Seven cases were heard in police court Monday morning. In a final warning in regard to motor vehicle speeding Judge Frank H. Foss made the following remarks:

"The minimum fine for automobile and motorcycle speeders is $25 and costs and when there may be conditions and reasons where lives are not endangered by drivers who get out. It must be understood that it is no excuse under the law for such conditions. Let it now be understood once and all that there will be no more fines of such cases or payment of costs after today's session of court. So spread the gospel of the law. Stops and speed will go in the future where the circumstances is sufficient for convicting."

These remarks were made for the benefit of the public and were addressed to a number of speeders arraigned before him in court Monday morning. Two drove motorcycles and two motorcycles. In addition there were two other cases heard for violations of other phases of the automobile law and one case of intoxication, making a docket of seven cases for the day.

The scene of all the speed violations was on West Main street Saturday evening and Sunday. Saturday afternoon Motorcycle Officer Bombria was stationed in West Main street when the hum of motors was heard coming from the east, swinging around the curve came two automobiles and Officer Bombria gave chase and apprehended the pair. Vincent Wyant of Mansfield was in the lead and Frank Bigaschino, connected with a local garage, was trailing Wyant. According to the officer, the pair were traveling at the rate of 45 miles an hour. Wyant pleaded guilty but Bigaschino not guilty. He said that his old Ford could not make that speed and he knew from his several years experience that he was not going 70 miles an hour. Frank Potasek of the Tallow Row and Daniel Pompoff of 328 Valley street were the motorcyclists in question. Officer Bombria said that both were making from 35 to 40 miles an hour. Potasek acknowledged his guilt but Pompoff said that he was not guilty. The evidence showed that both men were on the same trip. The offenses were committed Sunday afternoon.

Fred Dupree, charged with operating an automobile without having an operator's license, pleaded guilty. Arthur Joslin of Willimantic was charged with not taking either a driver's license or car registration, to which he pleaded guilty. He said he had lost both somewhere. When held up by the officer he searched his pockets but could not find his credentials. He will be was sorry for the happening. Judge Foss thus told just what the attitude of the court will be in future cases of the kind and then noted the six cases upon payment of costs.

Jan Zurowski of 11 Yellow Row was charged with intoxication and pleaded guilty. He was arrested Sunday evening at 5:15 o'clock on complaint of a neighbor who said he was abusive. Zurowski told the court he had finished a pint of liquor but that had meant "nothing to him." The trouble was that his neighbor had a boy who was always calling his children names, giving all they had was second hand food and clothing. Zurowski said he and his wife worked in the cotton mill and were the parents of eight children. He said he was arrested once before. Zurowski wanted to tell the story of his life and something about his neighbors, but the court told him that something was known of the incidents he was eager to relate, the court not caring to hear anything further. Judge Foss imposed a sentence of 15 days in jail and a fine of $7 and costs. The jail sentence was suspended as well as the fine on condition that Zurowski keep away from his neighbor. The costs in the case were assessed at $8.13. All concerned settled at the close of the court session.

Mr. Horton took the child to the office of Dr. John Weldon, where it was found she was more frightened than hurt. The matter was reported to the police.
