CAUSES OF IRITATION.

Close observers of the various agitations that have worked disastrous effects in the economy of California have not been deceived as to the potent causes. The press of California has occupied a very peculiar relation to public affairs. With a few honorable exceptions here and there, standing out like refreshing green spots in a desert of venality, the press is responsible for about all the unnecessary and unwarranted irritation experienced in California in the adjustment of capital to the conditions under which investments have been made, and especially as to capital invested in railroad building and operation. The statement will probably excite the animosity of the class referred to, but that will be additional evidence of a truth well established. In the case of the railroad crusade, it must be admitted that is a matter of history. Ward-strikers, manipulators of conventions, and all of the class that make politics a business, have coined the anti-railroad agitation into money. They have never had the interests of the people at heart, although in their name they assume to speak and act. They have, by devices well understood, "worked up" the present agitation, just as in the past they have engineered similar assaults upon other enterprises. One of their chief aids, if not the chief, has been a large portion of the country press, whose office seems to be to foster a menacing sentiment against corporations engaged in prosecuting industries that have done, and do more now, than any other agencies to develop the resources of the country. As a consequence the latter have been forced to defend, and to avail themselves of the class of people who control the course of legislation, that the right might not be crushed out. Those who have been intimately related to any association for establishing desirable industries, for manufacturing, for mining, for navigation, for developing special capacities of the soil, for facilitating transportation, for experimental industries, for inducing immigration, for the construction of great public works, etc., know this to be true. Capital is driven at the first step to take care of the assailants whose motive is personal aggrandizement, and to make peace with the powers that direct legislation and nominate men for office. It is a part of the history of the State that delegates to conventions have come down from counties where a strong hostile sentiment has been "worked up" against any particular enterprise, and have coined that hostility into money. For years, and dating back to a time prior to the era of railroad building, a large portion of the press of this State has been engaged, possibly at times unwittingly, in manufacturing goods for a market in which the usual element in politics controls the price lists. While no prominent corporate enterprises have escaped, none have been so persistently assailed and forced to defend the right against these agencies as transportation companies, and no agitation has been so industriously "worked" in the interests of the low political elements as that directed against railroad companies and their shareholders. It is time the people should awake to a full realization of these facts, and should look beneath the surface for the true causes of the crusades against capital and industry in California. There are journals in the State that have been and are conscientious and self-respecting, that have considered the facts, formed cool judgments—have had the courage of their convictions, have dared to express their honest sentiments upon popular topics, and have refused to lend themselves to the evil designs of venal agencies; but invariably such papers have had to share the fate that falls, in California so often, to the man who has the necessary moral stamina to speak for the right regardless of the question of its popularity.

THE UNIFORM RATE DEBATE.

The Examiner, in endeavoring to interpret an expression of this journal, which needed no interpretation, since it was as clear and unambiguous as language could make it, says: "In other words, if a railroad like the Southern Pacific is built through Arizona to reach a valuable point in Texas and the great seaport cities of New Orleans, Galveston and Mobile, the thinly-settled districts on the desert should contribute, principally through extortionate charges, to the support of the through line." Now the RECORD-UNION took no such position. The Examiner misrepresents us again, as it has all along persistently done. It is the hight of folly to continue a debate with a contemporary that refuses to read aright. But we may once more reiterate that the position taken was, that outlying, thinly-settled districts cannot enjoy the advantages of thickly-settled regions and competitive points, and all the legislation and regulation in the world can not give them such advantages, except at the expense of more favored regions. As a "free-trader," the Examiner should be able to see this clearly. Would it have the merchants of San Francisco driven by taxation and law to so price their goods that the retailer in the distant inland town who conducts his business under the disavantages of a long haul of his goods, may sell at the same price as his San Francisco brethren? That is the logic of the Examiner when applied to trade. "A locality destitute of competing facilities" is not "taxed for that misfortune." It is a misfortune, in the first place, only comparatively; it is taxed, in the next place, not at all by reason of locality, but for service rendered it, according to immutable commercial laws. Nor, on the other hand, has that locality any claim in reason or law that a more favored community shall share the burdens naturally incident to it. On one point we can congratulate the Examiner: it agrees precisely with the RECORD-UNION when it holds that to levy an extraordinary tariff on a locality because it has not competitive facilities, is simply extortion. For once the Examiner has voiced a truism. No railroad tariff in California of which we have ever heard does anything of the kind.

