THE CANADA RAILROAD MASSACRE.

PARTICULARS FROM EYE-WITNESSES.

Seventy-two Corpses Counted.

By Telegraph to The Rochester Democrat of Friday.

The bridge across the Desjardines Canal swings, and the accident was caused by the defective manner in which it was constructed. It was a local train from Toronto to Hamilton, leaving Toronto at 4:10 p. m., and was due at Hamilton at 5:40, which met the fatal disaster. There were no through passengers upon it, most of the victims being from those two places. It is supposed that the train which passed east a short time before sunk the bridge so much that the locomotive of this train was obstructed by the abutment to such a degree that the passenger cars were raised up and thrown into the canal. The water in the canal is 18 feet deep, and all who were not immediately extricated must have been drowned, of course. Mr. Brydges, the managing director of the Great Western Road, and Dr. Macklem and Mr. Street, both of Chippewa, were on the train, but escaped with their lives, although they are said to have been considerably injured.

Our information was at the scene of the disaster at 7 o'clock this (Friday) morning. The place where the accident took place is a short distance beyond Hamilton, where two bridges cross the Desjardines Canal at an elevation of about 60 feet above the water. When he arrived, parties were still busy in extricating the dead bodies from the wreck. There lay the shattered remains of the baggage car and passenger cars, the first on its side, and one of the passenger cars turned bottom side upward and about two-thirds submerged; the other lay near, also a complete wreck. While gazing on the sad scene, the body of a woman was brought out—the legs drawn up and the arms extended rigid in death.

In an out house adjoining the Station-House at Hamilton were about fifty or sixty corpses laid out on the floor—men, women and children. No inquest had yet been held. Most of the passengers were of Hamilton, Toronto and the adjoining towns. Mr. Z
