ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM MANY STATES

Important News Gathered from Abroad for the Benefit of Our Readers.

Johann Hoch, convicted murderer and confessed bigamist, was hanged at the jail in Chicago Friday. With a fortitude and courage rarely displayed by men similarly placed he met death like the soldier he claimed to be, unafraid to the end, and even as the trap was sprung protested his innocence of the crime for which he was the next instant to pay the penalty. During the day attorneys for Hoch made several ineffectual attempts to secure a stay of proceedings.

Owingsville, Ky., Feb. 23.—After twenty-five hours' deliberation, the jury trying John Watkins, the negro charged with the murder of William Mullens, returned a verdict in the Circuit Court this afternoon giving Watkins a life term in the penitentiary. One juror held out for the death sentence until this afternoon, and it was said to-night that had the jurymen been able to remember the witnesses' testimony the death sentence might have resulted.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Feb. 22.—Wm. Wiley, of this city, was arrested in Lexington to-day at the instigation of a sewing machine company. He acted as agent for the company here until a few weeks ago, when he was transferred to Richmond. He remained there but a few days, it is said, and an investigation of the books here is alleged to have shown something wrong. Detectives were put after him and his arrest was the result. It is stated that the total amount of his alleged shortage may reach $1,500 to $1,600.

Owingsville, Ky., Feb. 24.—Surveys have been completed for a proposed line of railway from West Liberty, Morgan county, to Hillsboro, Fleming county, where the Cincinnati, Flemingsburg and Ashland railway will be intersected. The line extends from West Liberty through Rowan county, then along Licking river to near Moore's Ferry, and then to Hillsboro. The railway is proposed to be standard gauge and to connect at West Liberty with a proposed route to Pound Gap.

Maysville, Feb. 24.—Dr. Alexander Hamilton Wall, who died here Wednesday was Maysville's grand old man—" at the time of his death probably was the oldest active Confederate veteran. He was 96 years old.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Feb. 24.—News from Jackson, Breathitt county, today states that the grand jury was in session there has returned indictments against former Judge James Hargis, former Sheriff Ed. Callahan, John Abner and John Smith, charging them with the murder, or complicity in the murder, of James B Marcum in that place two years ago. An attempt was made to indict these men before, but it was at a time when the feud was at its highest, and nothing could be accomplished. Since then a new regime is in power there and a new Circuit Judge is now on the bench. Mrs. Marcum has recently moved back to Jackson, and her persistence is said to be the cause of the latest attempt.

The situation at Jackson is described as critical, with a pitched battle imminent. Tom Cockrill and Jerry Cardwell are there with friends and the citizens are talking in whispers.

Notwithstanding the fact that Judge Hargis and Callahan have lost their political power, they have a number of men behind them in their trouble. A man from Jackson to-day said the situation is as bad as a year ago. It is believed Hargis and Callahan will ask for a change of venue in case of trial.

There is good news in store for Kentuckians who are interested in the establishment of rural mail routes.

Samuel B. Rathbone, superintendent of rural free delivery for the division composed of Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana, is in Washington.

"I am going," said he, "to send fifteen special agents into Kentucky right away to investigate proposed rural routes. I think it is safe to say that inside of three months all of the applications from Kentucky for rural routes will be disposed of. This will be making a record for quick action. The services in Ohio and Indiana are practically complete, and this gives us an opportunity to turn our force loose on Kentucky.

The special agents will investigate only proposed routes for which applications are on file. It, therefore, behooves Kentuckians who are thinking of applying for the rural mail service to send in their applications as soon as possible.

Gambier, O., Feb. 24.—Three are dead and nine seriously injured and several others more or less hurt, as a result of a fire which destroyed Miller Hall, Delano and North Halls and North Annex, Kenyon Military Academy, early today. The fire broke out at 4 a. m., while the students and college authorities were asleep, and quickly spread through the buildings named, which were consumed.

Without opposition the House at Washington adopted the Tilman-Gillespie resolution bringing the Interstate Commerce Commission to make examination on the subject of railroad discriminations and monopolies and report the same from time to time.