HOW IS THIS?

If we remember aright, there was a party that canvassed this good State last year upon a pledge to repeal the "Sunday Law." There was nothing too severe for the promoters of that scheme to say against the people who believed one day of rest in seven to be a wise provision. The repealing party distinctly announced its uncompromising hostility to any and all restrictions upon "personal liberty" in the form of Sunday laws. That party repealed the obnoxious statute. It is the dominant party in San Francisco. The Legislature of that city is thoroughly Democratic. Yet that same body has just passed a Sunday law, and tailed on to it a "restriction upon personal liberty" that shames the most rigid of blue laws. The ordinance designates the boundaries within which public laundries and wash-houses may be lawfully located. Section 4 then declares:

> No person or persons owning or employed in the public laundries or public wash-houses, provided for in Section 1 of this order, shall wash or iron clothes between the hours of 10 P. M. and 6 A. M., nor upon any portion of that day known as Sunday.

It is here to be noted that any good Democrat who owns a public laundry within the district is prohibited from cleansing the family linen anywhere in the city, after 10 P. M. or earlier than 6 A. M., or on Sunday. It is also to be noted that while saloons and dance-houses, restaurants, balls, parties, machine shops—indeed, all other matters and things may be carried on all night long and on Sundays, the Democratic shirt-front can only be polished prior to 10 P. M. and subsequent to 6 A. M. on week days. This ordinance reads well in the light of the late Sunday law fulminations of our Bourbon friends.

THE SCOTT LAW DECISION.

The Supreme Court of Ohio has not, as was feared, permitted the decision in the Scott law case to go off upon a side issue. On the contrary, the decision is direct, and fully establishes the constitutionality of the Act. That law is restrictive of retail liquor-selling, by a system of taxation, thus placing the traffic under like burdens with other business. The result will be to more clearly define the issues in the political contest now pending in Ohio. All who vote the Democratic ticket vote for illicit whisky-selling, since the Constitution prohibits the issuance of license for the purpose. Prohibitionists who claimed that the Scott law was a license law, have now no prop left for their ticket, because all they desire is to be submitted to a popular vote on an amendment to the Constitution, and hence that issue is wholly eliminated from the campaign, just as the Legislature intended it should be. All who vote the Republican ticket pronounce in favor of the maintenance of a law which is the voice of a majority of the people of Ohio, as expressed through their representative body. And so it comes down to the square and unmistakable question of "free whisky, illicit selling, no taxation of the traffic;" or, "put part of the burden the business creates upon it, regulate in the interest of order and sobriety, but debar no fit man from engaging in it."

MR. FOOTE'S INDISCRETION.

Mr. Foote has put his foot into it, and half the Democrats in the State are gnashing their teeth and cursing his folly. Of course every one knew beforehand that his crusade against railroads was merely a shield behind which to advance the interests of his political faction. It was indiscreet for him to say so, but he did blurt it out in open board that "the adoption of a three-cent fare schedule will help our party," meaning the Democratic party. The Democratic President immediately reminded him that he was there as a sworn officer, and not to legislate for party, and the abashed Foote was forced to confess it. But for all that he and the whole Board are legislating for party. The anti-railroad war of to-day is a party trick, a demagogic device to strengthen party. The schedule of fares already adopted is in answer to a party howl, purposely set up to advance political ends. The indiscreet remark of Mr. Commissioner Foote will tend the sooner to convince the people that the whole business is a bit of masquerading and insincerity.

