THE EVENING CRITIC.
ESTABLISHED AUGUST, 1868.

THE MARKET TROUBLES.

Meeting of Dealers at Shea's Hall Last Night.

Shea's Hall was occupied last evening by the stall-owners in the Washington Market for the purpose of hearing a report from a committee appointed to prepare a statement of their side of the case, which was to be submitted to the public. Mr. John R. Kelly presided, with Mr. W. F. Hunt as secretary. The following report of the committee was first considered, and at the conclusion of its reading was unanimously adopted:

To the Public.

The Washington Market Company vs. The People.

It is due to the public that the facts concerning the pending attempt of the Washington market company to resell the stalls and stands in said market over the heads of their respective occupants be accurately and distinctly stated, in order that enlightened public opinion may determine the issue between the company and the stall-holders, and decide which is in the right. This course is rendered not only desirable, but necessary by reason of the published statements of certain officers of the company, wherein "no pains or expense" are spared to present their views, without reference to the incontrovertible and impregnable truths upon which the stall-holders have uniformly relied to sustain them in resisting the unlawful and unconscionable exactions of this corporation. Let it be known and understood at the outset that the stall-holders in this market, as in all other public markets, must regulate the prices of the articles they sell in exact proportion to the burdens imposed upon them, and right here is the point where the people are directly concerned.

Prior to 1870 the old Center Market, which occupied the site of the present Washington Market, was a public market under the control of the city, and the rents of stalls therein were reasonable and proper. There was no contest between the stall-holders and the city government. The one paid that which was fair and equitable and the other received it in full satisfaction. The stall-holders and their patrons, the people, were alike benefited by the arrangement, and no complaint was uttered by any one.

Very many of the present occupants of stalls in the Washington Market had established their business in the old market and acquired the good will thereof, which was infinitely of more value than the mere stall at which they severally stood.

The business thus established, in many instances running through a series of years, was, by the act of Congress incorporating the Washington Market Company (May 20, 1870), subordinated to the power and authority conferred upon that company, under the limitations of the act referred to. And it is because of the disregard of those limitations of law that the stall-holders oppose the right of the company to do what it proposes to do and to subject them and their patrons to the arbitrary rapacity of an unlicensed and unbridled corporation.

The points are these:

First—The market company, by its charter, is limited to a sale of the right to occupy the several stalls for one or more years, "subject to the payment of an annual rent, the amount of which to be fixed by the mayor and common council of the city of Washington and the directors of said company."

This never has been complied with by the company. The rents were fixed in 1872 by the company alone, and marked approved by H. D. Cooke, then governor of the District, and one of the original incorporators of the company. This was in plain violation of the law, and, notwithstanding the published statements of officers and directors of the company, has never been sustained by the courts, the extent of the decision being that the stall-holders were bound to pay the rate of rent they agreed with the company to pay. The rate thus unlawfully prescribed by the company ranges from $1.75 per square foot of stall-room to $3.50 per square foot per annum, or nearly the full value of the land each year in rent alone.

The land granted to the company by Congress for ninety-nine years was worth between $400,000 and $500,000. The charter required the company to pay into the District treasury $25,000 per annum for the privileges conferred upon it, which sum was to be devoted to the support of the poor of the District, and besides this the property of the company was to be taxed like all other private property.

The rents above mentioned were prescribed in reference to these burthens, but for the past eight years the company has paid to the District only $13,000 per annum for both franchise, rental and taxes, a clear saving of over $16,000 per annum, which they have collected from the stall-holders, and withheld, notwithstanding the law under which they hold the property. They now propose to resell the stalls under the same unlawful rate of rental.

Second—The charter requires that the minimum rate of bids for the several stalls shall be approved by the mayor and aldermen of the city. This of course cannot be literally complied with any more than the rent can be fixed by the mayor and common council, since all those offices have been abolished; but the manifest design of the law-makers was that the public, through its representatives, should participate in establishing the rate of stall rental and the minimum rate of bids for the right to occupy the stalls; and until further legislation vesting in the company alone the right to regulate these matters they cannot lawfully assume to tax the public through the stall-holders at their own will and pleasure.

Third—The company has advertised to sell the stalls at a minimum rate of bids, and subject to a rental established by themselves, in utter disregard of the limitations of the law of their corporate existence. To this the stall-holders object.

