NORTH SCHOOL WILL OPEN FOR WORK MONDAY; CENTRAL BUILDING CROWDED

AFTER MUCH DELAY, WORK ON NORTH SCHOOL IS COMPLETED; FINE FURNACE, SEPTIC TANK AND DRAINAGE.

750 IN SCHOOLS; PATRONS BALK AND NOW THERE'S TROUBLE

School Board and Superintendent Still in Difficulty—Patrons Refuse to Send Children to North School and as the High School Building is Unfinished, the Central Building Must Care for 200 Extra Students Until January 1—Board Trying to Find Extra Rooms, but None Are Available.

The North School will open Monday. The building has been placed in perfect condition; it is said to be in better condition than before it was moved. A first-class furnace has been put in, the building has been newly plastered and dried for a week, a septic tank has been put in for sewerage purposes, and drain tile has been laid about the school grounds. The Board and Supt. Kirk affirm that the North School is in every sense fully the equal of the central building, that it is as sanitary as could possibly be desired, and that with the strong array of teachers placed at this building the prospect for a very successful year is much better than at the downtown school now overcrowded to the extent of 200.

Time List of Teachers.

In the North School the first seven grades will be taught. All eighth grade and high school students will attend at the Central building. The Board directs particular attention to the list of teachers at the North school, these being from among the best employed: Miss Esther Simmons, 5th grade, principal teacher; Bessie Thorpe grade 1, Vieve Walker 2, Laura Waggoner 3, Florence Adams 4, Alice Fleming 6, Della Rush 7. It is felt that no one can possibly raise a legitimate objection to the North school, and the Board represents the publication of misunderstandings and misapprehensions of one who signed himself "Progress." And it is asserted that Dr. Cathey was misrepresented, only a hypothetical case being put up to him for answer. The Board is not inclined to quarrel, but proposes to get the city Health officer to make an investigation and report.

Central Building Crowded.

Parents nearer the Central building refuse to let their children go to the North school. This gives the Central school 200 more pupils than it can care for, and the Board is now looking for rooms in the Court house, churches or down town buildings. Unless these are secured the first, second, third and fourth grades will have to continue on a half day schedule until the new high school building is finished about January 1st. The Job's addition children have walked from five to fifteen blocks during several years, but the parents of the downtown children refuse to let their boys and girls travel that distance six months in order to relieve an extraordinary condition. The Board has no way of forcing this situation, and as it seems unable to convince the parents, the situation will be handled with as little inconvenience as possible, but it is stated emphatically that present conditions do not admit of satisfactory work at the Central school.

Large Enrollment

It is not definitely known how many pupils will show up Monday, but Supt. Kirk anticipates not less than 750, a rather marked increase over last year. There are 130 in the high school. The teachers at the Central building are:

High school, Mrs. Gertrude Strange, Lena Tartar, Anna Denman; grades, Miss Anna Lindgren 8th high, Supt. Mack 8th low, Delphina Haenel 7th, Florence Bowden 6th, Miss Lyon 5th, Margaret Fowells 4th, Lura Kiser 3rd, Josephine Fullerton 2nd, Kate Taddock 1st.

WHERE TO WORSHIP TOMORROW

"We should therefore think of religion, not as a luxury to make a few people happy, but as a necessity, to make bad people good, because it is good; as a principle to help all men build character; as a life, without which no one can live freely, fully, divinely. It is not something to save us from a 'naughty and sinful world,' and to make us fit for heaven hereafter. If it can do nothing for us here and now, if it can not improve the environments and conditions of life on earth, 'the game is not worth the candle.' But it can do all these things, and that is what it is for. It has done more for humanity than all other things, in spite of the ignorance, the superstition and folly that men have lugged into it. If we can give it a rational faith, and a common-sense, every-day appreciation, if we will only give it the chance it deserves, then it will place us at our best, and nothing short of this is worthy of God and man.—Luther Dyott, Portland.

INSTANT RELIEF FROM ITCH

The Itch Gone, the Skin Soothed and Refreshed—Immediately.

Instant relief from that itch. A few drops of a soothing liquid—

And the itch is gone as if by magic.

Just a drop or two on the skin and no more of that torturing, endless, nerve racking pain.

Can you imagine how it will feel—that itching agony swept away in a moment?

You can know the relief if you just try the simple remedy—simplest of external liquid remedies—oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.

We positively know that it alleviates the itch immediately—we vouch for this and guarantee it—for we have seen it used in too many cases, and the cures that follow, as far as we know, seem to be permanent. Allen & Woodward.