THE faint suggestion of the San Francisco Bulletin that official bonds might well be abolished has merit. If no bonds are required of officers the people will elect only those they are willing to trust on the basis of integrity. Let electors in the aggregate be the surety for officers.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

CALIFORNIA.

The Miller Murder Trial.

COLUSA, June 27th.—The trial of Huram Miller, for the killing of Dr. Hugh J. Glenn, was resumed before Judge Bridgford this morning, Huram Miller, the defendant, was called to the stand for cross examination, and in no material point differed from the statement made on the direct examination.

Several other witnesses were examined, when the Court took a recess.

"THE ROSEBUD" ON THE STAND.

At the afternoon session the Court-room was packed with spectators. The defendant's family sat near him, as they have since the opening of the trial. General Jo Hamilton, for the prosecution, called, "Mr. Sheriff, will you call Mrs. C. B. Dyer." The flutter of fans and the buzz outside the bar of the Court instantly ceased, and all eyes were turned toward the door through which the Rosebud of Jacinto was entering with Sheriff Davis. The lady took the witness-stand, and on direct examination stated that she knew Dr. Glenn in his life-time; knew Mr. Miller. Between the 1st of January and the 17th of February he boarded at her house at Jacinto. She was there known as Mrs. C. B. Posten; Had since, on the 5th of May, married. At her house in Jacinto all the book-keepers and clerks boarded, as did also Dr. Glenn. No gentlemen roomed there. There were in the house the house-keeper, Mrs. Wilcox, and another lady. Witness was with Dr. Glenn when he engaged Miller.

Counsel—Where have you been for the past three weeks?

Witness—For two weeks past I have been at Meridian.

Counsel—Who subpenaed you?

Witness—Mr. Bayne. I was also subpenaed at my house in San Francisco, and told to come to Meridian, and that if I did not come of my own free will I would be brought.

In response to further questions, witness said that one week ago last Wednesday, and during the progress of the trial, Messrs. Hamilton and Bayne had talked to her about the case, and she had told them that she saw the shooting. Witness had lived at the house at Jacinto, back of the store, for two years prior to the shooting.

Counsel for the defense—Was your name ever Mrs. Griswold?

Witness—No; it was not.

Counsel—Were you ever married to Dr. Clarence Griswold?

Counsel for the prosecution objected, and was sustained.

Counsel for the defense—Were you ever married to Dr. Lewellyn Soaby, and divorced from him in San Francisco on account of adultery?

Objected to by the prosecution, and the Court, as is his custom, took part in the argument, saying that he was unable to see what difference it would make if the witness had a hundred husbands.

Jackson Hatch—I don't suppose it would, from your view of the case and that of counsel for the prosecution.

The question was ruled out by the Court.

Counsel—Was your name ever Mrs. Deering?

Witness—No.

Counsel—Did you tell me at your house in San Francisco that you were in the room and saw Dr. Glenn knock Miller down?

Witness—I did not tell you that I saw Glenn knock him down. I went in as he was getting up.

Counsel—Did you not tell me in your room at the Golden Eagle Hotel, in Sacramento, that you saw Glenn knock Miller down?

Witness—I told you I saw Miller getting up.

Counsel—Do you remember telling me that you did not wonder at Dr. Glenn's being killed, he was so violent?

Objected to by the prosecution, and objection sustained.

Counsel—Do you remember telling me that if the prosecution placed you on the stand you would say that you knew nothing about it?

Witness—I said I did not wish to have anything to do with the case, and that when I left Jacinto I left all that behind me.

Counsel—Was your name ever McDurgy?

Objection of prosecution sustained by the Court.

Witness stated that she had told Mr. Hatch if she was subpenaed by the prosecution she would let him know, and it was agreed that she was to telegraph him the word "Omega."

General Hamilton (with a display of envy)—So you were communicating with Mr. Hatch in cipher, were you?

"There was an understanding."

"What does 'omega' mean?"

The Rosebud (smiling)—It meant "I am coming."

"Well," said the irate General, "did you come?"