Fourth—The company proposes to sell the stalls in classes, giving to the highest bidder the first choice, and so on. This will practically prevent the stall-holders from repurchasing their own stalls, because it will be impossible for any one to know which stall the highest bidder will choose. This is in violation of the law, which provides merely for a sale of the stalls, and not the choice of stalls in certain classes; hence the stall-holders object.

Fifth—The capital stock of the company is fixed by law at $1,000,000. Only 10 per cent., or $100,000, has been paid in. The buildings did not cost over $200,000. The sale in 1872 of the right to occupy the stalls realized $60,000 at least. The annual rents for the past nine years have amounted to $60,000 per annum, or a total of $600,000 in gross on an investment of $100,000 in nine years. Assuming that only one-half of the revenues of the company were profit, it has realized over 30 per cent. per annum within the time referred to. And all this out of the public without attempting to render the return required by the act of incorporation.

The company's officers advertise and otherwise publish the erroneous statement that all the points of objection justly raised by the stall-holders against their present proceeding have been settled by the courts in favor of the company. If this be true, the stall-holders are powerless in the premises; but it is not true, and can only be claimed by extending the opinion of the Supreme Court beyond the only point which in terms it decided, viz.: That the purchase of the right to occupy the stalls at the sale in 1872 was limited by the terms of said sale to two years from the first day of July of that year. The stall-holders are confident of the rectitude of their position, and of their ability to obtain justice at the bar of public opinion, as well as in the courts; and they propose to fight it out on the line of the law and the right and equity of their case, and abide the ultimate judgment that may be rendered after full and impartial hearing and consideration of the law and the fact.

GEO. M. OYSTER,
WM. H. HOOVER,
T. D. DALY,
THEO. BARNES,
LEWIS KENGLA,
HENRY MILLER.

It was then decided to appoint a committee on finance, and the chair selected the following to compose it: Messrs. T. D. Daly, Theodore Barnes, Henry Miller, Lewis Kengla, and William A. Walker.

Mr. George M. Oyster, who was present, was invited to address the meeting, and said that as far as this undertaking had gone he had been moving outside of the organization. The other day he had dropped into the Commissioners' office to see what the market company, which had been in charge of the dealers since 1870, were doing. He raised the question as to the right of the company to fix bonuses, and found himself confronted by an able lawyer. He requested of the Commissioners the same privilege, and had secured counsel, and a conference had been held by both sides. No conclusion had been arrived at, however, and the case had been postponed till to-day. The speaker then gave a detailed account of the troubles between the company and stall-owners, and at the conclusion of his remarks was loudly applauded.

Mr. T. D. Daly reported that he had received additional subscriptions for building a new market-house. It had been suggested that the dealers buy out the market company if they were willing to sell out. They said they were making nothing and probably would like to unload themselves of their burden.

Mr. Kelly said he had called on the market company, and had been told that they did not want any interference. He advised his hearers not to have anything to do with the company. When the building was sold the stall-owners might appear as bidders.

Mr. Hoover was in favor of standing with the dealers. He had a talk with a gentleman who owned a lot in the vicinity of the present market, who agreed to give ten, fifteen, or twenty years' time in paying for it at 6 per cent. interest. The market dealers in two years could save enough in bonuses and rents to build a market of their own. After the finance committee had transacted certain necessary business, a motion to adjourn prevailed.

Running Meeting of the National Fair Association.

The grand running meeting of the National Fair Association of Washington, D. C., opens on the 1st of next month and continues the four consecutive days.

There will be four splendid races each day, commencing promptly at 1 p. m., in order that the complete programme can be carried out before darkness sets in. The list of races is as follows:

First Day—First race—one mile dash for two-year-olds that have never won a sweepstake race; second, the Novelty Handicap stakes, for all ages, one mile and an eighth; third, dash of one and a-quarter miles for fillies and mares of all ages; fourth, steeple-chase for all ages, over regular course, two and a-quarter miles.

Second Day—First race—Dash of one mile for all ages that have not won since October 1, 1881; second, Washington Stakes, for three-year-olds, one and a-half miles; third, selling race, one and an eighth miles; fourth, two mile heats for all ages.

Third Day—First race—Selling race for all ages, one and a-half miles; second, Lafayette stakes for two-year-olds, one mile; third, mile heats for all ages; fourth, handicap steeple-chase, two and a-quarter miles.

Fourth Day—First race—Dash of three quarters of a mile for all ages, welter weights; second, Yorktown Centennial handicap for all ages, three miles; third, Consolation purse, mile heats; fourth, climax steeple-chase, welter weights, two and a-quarter miles.

