Kidder's Gas Regulator.—Saving 25 per cent.; with a better light.
MANHATTAN GAS WORKS, Oct. 28, 1852.
The Gas Regulator of Dr. Kidder is, in my opinion, the most valuable instrument for regulating the flow of gas to the burners that I have ever seen.
It is correct in principle, and will accomplish admirably the objects for which it was designed.
It will insure great steadiness in the lights and as the pressure at the meter is, by this instrument, reduced considerably below that on the street mains, it will enable the consumer to gain an equal amount of light at a smaller expenditure for gas; for the less the pressure under which the gas is consumed, the greater is the amount of light obtained.
CHARLES ROOME, Engineer M. Gas Light Co.
Orders received at the Gas Regulator Co.'s Office, No. 262 Broadway.

Iowa is a free State, and in the fertility of its soil, the magnificence of its lands, and its unbounded mineral wealth, presents inducements to the emigrant not surpassed, if equaled, by any in the world. All who wish to exchange a life of toil and penury for one of absolute and honorable independence are cordially invited to become members.
A meeting of this League will be held at Union Buildings, No. 163 Bowery, on THURSDAY EVENING, Oct. 26 at 7½ o'clock, when the nature of the enterprise will be explained in a manner that cannot fail to be highly interesting to all.

In the preparation of this history two important objects have been kept in view, namely: historical accuracy and permanent utility. The requirements of teachers and the obstacles which impede the progress of learners, have also been maturely considered. The arrangement is simple and progressive; the classification is philosophical; the style is plain and perspicuous; the illustrations appropriate and instructive, and the embellishments attractive.
The publishers have spared neither labor nor expense in making the book, typographically, as elegant as possible. The illustrations are not mere fancy sketches. Plans of fortifications have been given and accurate portraits. Even the frontispiece, although artistic compositions, are truthful representations of character and costume.
It is impossible in a short advertisement to enumerate all the merits of the book, but we are confident that a careful examination will prove it just the book for schools and academies. Copies sent by mail, post-paid, to any part of the United States on receipt of the advertising price.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.
"They are unlike anything else in our language, and he must be dull and apathetic indeed who cannot enjoy their strong vitality and unfailing flood of geniality and wit." [Boston Trans.
"Whoso shall have studied these volumes will have made himself conversant with the whole stream of polite learning since the beginning of Walter Scott's splendid literary career." [Richmond Examiner.
"That series of papers which fascinated the readers of Blackwood for years and which have subsequently spread their charm over the whole literate world, until they are almost without a parallel for popularity." [Raleigh Post.
"This is the first thorough edition of the famous Noctes that has ever appeared, and it is not likely to be soon superseded by another." [Boston Times.
"This edition is particularly valuable from the fact that owing to its numerous personalities, an annotated edition could not be issued in Great Britain for many years." [Newark Daily Advertiser.
"In addition to the 'Noctes,' the editor, Dr. Mackenzie, has embodied various literary curiosities which first saw the light in Blackwood, and the whole is prefaced by a deeply interesting history of the Magazine itself. This, incidentally, embraces the history of many of the most celebrated literary worthies of the past fifty years." [Albany Eve. Journal.
"It is fortunate that there was among us a man of letters capable of furnishing a clue to these local and personal allusions with which the Noctes abound, and which must be completely prehended by those who would duly relish their most infinite fund of entertainment. Such a person is Dr. Shelton Mackenzie, who, in the way of Prefaces, Memoirs, Indexes and Appendices, fills up a gap that, without him, would have been seriously felt." [Albion.

THE GREAT NOVEL of the SEASON!—THE NEWSBOY! is nearly ready.
The New York Mirror, Tribune, and Journal speak thus of the book:
"J. C. Derby has in press a new story, called 'The Newsboy,' devoted to the delineation of life in New York, and evincing a power of observation and vivid description which surpasses, if ever, been surpassed by any previous work on a similar plan. We have been favored with the perusal of several chapters in the advanced sheets, and can unhesitatingly say that they are marked by uncommon energy of style, and contain numerous life-like representations of modern city society, with frequent passages of winding pathos. The writer appears to have made himself perfectly familiar with the anomalous traits of the class to which his work is devoted, and has succeeded in hitting off their characteristics with strength and naturalness. These, moreover, are made the foundation of a high-wrought plot, which expands in its progress into scenes of exciting interest, and shows a "RARE GENIUS FOR FICTITIOUS COMPOSITION." [New-York Tribune.
"THE NEWSBOY.—Judging from the perusal of a few of the proof sheets with which we have been favored, this work is likely to create a sensation equal to that produced by the 'Lamplighter.' The hero of the story is, of course, a newsboy; and the scene of his labors, sufferings and successes is here in the heart of New-York. It offers a wide scope for the descriptive and imaginative talents of the author, and so far as we have read he (or she) has sketched the leading characters to the life. The public may "MAKE UP ITS MOUTH FOR SOMETHING GOOD" [New-York Evening Mirror.