The Rosebud appeased counsel by stating that she told her husband about it, and he sent the telegram.

Redirect—Mr. Hatch had called at her house, at 711 Post street. She afterwards met Mr. Hatch in Sacramento, by appointment. They talked of the case, and witness said she did not wish to be mixed up in it. When she left Jacinto she left everything.

Recross examined—Mr. Hatch told me he might wish to summon me himself for the defense, and asked me to let him know where I was, but I did not do it.

The prosecution here rested the case.

Counsel for the defense asked that Mrs. Posten be recalled, and the Sheriff was sent in search of the Rosebud. He returned with a message that the lady was so exhausted that she had undressed and gone to bed at her hotel.

Counsel for the defense insisted that she be brought into Court.

The Court insisted that counsel state what he wished to prove by the witness, and counsel said he wished to show that the Rosebud had kept at Meridian under instructions of counsel for the prosecution.

Counsel for the prosecution objected, and the Court sustained the objection and also entered a refusal to disturb the Rosebud in her retirement.

At this moment it was found that the Sheriff, on his return from his search for Mrs. Dyer, had taken the defendant from the room, and Miller was absent during all the latter proceedings. His counsel entered an exception to the proceeding, on the ground of error.

Jackson Hatch made a statement that Mrs. Posten, both at her house in San Francisco and also at the Golden Eagle Hotel in Sacramento, stated that she had been present and seen Dr. Glenn knock Miller down.

The defense here closed.

The case will be argued to-morrow morning, Richard Bayne opening for the prosecution and General Jo Hamilton closing. Jackson Hatch will present the argument for the defendant.

Judge Steele Dead.

YREKA, June 27th.—Judge Steele, of the Superior Court, died this morning at 4 o'clock. His funeral will take place on Friday afternoon, and will be largely attended from all parts of the county. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his loss, and the community generally deeply regret the death of an able, energetic and popular Judge.

Liquor-selling Boycotters.

SAN BUENAVENTURA, June 27th.—At a meeting of retail liquor-dealers last night it was resolved to Boycott both the local papers by withdrawing all patronage, in consequence of said papers advocating high license. As the combined patronage of the twenty whisky dens amounts to $6 50 per month, it is probable that the papers will not be much disturbed by their action.

Barn and Horses Burned.

ST. HELENA, June 27th.—A barn, two horses and thirty tons of hay, belonging to Mrs. Emma Duvall, were destroyed by fire in Pope valley last night—supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

Treasurer's Bond.

OAKLAND, June 27th.—At the Council meeting this evening Treasurer Smith's bond will be presented and approved.

The Murdered Preacher.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, June 27th.—C. J. Pickle, the man found dead Sunday ten miles from here, was a native of Alabama, 61 years old. He was a Campbellite preacher. He was found dead, with his neck broken, twenty yards from his house, with every appearances of having been murdered. The Coroner's jury have postponed giving a verdict till the 30th, to take testimony. No arrests have been made, but much feeling exists in the neighborhood of parties suspected.

An Incendiary Lunatic.

RIO VISTA, June 27th.—Frank Ramus, who has several times before been an inmate of the Napa Asylum, has for the past few days been growing worse. This morning he set the grass and tule on fire, which came near burning some cows which were pastured there. He was arrested, and will be again taken to the asylum.

ARIZONA.

An Editorial Absconder.

YUMA, June 27th.—C. L. Stormand, editor and proprietor of the Arizona Advance, and ex-Secretary of the Board of Prison Commissioners, left here two weeks ago yesterday, and has not been heard from but once since. He is supposed to have Territorial money in his possession, and it is believed that he has run away.

NEVADA.

Singular Death of a Woman.

VIRGINIA, June 27th.—Eight days ago a piece of mutton chop stuck in the throat of Mrs. Mary Kelly, of Sutro, while at supper. She was brought here last evening, having eaten nothing for eight days, and a physician pushed the piece of meat down into the stomach. At 10 o'clock this morning she was seen to grow black in the face, and in a few moments died. It is supposed that the obstacle in the throat produced inflammation and a swelling that choked her to death.

