Hugh Miller.

The eminent Geologist and eloquent writer, whose death has been announced in our telegraph column, is thus commemorated in the New York Independent:

Hugh Miller has written his own biography. We need add nothing to what he has told of his life with such vigor, pleasantry, and point in his "Schools and Schoolmasters," and his "First Impressions of England." His contributions to science in various forms, but especially in his "Footprints of the Creator," and his "Old Red Sandstone," will be a permanent monument to his memory. Self-taught in that department of science which was his specialty, he made discoveries and framed theories in geology that caused him to be accepted as one of the highest authorities in science. To scientific knowledge he added a good degree of literary culture, especially in the literature of Scotland, and having laid aside the hammer, he learned to wield the pen with strength and grace. As editor of The Witness, the organ of the Free Church, he acquitted himself ably in the discussion of Church and State affairs, and he enriched his journal with articles upon Christian science.

His rare powers and attainments were consecrated to the services of the Master whom he loved. His method of harmonizing Geology and Genesis evinces fine logical powers and a reverential spirit. We had hoped ere long to welcome him to this country as a lecturer upon his favorite science; but it has pleased God to take him in the midst of his years. The sadness of the event itself is deepened by the manner of it. The only particulars of his death are thus given in a supplement to The Witness, dated Dec. 24, at 1 o'clock P. M:

"Mr. Miller had been ill for some time—working hard and late at night, in completing his new work on Geology. He had become, in consequence, subject to aggravated attacks of nightmare, which partook of the nature of somnambulism. Some time ago attempts had been made to break into his museum; and he, in consequence, had always slept with a loaded revolver on the table by his side.

"Yesterday, on account of headache and unrefreshing sleep, he had seen his medical advisers, who had warned him of overwork, and prescribed suitably. Last night, according to their request, he had taken a warm sponge-bath, and retired early to rest.

"After having slept some considerable time, he had apparently awakened in a fit of nightmare, and, taking up the pistol, had reached the bed-room door, as far as the bath, which had been left, after use, in the adjoining department. There the pistol had exploded, the bullet passing through the chest, and death must have been instantaneous. The sound not having been heard at this hour of the night by any of the household, Mr. Miller's body was not discovered till this morning.

"Under existing circumstances, we cannot at present dwell further on this sad calamity. Mr. Miller had completed his fifty-second year."

The mystery that surrounds his departure should awaken no distrust, either of the soundness of his own heart in the faith of the Gospel, or of the Providence of God that hath suffered this catastrophe. Both Harris and Miller have fallen through causes induced by excessive labor in their respective fields. Both, we doubt not, have entered into the rest of God's faithful servants.

Thus, star by star declines,
Till all are passed away,
As morning high and higher shines,
To pure and perfect day;
Nor sink those stars in empty night—
They hide themselves in heaven's own light.

MAKING PRESENTS.—The New York Post is opposed to the general custom of making holliday and other presents—especially wedding presents. It says:

These reflections have been suggested by an incident which came under the observation of a lady friend of our acquaintance while making some purchases in one of our most magnificent jewelry establishments a day or two since. She incidently mentioned that she wanted the articles she was looking at for wedding presents. Do you wish to hire or to buy them, was the innocent inquiry of the shopkeeper. In course of a little further conversation, our friend ascertained, to her surprise, that it is quite a common practice now in this city to hire wedding presents of great value to be exhibited to the public at the ceremony, and then returned. Who is to be imposed upon by these exhibitions, depends upon circumstances. Sometimes both bride and groom are parties to the fraud; sometimes only one; sometimes the parents of one of the parties; sometimes both. The public are always, of course, to be the victims.

Rev. T. Clapp

Has addressed a valedictory letter to the members of the First Congregational Unitarian Church of New Orleans, dated at Louisville, Nov. 7th. That he anticipates death in a short time, appears from the terms of this communication. He says:

Dearly Beloved Brethren:—Compelled by ill health to relinquish a pastoral connection of thirty-five years' standing—a connection endeared to me by all that is sacred, precious and affecting in memory—by those absorbing and unspeakable hopes, which crossing the theatre of time, and the gulf of death, open to our view the ever-expanding scenes, wonders and glories of an immortal being, the mournful duty devolves upon me of bidding you each and all an affectionate farewell!—farewell! I write the word with those deep and tender emotions which no language is adequate to express.

* * * * * * * *

I wish it were in my power to find words that would express my grateful sence of your uninterrupted friendship and kindness from the beginning of our acquaintance to the present hour. More especially do I thank you for the noble and forbearing spirit which you have manifested in throwing the mantle of charity and oblivion over the numerous idiosyncrasies of my constitutional temperament, and the many short comings and imperfections which marked my professional career.

☞ A singular incident is said to have occured about twenty-five miles from Rome, at a country place called Sabina, near the Fiano district. Some laborers were at work in a basin shaped hollow when they suddenly felt a shaking of the earth, like an earthquake, which caused them to run off to a distance.—They then saw the earth open in the place they had left, and a black smoke rise up; the surrounding ground seemed to fall in; and the place filled with water, forming a lake of about 1,000 metres, which has been increasing daily in size ever since. The water is salt, and the general idea seems to be that the hollow thus filled is the site of an extinct volcano.