Stables representing 250 of the best race horses on the turf have entered their finest stock for these magnificent races, and this meeting is looked forward to by the lovers of the sport with the anticipation of being the grandest ever held in this immediate section. The National track is unexcelled by any, and equaled but by one or two in the country, and the accommodations are most perfect. A delightful gala week will be the result of this meeting.

Wedding Bells.

Society was all of a flutter last night. There were two very brilliant weddings. Events of that character at this season of the year are unusual, consequently interesting. At 7 o'clock last evening Mr. Frank Linus Child was united in marriage to Miss Edith, daughter of Justice and Mrs. Harlan, at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church by Rev. Mr. Paxton. There were no bridesmaids or groomsmen. John M. and Richard D. Harlan and Norwin and Harry Child acted as ushers. After the wedding a charming reception was given at the residence of Justice Harlan, and later Mr. and Mrs. Child left for an Eastern tour. They will reside in Worcester, Mass.

Dr. Gabriel F. Johnston was married at 6 o'clock last evening to Miss Nellie, daughter of ex-Gov. R. P. Lowe, of Iowa, at the First Presbyterian Church, by Rev. Byron Sunderland. Miss Minnie Johnston acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Charles C. Rice as best man. Messrs. W. B. Bryan, John B. Wight, E. A. Lowe and J. T. Johnston officiated as ushers. A reception for relatives only was held after the ceremony at the residence of the bride's parents. The newly-married pair left last night for a Western tour.

Dr. Rhodes' Transfusing Battery.

advertised in another column, is an article of real merit and is worth its weight in gold. It will positively do what is claimed for it. Money cheerfully refunded to all using it a reasonable length of time if they are not satisfied. Mr. R. K. Helphenstine, the well-known druggist, Fourteenth and F streets—Ebbitt House—is the agent.

AMUSEMENTS.

The National.

Mr. Keene presented "Richelieu" at the National last night to a fine audience and with effect. It is safe to say that his Richelieu is superior to his Richard. At to-day's matinee he appears as Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice" and to-night as Othello.

Callender's Minstrels.

To-day's matinee and to-night's performance at Lincoln Hall will be the final opportunity afforded our people to witness Callender's famous negro minstrels. It is a fine company, both in an artistic and vocal point of view.

The Theatre Comique

continues to attract large houses, and the variety of the specialty artists and the powerful drama of "Wild Bill" amply repays all who visit it. Matinee at 2:30 p. m. Friday.

A Mysterious Shooting.

Wm. C. McGill, jr., the son of the jail guard who was attacked by Guiteau some time ago, was passing in front of Senator Jones' residence, on his return from the National Theatre last night, when he was shot at, as he declared, and dangerously wounded. Two police officers were attracted by the report of a pistol and the cry of murder, and coming to the spot found young McGill lying on the sidewalk, having been shot in the side. They carried the sufferer to his home, No. 609 East Capitol street, and Dr. Hazen was called in. The bullet was found to have struck the ninth rib and lodged in the muscles of the back, and was successfully extracted. McGill's statement last night was that some one unknown had shot him.

This morning it was learned that a six-barreled revolver, with one barrel empty, had been found on the spot where McGill was shot, and as it was thought improbable that an assassin would have left his weapon behind him, the wounded young man was questioned on the subject, and stated that he accidently shot himself while handling the pistol. The general impression, though an unjust one, is that Mr. McGill attempted suicide. The wound, it is stated this morning, was again examined by Dr. Hazen, and he announced it to be of a painful, but not at all dangerous character.

The Christianey Case.

The examination of witnesses in the Christianey case came to a standstill yesterday on account of the failure of Charles Goodman to come to time and be cross-examined. His whereabouts has not yet been ascertained. The counsel for the defendant wished the cross-examination of Mrs. Christianey resumed, but the proposition was declined by the other side, they insisting that two foreign witnesses should be produced and complete their testimony.

Taxation of Commercial Agents.

Senator Hoar and other New England Senators and the Senators of Maryland will make a strong effort at the next regular session of Congress to secure the passage of a law reducing the present rate of taxation for commercial agents' licenses in the District of Columbia. The District Committees in Congress, however, are cognizant of the views of District merchants on this subject, and will not look favorably upon any change in the present law calculated to injure the business interest of the District.