OREGON.

Advices from Portland.

PORTLAND, June 27th.—The weather continues very warm and cloudy. Not a drop of rain has fallen for weeks.

The second annual reunion of the Canadian Association of Oregon was held yesterday at the town of Gervaise, Marion county. The attendance was large, and the exercises, which consisted of addresses, a procession and a public dinner, were quite interesting.

The Oregon State Teachers' Institute is now in session in Salem. Several hundred teachers, from all portions of the country, are in attendance.

Work on the Northern Pacific Terminal Company's car shops, below Albina, will commence in a few days.

Judge Boise, of the State Circuit Court at Salem, has refused to grant a change of venue in the case of R. W. Cannon, the would-be assassin of Senator Voorhies. The application is based on the ground that defendant could not secure a fair trial, owing to the intense bitter public feeling against him.

The Columbia river is commencing slowly to recede. This settles the question of there being no flood this season.

Charles Jones, a carpenter well known in this city, was killed yesterday at the Northern Pacific Railroad front. He was working on a bridge, when a heavy piece of timber struck him on the head, killing him instantly.

Mr. Stock, engaged in the general merchandise business at Corvallis, failed to-day. His liabilities will aggregate $620,000; amount of assets unknown.

The jury in the case of Frank Wheeler, tried for the murder of Fred. Schwarz, returned a verdict of acquittal this evening, after a short deliberation. The verdict gives general satisfaction.

A young teamster named Frank Oversatter was thrown from a wagon this afternoon and dragged some distance. He was fearfully mangled, and it is thought his recovery is impossible.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

W. L. Davis, of Folsom, is in town.

Olarovsky, John Cashin, Wm. Faull, H. P. Livermore, A. N. Guptill, San Francisco.

On Tuesday evening last a very pleasant croquet party was given by Mrs. William McLaughlin at her residence, corner of Second and O streets. After sundown the grounds were beautifully illuminated with numerous Chinese lanterns, with charming effect. Music, dancing and games were afterwards indulged in, and later in the evening ice cream and other refreshments were served. The guests departed about 12 o'clock, all expressing themselves as having spent one of the pleasantest evenings of the season. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Scriver, Mr. and Mrs. Hy. Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joy, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. M. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. White, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Boyd, Hy. Kilgariff, Ed. Rivett, Celia Rivett, Mrs. Maggie Breen, Miss Minnie Marshal, Mr. James Kelly, Miss Kelly.

