GOSHEN

Bradford Jones returned recently after a visit with friends in Buffalo, N. Y.

A number of farmers are materializing the idea of raising a better quality of grafted fruit another year and have cooperated in the purchase of an up-to-date power sprayer.

One of the best programs yet was given at the Community club meeting held in the church Thursday evening, April 20th. The church was brilliantly lighted from the porch to the dome in the interior by Carl W. Brown of Norwich, who donated his portable Delco light plant. The electric current from this course was used also for a stereopticon picture. A large number of views of scenes in New England, in New London county, of places and people of the home town of Lebanon, were shown. A proportion of pictures represented the extension school works under the auspices of the New London county farm bureau in the local community during the past year. Better Farm Conveniences was the title of one reel of moving pictures thrown on the screen. Lebanon orchestra rendered some fine selections during the evening. A solo was given by Mrs. F. N. Taylor, also by Mrs. E. L. Waterman, and a number of songs by Stephen Goski and his sister, Sophia Goski, all in a pleasing manner. Light refreshments were served.

The new singing books purchased by the Y. P. S. C. E. were used Sunday evening.

A number witnessed an unusual sight at about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon when a large airship coming out of the northwest passed directly over this place. The sky pilot was about a mile high and seemed to regain his bearings, for he seemed to change his course, sailing away toward the south, disappearing in a cloud headed toward Mineola, L. I.

The Successful Hearing and Management of Chickens was a very interesting subject at the poultry meeting held in Academy hall Monday evening. Able speakers from Storrs college were present. A poultry club is to be formed here.

A large fire destroying a house in Colchester attracted attention here Monday afternoon.

Will Seek Senatorial Nomination, And Spend Nothing

Representative Patrick H. Kelley, of Michigan, has announced his candidacy for the post of Senator Charles R. Townsend, whose office will be contested for this November. Opposed to him will be Senator Townsend, and Colonel Emory, former Commander of the American Legion. In a statement announcing his plans Mr. Kelley declared it should be possible for the Republicans of Michigan to nominate a senatorial candidate, "practically without the expenditure of money," and he will make his campaign without expending a single dollar.
