ANNOUNCEMENTS

Davis Theatre Today and Tomorrow

Probably there is no artiste of the screen today whose appearance and personality better fit tom-boy, harum-scarum roles than do Miss Bebe Daniels'. Realart has wisely chosen to present her in just such roles, and with Elmer Harris to prepare such amusing stories for her, and Major Maurice Campbell to direct them, the public is always assured of a fun treat when saucy Bebe comes to town.

She was shown last night at the Davis theatre in "A March Hare," and the continuous laughter which greeted her escapades was strong testimony that she lived up to her title role very successfully.

At the fag end of the great Klondike gold rush is laid the scenes of "Bucking the Tiger," the Selznick picture which is the second feature with Conway Tearle as star.

Opposite the star the winsome Winifred Westover plays with all her accustomed wistfulness and appeal, as the character of Emily is one which gives her full scope for the display of her skill in characterization of emotional roles.

The play from which this picture was made, was written by May Tully and Achmed Abdullah.

A news weekly and a comedy entitled Zulu Love will be included in this program. There will be the usual continuous show Saturday from 1.30.

Davis Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday

Mary Pickford will be seen first as a little Belgian girl when she comes to the Davis theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in her new picture, Through the Back Door.

A combination of American and foreign locale, this picture offers excellent entertainment possibilities, featuring as it does the world's greatest screen actress in a child part, the role in which Mary Pickford has no peer.

The story opens at Ostend in 1903, then the gayest seashore resort in Belgium. Little Jeanne Bodamere and her pleasure-loving mother are summering at Ostend, where Madame Bodamere meets Elton Reeve, a wealthy New Yorker. After a whirlwind courtship Reeves and Madame Bodamere marry. Little Jeanne is consigned to the care of her nurse, Maria, for one year, against the mother's wishes and only because the new husband insists.

Five years pas before Mrs. Reeves returns for her little daughter. The old nurse meanwhile has married and has come to regard little Jeanne as her own. She tells the mother the child is dead.

Blaming her husband for the loss of her baby, Mrs. Reeves becomes fretful and discontented. They return to America, but not even Reeves' riches bring happiness to the disconsolate mother.

Meanwhile war breaks out in Europe. Fearing for Jeanne's safety the nurse sends her to America with a note of explanation to her mother. Circumstances conspire to prevent Jeanne from presenting this note. She is forced to enter her mother's home as a servant through the back door. Thus does the story get its name.

In the capacity of maid, Jeanne discloses a blackmailing conspiracy against her step-father, reveals her identity to her mother in a touching scene and brings back to this household the lovebird which was about to fly away.

"Circus Heroes," a Hallroom Boys comedy and a Paramount magazine will be included in this bill.

At the Strand Theatre

A fine program was ushered in at the Strand beginning yesterday and will continue through Saturday. The program consists of four B. F. Keith's vaudeville acts direct from New York and a fine feature picture with Alice Joyce.

Nestor and Vincent open the vaudeville bill with a novelty act. This consists of some very good juggling, novelty surprise, comical situations and as a whole is very interesting and a good act. Bea Belmont and Stowaway offer their singing and piano act second. Miss Belmont does some very good singing, being introduced in the meantime. A very good piano selection is rendered by Mr. Stowaway. Love and Scans come third on the bill in their novelty comedy act. Their very good singing, dancing and comedy will give you much enjoyment.

De Lea and Orma are very appropriate for closing the vaudeville bill. The name of their act is "4 Feet of Fun." It is that and a little more. The woman who is of the elongated type will keep you in roars of laughter from the moment you set eyes on her until the end. A very good comedienne and so funny—well judge for yourself. Her partner helps along the comedy very naturally. The feature picture is Alice Joyce in "The Scarb Ring."

You like a good mystery story, one that keeps you guessing right up to the end. This is just what this picture does. It holds the attention, keeps you interested and makes you forget everything else. If you enjoy god clean film entertainment you are sure to like this picture.

Breed Theatre

Tom Mix does some more hair raising stunts in his latest William Fox picture "The Road Demon," which will be shown at the Breed theatre today and Saturday.

Mix's famous horse Tony has a rival in "The Road Demon," because Tony uses a racing car for many of the thrilling and daredevil escapades. But Tony is there just the same and will do his usual best to help Mix ehtertain. The big part of the story hinges on two big auto races. It is comedy, too, and of the live sort. Claire Anderson is Mix's leading woman in "The Road Demon."

Other pictures on the bill include "The Singer Midgets Scandals", a Sunshine comedy, a Ford educational and the Pathe news.

Broadway Property Changes Hands

August Hahn has sold through the agency of Francis D. Donohue to Ovide O. Lacroix his property located at No. 235 Broadway, it is a two tenement house with a barn and has a lot 100 by 400 feet extending from Broadway to Francis Place. Mr. Lacroix will occupy one of the apartments after making some repairs. The property was owned by the late Alexander Moran for a number of years.

New England Postmasters in convention assembled discussed among other things a question of manners. Can a clerk be too courteous? It is reported that some of the men who handle the mails are inclined to answer the question in the affirmative.—Boston Transcript.

New Britain.—A double funeral was held in New Britain for Mrs. James H. Footit and her son Austin, 11, who were killed Saturday afternoon when an automobile in which they were passengers was struck by an electric train at the Beckley crossing on the Berlin state road near New Britain.
