the maximum carrying capacity in pounds, the letter to be not less than one inch in height and each stroke not less than 3-16 of an inch wide.

Must Have Proper Headlights.

All commercial motor vehicles of two tons capacity or over which are governed or controlled so that the speed cannot exceed fifteen miles per hour must have at least two headlights that are visible for a distance of at least two hundred feet and of sufficient power to reveal any person, vehicle or substantial object on the road straight ahead for a distance not less than one hundred feet. According to the latest accepted practice, 1200 apparent candlepower is required to comply with this regulation. The candlepower of the kerosene lamps, used as equipment on motor trucks, does not exceed 250 apparent candlepower so that acetylene or electrical headlights must be used. All other commercial vehicles must comply with the headlight regulations, applicable to motor vehicles in general. All motor vehicles equipped with electric headlights, must use a headlight device to prevent glare, certified and approved by the motor vehicle commissioner, including bulbs of proper candlepower and focal adjustment.

Proper Tail Light.

Every motor vehicle operated from 1-2 hour after sunset until 1-2 hour before sunrise must display a red light from behind, also a white light so arranged as to properly illuminate the rear number plate. The tail light equipment must be permanently installed. White lanterns hanging from the rear do not meet the legal requirements.

Must Have Efficient Brakes.

All motor vehicles exceeding ten horse power must be provided with at least two brakes separated from each other. The braking equipment must be sufficient to bring the motor vehicle to a stop, within reasonable distance, on any hill or grade which may be encountered on the highways of the state of Connecticut.

Must Have Efficient Muffler.

Every motor vehicle must be provided with a suitable muffler or device to prevent unnecessary noise—also a suitable bell, horn or other signalling device to serve as an adequate warning of danger. Muffler must be so constructed that the individual explosions of the engine can not be heard at a distance greater than fifty feet.

Reckless Driving of Trucks.

Reckless driving is prohibited as to all vehicles, including trucks, and operators must not drive cars at a speed greater than is reasonable and proper having regard to the width, traffic and use of the highway. Commercial motor vehicles not equipped with pneumatic tires must not exceed fifteen miles per hour on any highway, or eight miles per hour on any bridge or at intersecting highways.

General Mechanical Condition.

The general mechanical condition of a truck or any of its competent units will be considered in determining its fitness for use on the highways of this state.

The steering gear and all steering connections including the alignment of the front wheels may be examined and if found defective the operation of the truck in question will be prevented.

Use of Badly Worn Tires.

Broken or defective springs or operating with the truck frame resting on the axle wherein the elastic element of the spring is destroyed is prohibited.

The law provides that the owner or operator may be prosecuted for any violation. Violations concerning the equipment of the truck will cause the truck to be held by the authorities until the owner shall appear for prosecution. Violations by any act or omission on the part of the operator will result in his arrest.

It is not the intention of the department to restrict the use of motor trucks except where the operation of the truck constitutes a menace to public safety or damage to the road. The speed of trucks equipped with solid rubber tires must be kept within reasonable limits especially when traveling down hill. The lighting equipment must be efficient for safe operation at night.

JUDGE ORDERS PARTITION OF NORWICH TOWN PROPERTY

Judge George E. Hinman of the superior court has just handed down his decision in the suit of Edward H. Capron vs. Charlotte M. Lamb and others for the partition of real estate at Norwich Town.

The judge's memorandum of decision says that the plaintiff is entitled to a partision of the real estate. The evidence, together with an inspction of the premises by the court made at the suggestion of counsel, establishes that an actual physical division of the property is impractical and that partition can be accomplished consistently with the interests of the parties only by a sale and division of the proceeds.

The plaintiff and defendant are owners of equal shares in the real estate, which according to the papers in the suit is valued at about $7,000 and consists of land with a two-tenement house, a stone-house and a barn on it. Attorney Arthur F. Libby was counsel for the plaintiff and Judge John H. Barnes for the defendant.

Felt and cloth, to be used for insulating storage batteries, are being made in Italy out of finely spun glass.

PLUMBER DIDN'T GO OUT ON STRIKE

John Rose

John Dulin, the well known plumber, says he didn't go on strike when he laid off for three weeks, but that he got so nervous that he couldn't cut a thread in a pipe or do anything else in his line of work.

"I was just down and out," he says. "I'd lost weight, hadn't been able to sleep and was so nervous that it almost drove me crazy to try to stick to the job. I had to lay off work and tried a couple of nerve tonics. They didn't help and seemed to make me more fidgety. I came across Goldine No. 1 and what do you think? It took that medicine only five days to take the twitching and trembling out of me. It's building me up right along. I'm eating and sleeping like a log and feel fine. Goldine No. 1 is a great tonic, all right. Sure, I'm back on the job.

John Rose knows the value of Goldine.

Goldine is sold by G. G. ENGLER'S DRUG STORE.

POETRY

THE SINGING VAGABOND.

A mad fellow went wandering
The fair roads of the world along,
And ever as he went would sing
A foolish, happy snatch of song—
Ri tol de rol!
A glad heart and a merry soul!