FOR SALE—Six Jersey heifers from one to two years old; almost subject to register. Call on or address E. A. Carter, Wells Or. 15w-4t

PROTEST AGAINST ROAMING ANIMALS

PEOPLE GETTING TIRED OF ANIMALS TRAMPING ON LAWN.

MRS. S. B. ROWLEY INDIGNANT

Cattle Permitted to Get Onto Her Parking; Hogs Permitted to Root up Her Flowers and Yard Some Time Ago—Many People Have Reason to Kick.

During the past two weeks, scarcely a day has passed without a complaint from some luckless resident of Corvallis whose sidewalk parking or lawn has been badly damaged by cattle, hogs or sheep driven through the streets. The complaint today comes from the Rowleys, who live at the corner of 7th and Philomath road. Mrs. Rowley says cattle did considerable damage about their place yesterday, trampling out in a very few minutes the result of continuous care and labor of recent months. The cattle driver made no real effort to protect the Rowley property and rode a horse on the cement walk there, himself.

Makes Suggestions.

Mrs. Rowley protests strenuously at the disregard shown in this respect. Though cattle have been permitted to get onto sidewalk lawn, and into her yard and while at one time this summer hogs were permitted to get into her property and spoil the results of many hours of hard labor, she has not before offered a public protest. She, like a host of others, is getting tired of having her work nullified by herds and droves without sufficient attendants to keep the animals from doing damage. She wants to know if the stock yards can not be moved to the edge of town where drivers need not cross the city with their animals, and in case that is impossible can not the city council pass an ordinance requiring that herds be properly attended, or designate certain streets over which the animals may be driven, streets on which there is no effort at improvement?

A Charming Place.

Those who have noted the care given the Rowley premises, inside and outside the fence, will sympathize with Mrs. Rowley in her protest. That place is ever a bower of roses, with a good lawn, and it is ever as trim and neat as loving care and much work can make it. They have a cement walk there, though there is no curb there, the Rowleys have successfully endeavored to keep up a nice parking outside the walk. They and all others should be properly protected in their effort at beautification.

R. H. Houston, Mrs. Etta Lee, R. E. Burger, Vance Taylor, J. H. Harris, the Walkers, Flints and many in the south end of town, who have suffered from cattle, sheep and hogs driven along the street, will echo Mrs. Rowley's indignation. It's up to the city fathers.

OREGON'S FAMOUS TOWNS

Albany Democrat—"The Medford Tribune claims Congressman Hawley said that Medford is the best-known town in Oregon outside of Portland. This has stirred things. Eugene completely outshines Medford in publicity according to local papers there. Everybody knows Salem is better known than Medford, Col. Hofer alone is. Someone recently said Albany is the most talked of town in Oregon. Corvallis and the O. A. C. are famous clear to Chicago for the weeds of the town and the fine school, while Hood River is on the map even in London. The Tribune had better try again. Certainly it prevaricated about Congressman Hawley." And yet Corvallis has not more weeds than Albany.

GOOD REST ROOM IN CORVALLIS

W. C. T. U. KEEPS UP FREE READING AND REST ROOM.

INVITES THE FARMERS' WIVES

Member of Society Calls Attention to the Fact that This City Has Been as Thoughtful as Eugene, Which Was Praised by Curtis.

GAZETTE-TIMES:

In a recent issue of the daily, extracts from Mr. Curtis's article in a Chicago paper made especial mention of the "Rest Room" at Eugene, where farmers' wives could go and dust up, eat their lunch, etc. The thought came that perhaps there may be persons in Corvallis who do not know the good that is done in Corvallis in the W. C. T. U. reading room. While it is too small and inadequate to carry out the ladies' plans for a Rest Room, with all that would imply, yet farmers' wives and families are welcome to come and rest where the daily papers and current magazines of the day are on the table.

At different times young lady clerks have eaten their noon lunch at the rooms, and at present several working women and girls each day eat their lunch and rest at the noon hour at the reading room.

The matron, Mrs. Mulkey, is ever willing to do anything to help anyone wanting advice or information in any way. This enterprise belongs to Corvallis and is carried along on purely unselfish motives, having only the betterment of the community at large in view. The ladies of the W. C. T. U. would be pleased to have those who appreciate this work to call in occasionally and judge for themselves what is being done even in Corvallis in the W. C. T. U. Free Reading and Rest Room.