NOTICE TO LIQUOR DEALERS AND MERCHANTS.

A COMPLETE assortment of the Oils necessary for making and flavoring every variety of liquor, and a package of the articles used for giving AMERICAN WHISKEY to liquors, (converting 70 gallons of Whisky to 100 gallons) and every article necessary to commence a LIQUOR STORE, will be furnished for $20. Also all the information necessary to conduct such an establishment, thus enabling the new beginner to successfully compete with the oldest liquor dealers. Address, through the Post Office, P. LACOUR, New Orleans.

Lacour's Concentrated Acid for making Vinegar, is put up in two gallon packages at $5 per package—in good shipping order. jan5

QUIT DRINKING POISONOUS LIQUORS.
PATENT IMPROVED PROCESS
FOR MAKING
All Kinds of Liquors and Vinegar.
INSTANTLY, by the use of LACOUR'S ESSENTIAL OILS.

These Oils are obtained by Distillation at the Chemical Laboratory, Parish of Jefferson, of Pierre Lacour, author of Lacour's Chemical Analysis, Lacour's Chemical Manipulations, Lacour on the Manufacture of Liquors, &c.

Purchasers are particularly requested to return the flasks and obtain their money, it the oil does not give perfect satisfaction.

LACOUR'S OIL OF COGNAC converts neutral spirit to a superior imitation of Imported Brandies, viz: Otard, Sazerac, Marett Cognac, Poultney, Seignette, United Vineyard Proprietors, Castilion and London Dock Brandies.—These liquors will have a full fruity flavor and a beautiful, sparkling color. Common Rectified Whisky will be changed by the use of the Oil of Cognac to New York Brandy, Pine Apple Brandy, Common Cognac Brandy, &c.

LACOUR'S OIL OF RYE changes Rectified Whisky to Monongahela Rye Whisky, Old Virginia Malt Whisky, Bourbon Whisky, &c.

OIL OF ORDAT changes common Rectified Whisky to Old Irish Malt Whisky, and a superior article of Scotch Whisky.

OIL OF PEACH changes common Whisky to Virginia Peach Brandy, &c. Oil of Peach and oil of Cognac will convert common Whisky to Apple Brandy.

OIL OF GIN converts the poorest Whisky to Holland Gin Scheidam Schnapps, Rose Gin, Swan Gin, English Gin, &c.

LACOUR'S CONCENTRATED ACID will, in five hours after being mixed, change five gallons of good Vinegar and twenty-five gallons of water to thirty gallons of the most acid Vinegar that can be found in the market. By the use of Lacour's Concentrated Acid, Vinegar can be made for one dollar and sixty cents per barrel.

FOR MAKING LIQUORS, Lacour's Oils require no preparation—only pour the oil into the whisky and shake well. The liquors thus made will have a fine natural aroma, a full, rich, oily taste; a beautiful transparent color and a fine bead. Lacour's oils exert three distinct properties in converting common whisky to brandy, gin, &c. The first property combines with and sub ideas in the form of Gonkient particles the whole of the grain oil, (Amylic Alcohol.) The whisky is thus deprossed of that peculiar irritating and burning taste, and becomes a neutral spirit; the second property consists in an oily mucilliginous taste imparted to the liquor, which renders it mellow, and imparts an appearance of great age; the third property is exhibited in the rich vinous nutty odor that is imparted to the liquor, which renders distinction from the genuine brands impossible.

These oils are put up in quart flasks; each flask contains sufficient oil for making three hundred gallons of liquor.—Full and comprehensive directions accompany the bottles. Price $2 per bottle.

For sale at the corner of St. Charles and Poydras streets. One bottle of these oils, five in number, will be securely packed and shipped, with bill of lading to any part of the country, upon the receipt of $10, in the address of P. LACOUR, New Orleans.

Purchasers are requested, as a guarrantee of good faith, to furnish us the name of any house in New Orleans and we will ship them a package of the Oils. If they do not perform all that is claimed for them, they will cost nothing. jan5-1y

ST. CHARLES HOTEL,
PORTLAND, KY.
THE undersigned, Lessee of this newly erected and admirably adapted House, takes pleasure in announcing to the public generally, and especially to passengers arriving or departing at the Portland Wharf, that this house is now completely furnished and ready for the accommodation of Guests.
Every item of Furniture, bedding, and indeed, the building throughout, is fitted up with articles expressly manufactured for the house.
Situated as the ST. CHARLES is, immediately at the landing of the principal shipping point for Louisville, where nearly all her transfer guests first arrive, and from whence they depart for the West and South, this house affords a convenience and comfort to the traveler heretofore not experienced at this point.
It shall be the earnest endeavor of the Proprietor of this Establishment to command a liberal share of public patronage, because he intends to deserve it. The House, with its extensive grounds, cool, shady groves, and general conveniences, is unsurpassed as a transient house. It shall be kept as a first-class Hotel—lacking no one of the essentials of such an establishment.
MR. J. W. RUBONO, well known to the traveling public, from his long connection with Hotels in Louisville, is engaged, and will ass