I had a seemly little store
Of wealth and 'twas my joy to lend
All to a comrade fallen poor—
Now I have neither money nor friend—
Ri tol de rol!
A glad heart and a merry soul!

I had a love I thought I was true,
Who set my simple heart aglow,
Losing my money, I lost her, too,
For the good God made women so—
Ri tol de rol!
A glad heart and a merry soul!

Onward I trudge right merrily.
And take whatever luck may come;
All roads are alike to me,
For, one alike can lead me home—
Ri tol de rol!
A glad heart and a merry soul!

And lastly, all my days being sped,
Like fallen leaves or broken waves,
I shall go down among the dead,
The quiet dead who sleep in graves—
Ri tol de rol!
A glad heart and a merry soul!
—J. J. Adams, in The Spectator.

THINGS.

Is there no one to sing the song of things—
The joyful tremor that a loved room wears
When you come back to it at close of day?
You see the sweet, puffed bosoms of the chairs
All gently stirred with gladness, the dismay
Of placed sofa, when she sees you sad;
The very carpet, gharled and woolly,
Purrs
Or does it purr at pressure of your feet?
The grinning dogs against whose stiff, bronze fur
Your old books lean, are poised expectant, neat,
And the dim China bowl of fragile blue
Is heaped with violets like purple spray.
"Things of the spirit," so the saying goes,
The wise man is the lonely one who knows
All things are of the spirit.
—Beatrice Washburn, in New York Evening Post.

Daughter—But, papa, Tom is a man you can trust.

Her Dad—Good heavens, girl! What I want is one I can borrow from.—Boston Transcript.

Blustering Prisoner—I'll have your buttons for this outrage, officer!

The Cop—Will you take them with you or shall I have them sent, sir?—Buffalo Express.

Agnes—They say a woman is as old as she looks.

Marie—Never mind, dear, we all know you are only 26.—Boston Transcript.

"Pop, what is a tentative performance?"

"It's one of them open-air shows, sonny."—Baltimore American.

"Gone in for politics, have you? Want to see what good you can do the country?"

"Bless you, no! Want to see what good the country can do me."—Sydney Bulletin.

Miss Menryears—Yes, that is a picture of me painted when I was a little girl.

Mr. Blunt—Is it a Copley or a Gilbert Stuart?—Boston Transcript.

"Do you really believe such an emotion as jealousy can produce indigestion?"

"I do think it can bring on heartburn."—Baltimore American.

"I could take music lessons at $5 a lesson, honey."

"Huh?"

"But I prefer to economize. And the money I save in that way I'll put into a fur coat for myself."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Do not make a practice," said the teacher, "of noting flaws in other people's work."

"Sorry, teacher, but I got to," one boy spoke up.

"What do you mean, Williams?"

"You see, dad's a proof reader and he's teaching me to become one, too."—Boston Transcript.

"Isn't running for office something of a contagious disease?"

"I don't know about that; it isn't always catching."—Baltimore American.

"No, your honor, he didn't give a hoot whether I saw him coming or not."

"How do you know he didn't give a hoot?"

"Well, he didn't blow his horn."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Did the burglars overlook anything of value?" inquired the reporter.

"I'd rather not say," returned the victim.

"Why?"

"Because they'll be watching the papers for a day or two to find out."—Boston Transcript.

A weighing instrument in the Bank of England is so sensitive that it will show the difference in weight caused by writing a signature on a slip of paper.

The English royal correspondence requires no postage. If it did, King George's bill for postage stamps would amount to something like $50,000 a year.

In the polar regions conversation can be carried on with ease at a mile to a mile and a quarter. This is because the air is cold, clear and extraordinarily still.

The Labyrinth, famous in ancient history, was a celebrated structure built by Minos, king of Crete, which includes a maze so skillfully designed that it was claimed no one could find his way out, once he had entered it.

Tiny pearls were found in large numbers in a shipment of tripe from the United States to England. It is believed that this is nothing unusual, but that the pearls, imbedded in cysts, have previously escaped notice.

It is reported that 40,000 Italians were blinded in the war, a larger number than in any other country. Many of these men have lost arms or feet as well, but they are eagerly learning new ways to make a living.

The American Forestry Association states that while ten years ago the United States produced its entire supply of pulp wood, last year only one-third of the newspapers issued were printed on the product of American forests.

A full-grown specimen of the bowhead whale is said to be worth $15,000 merely for the whalebone which it carries in its mouth. Whalebone is now quoted at $7.50 a pound. The bowhead is to be found only in the Arctic ocean.

First class narrow roads are replacing the old paths in Japan, says the New York Herald. Auto roads, electric roads and light railways serve many parts of the country in a surprising manner, while rolling stock and handling methods are being improved.

Diamond dealers don't like to pass an opinion on gems when the day is damp. It is a fact that weather has a great effect on precious stones. Murky weather will spoil the appearance of a diamond, but a really nasty, foggy day will make even the purest stone seem imperfect.

When it comes to appreciating your jokes the man who laughs first laughs best.