A few days ago about 150 invitations were issued by Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Smith, requesting the presence of the recipients at the marriage of their daughter, Miss Fannie I. Smith, to J. T. Whitney, on Wednesday, June 27, 1883, at 9:45 A. M., at Westminster Presbyterian Church. The bride is well and favorably known in this city, where she has resided for many years, and recently has been occupied in teaching school. The groom is a wealthy and extensive farmer and sheep-raiser, residing about four miles from Rocklin, Placer county, and is well known in Sacramento. A beautiful marriage bell was prepared by Ebel, the florist, and was suspended under a large floral arch over the altar in the church. The first bridesmaid was Miss Kate Hefner, of Central House, Butte county; the second, Miss Carrie Roesch, of Stockton; the third, Miss Libbie Smith, sister of the bride; and the fourth, Miss Gertie Whitney, daughter of the groom. Promptly at 9:45 o'clock yesterday morning, the organ, with Miss Lou Bidwell presiding, struck up Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," and the wedding party, in two divisions, marched up the aisles to the altar, where Rev. H. S. Snodgrass was met. The bride was given away by her father, and the couple, standing under the marriage bell, were united by the minister. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the parlors of the church, and an elegant light repast was served under the direction of Peterson, the caterer. Those who responded in person to the invitation were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hopkins, Ophir; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Dana Perkins, James Ryan and Mrs Anna Hawley, Rocklin; Mr. and Mrs. Milward, Yolo; Miss Emily and Anna Nager, Woodland; George Hefner, Central House, Butte county. Sacramento—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sherburn, Mr. and Mrs. A. Aitken, Rev. and Mrs. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. C. Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. M. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Billings, Mr. and Mrs. N. V. Hatch, Miss Gussie Wilcox, Mrs. Rivett and Miss Celia, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Weisel, Miss Mary Rosenberg, Mr. and Mrs. A. Nathan, Mrs. Emma Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Melville, Miss Louise Shane, Miss Minnie Stober, Robert T. Devlin, Mrs. J. L. Chadderdon, Mr. and Mrs. L. Gilman, Mrs. E. Hess and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Hartling, Mrs. Ezra Vanson and son, Miss May White, Mrs. Johns and daughters, Mrs. S. Wasserman, Mrs. J. McIntyre, Mrs. E. B. Jennings and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. James Parsons, Mrs. K. Piper and daughter, Mrs. T. H. Clark, Mrs. C. Carly, Mrs. J. M. Nelson and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Katzenstein, Mrs. E. Stenson, Mrs. S. L. Walker, Rev. and Mrs. N. Slater, S. D. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Goode, Mrs. M. A. Alsip, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Smith, Mrs. F. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. D. Falconer, Mrs. Lizzie H. Stevens, Mrs. Matthew Cooke and daughter, Mrs. A. A. Cook, Miss Fannie Campbell, Mrs. Ann McGregor, J. S. George, Mrs. Mann, General Shanklin and wife, Misses Maggie and Minnie Paine and mother, Mrs. Merwin, Mr. Gilliss. The presents received by the bride were numerous and valuable, and comprised many useful and ornamental articles. The happy couple left the city yesterday on the 11:40 train. The bridal tour embraces the Yosemite Valley, Big Trees, Los Angeles and other points of interest. Their home will be at the Whitney ranch, in Placer county.

Camphor Tree.

The camphor tree of Sorrogi, in Japan, is hollow, and will hold fifteen persons. It is superstitiously related that it grew from the staff of the philosopher Kobardarsi, and Siebold thinks it may have existed since the time of that sage, at the close of the eighth century. Be that as it may, we are satisfied that petroleum has existed hidden in the lower recesses of the earth, for an equal number of years. We also know that it properly prepared, and freed from all illuminating and irritating properties, it becomes one of the best hair restorers ever used. Carboline is made from the unrefined oil, thoroughly deodorized and delightfully perfumed. As now improved and perfected, it is performing wonders on bald heads. It is an elegant dressing, and as a remedial agent in all diseases of the skin and scalp it stands without a rival, and performs all that is claimed for it. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicines.

The remains of the late Archbishop Blanchet were conveyed to St. Paul, Marion county, Oregon, for burial. The body was accompanied by a large number of priests and laity.

A SPECIFIC, and the only one, too, for all forms and types of skin disease, is known the world over as Dr. Benson's Skin Cure. It is not a patent medicine, but a reliable, certain remedy. Druggists.

SAN FRANCISCO ITEMS.

The Fourth of July Committees are quite busy.

The Bryant court-martial still continues its daily sessions.

The tug Kate collided with the barge Orient Tuesday. Damage to the latter, $600.

It is rumored that five young men have been shanghaied upon the notorious ship Gatherer.

A meting of citizens of South San Francisco was held Tuesday evening to discuss another street-railway project.

Two Mexican steamships are en route to this city for repairs. Thirty thousand dollars will be expended upon them.

School Director Danielwitz has been before the Grand Jury, charged with improperly making school teacher Hamilton award a bridge medal to Danielwitz's brother-in-law.

Out of some 1,500 Chinese shoemakers working for Chinese firms at $1 15 to $1 50 a day, about 1,000 have struck for 25 cents advance. As yet the demand has been refused. No white men can be obtained, and if they could, this being the dull season of the year, the Chinese would not employ them. If the strikers will not go to work, the Chinese factories will be shut down for a month.