The State Y. M. C. A., at its session in Lexington, decided to hold biennial instead of annual conventions hereafter.

Shreveport, La., Feb. 24.—A mob of 100 men shot to death Willie Page, a negro, aged thirty years, and afterwards burned the body near the town of Blenville in Bienville parish this afternoon. The negro was captured during the last night, suspected of being the one who attempted a criminal assault on Sarah Grantan eleven-year-old school girl, yesterday afternoon. Page was identified by the girl, and when a Deputy Sheriff started to the jail with him a mob overpowered the officer and took the negro.

He was taken to the scene of the crime where he made a full confession. The men then stood him up against a tree and shot him dead, riddling his body with bullets. More than 500 shots were fired.

After the shooting, a fire was kindled around the body of the negro and the mob remained until it had been consumed.

A military company ordered by Gov. Blanchard, from Homer, La., reached the scene after the lynching. When they arrived the mob had dispersed and quiet had been restored.

In a two-hours' session the House at Washington passed 416 private pension bills, and a number of minor measures.

Lexington, Feb. 22.—J. C. Eacho for the past twenty years chief clerk at the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad freight office in this city, was arrested to-day, charged with stealing goods from the depot and disposing of them to various persons.

Chief of Detectives Shearer, of the road, arrived here this morning and conferred with the local detective department and the warrant was issued against him. Eacho is said to have made a confession in regard to a barrel of linseed oil which he disposed of last year, and the officers claim that they have other evidence against him.

Eacho was married, and resides with his wife on Limestone street. He is a native of Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Emma Brock was shot and instantly killed in Louisville Sunday at her home. Her husband was in the room with her at the time and she staggered to his side, crying: "I'm shot." The husband says it was an accident.

John Watkins, a negro confined in the jail at Owingsville, Ky., charged with murder, committed suicide by hanging.

Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Wood, a survivor of the Mexican and Indian and Civil Wars and a native of Mumfordville, Ky., died of old age at Dayton, O., last night.

Representative Hopkins has received requests for 10,000 copies of his immigration bill speech, made several days ago. Mr. Hopkins' bill incorporated in his speech provides restrictions as to age, physical conditions, property and educational qualifications, and for foreign boards of inspection. The American Order of Junior Mechanics ordered 4,000 copies of the speech and other organizations are sending requests. The speech is in course of preparation in pamphlet form.

In Lorain county, Ohio, Capt. Samuel Kuhns, 101 years of age, and Mrs. Sarah Jackson Crawford, sweethearts of fifty years ago, were married.

Democrats in Washington are jubilant over the development in the Railroad Rate Bill, while Republicans are not pleased with the situation. President Roosevelt is coming in for much severe criticism from his party associates.

The Spanish War pension roll which in 1899 was only $28,000,000 has increased to $139,000,000.

Frankfort, Feb. 25.—Perhaps the shortest bill introduced at this session is one bearing the name of B. O. Becker, of Ashland. It makes 10 per cent. of a laborer's wages subject to attachment, execution or garnishment for the necessities of life. It has been giving the Committee on Kentucky Statutes almost as much trouble as the County Unit Bill. Under the present law every wage earner is allowed $50 for each member of his family. The number of exemption law bills has been legion, and the Statutes Committee has had to wrestle with them all. So conflicting have they been and so divergent the views of the drawers that a subcommittee was appointed to draw a committee bill. That sub-committee has been so busy that it has done nothing and Mr. Beckers' bill has been decided on, practically as the simplest and best measure on the subject.

The bill was introduced at the request of the merchants of Ashland, where about 10,000 men are employed in the big iron mills. It is impossible, the merchants say, to get some of the laboring classes to pay a debt contracted for groceries, clothing, medical supplies, and so on, and it is impossible to recover because most of those who refuse to pay have large families, and it is not possible to show that they have $50 for each member of the family and enough more to pay their bills.

As a result, credit is denied many of the laborers and business suffers to some extent.

Last week, Mr. Becker submitted a hat full of petitions to the House from merchants in and about Ashland, requesting that an exemption law be passed. If Mr. Becker does nothing else in this Legislature, but get his bill through he will be satisfied and willing to call the Democratic lady obliged.

Bedford, Ind., Feb. 17.—Mrs. Nancy Richardson, living west of this city, is supposed to be the oldest living person in Indiana; her age being 103 years. She has just completed a visit with her granddaughter, Mrs. R. H. Short, in this city, and in starting on her journey from her home here walked of a mile to the railroad station, alone and unassisted. She is as agile as many persons forty years her junior, and is able to walk with the freedom of a boy of 20. Her mental faculties are as bright as in youth, and her demeanor to a stranger would indicate that she was apparently 50 years of age.

New York, Feb. 24.—A Barbadoes dispatch to the Herald, dated Friday, says that Mont Pelee, in Martinique, is again active, and the inhabitants of the island are in terror of a recurrence of the great eruptions of four years ago. Four persons died in the hospital in Fort De France, who were struck by falling rocks thrown up by the volcano. A trading schooner which arrived at Barbadoes Friday reported that the volcano is in violent activity. By day a column of heavy black smoke several miles high, arising from the crater, was visible to those aboard the schooner thirty miles away, and at night the flames could be plainly seen at a greater distance.

Andrew Carnegie has donated $10,000 to the city of Somerset, Ky., for a free public library to be under the control of the city school authorities.

Senator Bailey, of Texas, has accepted an invitation to address the Kentucky Bar Association at its meeting in Winchester on June 27.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 22.—W. D. Maddox, of Jackson, Ky., traveling representative of the Kentucky Tie, Lumber Company, blew his brains out with a 32-caliber magazine pistol in a room at the Phoenix Hotel. He came here on the 18th and had since been under the influence of liquor. He was thirty-five years old and well known.

By a vote of 26 to 4, the State Senate adopted a bill providing that Kentucky expend $10,000 for a display at the Jamestown Exposition next year.

The Dog Law.

The dog law, which has passed both branches of the Legislature and which will become a law by June, is quite comprehensive. The following are some of its provisions:

Every dog over four months old shall be taxed.

Every person who keeps or harbors a dog on his place, or allows it to be done, shall be considered the owner.

The Assessor shall note the name, kind, color, sex and tax in the Assessor's book.

The tax on dogs shall be kept as a separate fund and be used to pay for sheep killed by dogs.

Elaborate provisions are made for proving the value of sheep killed, and for damage shall be acted on by the Fiscal Court.

The owner of the dog shall be liable for damages done by his dog, but if the persons bitten are upon the premises of the owner at night, no damage shall be allowed.

All dogs listed for taxation shall be regarded as property and the owner may recover for all damages done to his dog.

Every person who owns or harbors a dog and fails to list it with the Assessor, shall be fined ten dollars for each dog, and if he fails or refuses to pay the tax he shall be fined twenty-five dollars for each offense.

The Sheriff and his Deputies and the Constable shall kill or cause to be killed, all dogs and shall be allowed fifty cents for each dog killed.

Any person who shall put out poison upon his own premises or elsewhere where the same may poison any dog shall be fined from $2.50 to $22.5 or put in jail for six months, or both, at the discretion of the jury, and shall be liable for damages to the owner of the dog.

The tax is one dollar on each dog.

The law contains many other provisions, but these are the most prominent.

Home Circle Column.

A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

A pastor may have labored in his church for twenty years as minister, comforter to the sick and sorrowing, and helping along every good word and work in his community and yet have little said of it. But let there be a single mistake, or the rumor of a scandal, and tongues begin to wag and sensational papers deal it out in columns of choice morsels. It is a way the devil has of getting even.

We fear that in these days of cheap novels the good old family bible is being sadly neglected, especially by the young. Why not begin the New Year with a determination to study this most interesting and instructive of books. The Bible is adapted to every possible variety of taste, temperament, culture and condition. It has strong reasoning for the intellectually; it takes the calm and contemplative to the well-behaved Jonadabs; the affectionate to the Jacobs and beloved John. The penitent may read the tender lamentations and the penal strains of Jeremiah; the sanguine compound with the graphic and energetic Joel; and plain and practical may go to the wise Ecclesiastes or the outspoken Peter. They who like brilliant apothegms should study the book of Proverbs, and the lover of pastoral and quiet delineations may dwell with the sweet singer of Israel. If you would take the wings of imagination and leap from earth to heaven, or wander through eternity, then open the Revelation; pour over and fill yourself with the glory of the New Jerusalem; and hold up to the view thousands of gates of the pearly gates and the golden streets of the heavenly city. Let our first resolution for the New Year be to study this wonderful book of books.

When you want to get your grandest idea of a queen, you do not think of Catherine of Russia, or of Anne of England, or of Marie Therese of Germany; but when you want to get your grandest idea of a queen, you think of the plain woman who sat opposite your father at the table, or walked with him arm in arm down life's pathway; some time to the Thanksgiving banquet, sometimes to the grave, but always together—soothing your petty griefs, correcting your childish waywardness, joining in your infantile sports, listening to your evening prayers, toiling for you with needle or at the spinning wheel, and on cold nights wrapping you up snug and warm. And then at last on that day when she lay in the back room dying: and you saw her take those dim beads with which she had toiled for you so long, and put them together in a trying prayer that commended you to the God whom she had taught you to trust—Oh, she was the queen! An chariote of God came down to fetch her, and as she went up all heaven rose up. You cannot think of her now without a rush of tenderness that stirs the deep foundations of your soul, and you feel as much a child again as when you cried on her lap, and if you could hear her but speak to speak just one more time, as certainly as she used to speak it, you would be willing to throw yourself on the ground and kiss the sod that covers her, crying Mother! mother! Ah, she was the queen—she was the queen.

ATTEND CHURCH.

While our churches may not be so inviting as the vaudevilles in our metropolitan cities, yet they are homelike and all who enter are assured of a [illegible] welcome. This much better it is for one to go to church to attend these services than to lounge about the streets. The music, if not the preaching, should attract them. You will see groups of young men shivering upon the streets while a big warm church awaits them and even the bell urges them to come. Going to church is a habit, and a very good habit to fall into. Whether your name is ever put upon a church book or not, it will do you and he world good to attend. Begin the new year by not only going to church but studying the bible. Whether you are a believer or not you will be surprised how interesting a book the Bible is if you give it your best thoughts and closest study. The oldest reliable history is that given by Moses: "And God said let there be light, and there was light." And on and down for four thousand years the sacred volume follows the fortunes of God's chosen people. And incidentally it gives us at the same time light on the contemporary nations of heathendom. See what it has done for science. True, it does not unfold to us the mysteries of geology, astronomy or chemistry. And yet it does train the mind for its loftiest flights and broadest explorations. "I have always found" said a patron of the National Institute at Washington, "in my scientific studies, that when I could get the Bible to say anything on the subject, it afforded me a firm platform to stand upon, and another round in the ladder by which I could safely ascend." It throws its beam into the temples of science and literature, no less than those of religion; and so prepares the way for man's advancement in philosophy, metaphysics and the national sciences no less than the realm of science; and as it enters the soul, it exalts the intellect.

The Moon "Running High" or "Low."

The moon crosses the meridian at different altitudes at different seasons of the year, the phenomena being referred to by astronomers as "moon running high," or "moon running low." For example: At one season of the year the moon will appear much farther in the south at the time when it "culs" that it does at another season when it reaches that point in its succession of weekly changes. When the sun is in that part of the ecliptic (the apparent path of the sun) south of the equator, the earth (and of course the moon which always keeps near the earth) is in the part north of the equator. At such times, therefore, the new moons, which are always seen in that part of the heavens where the sun is setting, will "run low," or far south, while the full-moons, which are always in the opposite part of the heavens from the sun, will "run high." Such is the case during the winter months, and "high culs" are the only kind of full moons we can possibly have in the winter months. During the summer months the position of the sun is reversed the sun being toward the northern tropics, and the earth toward the southern, which causes the new moons to "run high," or show up toward the north, and the full moons to "run low," or southward the sun.—Ex.
