John H. Dunahan, of Williamsport Ky., has a male hog weighing 940 pounds.

Standing united under the leadership of John S. Williams a majority of the Democrats of the Senate has declared that the reciprocity bill must pass unamended.

Seventy thousand dollars was raised at a session of the Baptist World's Alliance in Philadelphia for the Baptist seminary in St. Petersburg.

The pumping out of the coffer dam surrounding the wreck of the old battleship Maine shows that the condition of the wreck is worse than was anticipated.

Representative Swager Sherley of Kentucky, introduced an amendment to the pure food and drugs act prohibiting false and misleading statements as to the curative value of a medicinal preparation on patent medicine labels.

King George V, and Queen Mary were crowned in Westminster Abbey Thursday. It is said to have been the most brilliant coronation in history and the British people paid most enthusiastic tribute to their sovereign.

Probably the most historic building in all the mountains was burned recently at the little town of Cumberland Gap, five miles from Middlesboro. This building had housed four generations, and was in the Civil War the headquarters of Gen. Longstreet.

Miss Elizabeth Graft, a pretty German girl, was met at the pier at Baltimore by her husband-to-be, George Eggers, a Kentuckian, whom she had never seen. Correspondence was their modus operandi of courtship.

Literally buried under nine million dollars in gold, Wadsworth S. Williams, an employe of the San Francisco mint, was so badly injured that his recovery is doubtful. The gold in sacks, toppled in on the mint vaults and overwhelmed Williams, who was wheeling a truck.

A bill prohibiting any postoffice from remaining open on Sunday for the delivery of mail to the public has been introduce in Congress by Representative Jas. R. Mann. This is in line with the announced policy of the Postoffice Department.

Rain which began at Sunset and poured down constantly throughout the night brought bitter disappointment to hordes of people who were bent upon fittingly celebrating after dark as a climax to the royal program of King George and Queen Mary through the streets of London Friday.

William Anderson, a stone setter fell from the twenty-eighth floor of the new Bankers' Trust Company building at the corner of Wall and Nassau streets, New York. The man's body was frightfully mangled. A crowd of 5,000 persons jammed the streets in the excitement that followed the fall.

It was just after the lunch hour and Anderson had resumed his work at the top of the building when he fell. The body struck a stone cornice four stories from the street. It fell in the center of Wall street, and the spectacle was the most horrible ever seen there.

LOGAN, W. VA.

Dear Editor: —

I would like for my neighbors to know what kind of a country this is. The country is all O. K. but there are 25 Hungarians here to one American. The third day of last month I saw 20 gallons of whiskey come here and there were about 200 Hungarians all in one fight. One policeman and four other Americans. There was a scratching old time. One driver was hurt slightly. There was a man killed in the mines by a motor.

We have had no rain for some time. Whiskey is starving people out in this country. About 75 gallons of whiskey come to this place every wek. They calld this a dry county, but I can't see it that way. Well this is all. People, do all you can against liquor.

KENTUCKY NEIGHBORS.

Official census reports received at the office of the State Superintendent of public Instruction show there are 223,337 children in Kentucky of school age. Of this number only thirty-five percent actually attend school, while the statistics show negroes attend school better than the whites.

Kentucky, to hre shame, must admit she is a leader in illiteracy and her most urgent need is more drastic laws along hte line of compulsory education.

Much significience is attached to movements now on foot in various sections of Breathitt county, aimed at law breaking and disorderly conduct. The order loving people at Lost Creek have ogranized a league which promises to come out in the open and put up fight against disorder.

At Calla, Mr. James Muir recently built and donated a church which was dedicated Sunday. Formerly this section was one of the worst in the county, but the influence of the good people of the neighborhood, who will use this as a center of moral influence, is expected to transform conditions.

It has been suggested that law and order leagues be organized throughout the county, with a head or central organization in Jackson. Just as soon as effective working organizations are found in all sections, the tide of wrong doing will begin to turn, and Breathitt be relieved from the odium which has so long clung to her.

Henderson has discharged the Board of Health which closed a public well in Barret Park and has gone to court over the question of re-opening the well. Remember the strong temperance talk the Town Pump once gave us in its initation. "Walk up, walk up, gentlemen, and have a drink of Adams' Ale!" And how mother would point to the little fly crawling up the window pane and admonish baby to tender consideration for all helpless creatures. Now, we close the wells as cesspools of infection, and "swat" the fly as man's chief enemy. Once we heard an old-time preacher refer to the fly as a scavenger, which the Almighty had sent as a blessing to man. Well, he may be right at that. A providentially sent fly, that won't wipe its feet, isn't much worse than a man, "made in the image of God," who spits on the sidewalk.—Paducah Sun.

The business man who saves a dollar or two a year by using "sloppy" and inartistic printed stationery, such as letter heads, bill heads, statements, tags, etc., stands a chance of losing hundreds by the impression of cheapness and and stinginess that he conveys to every man who sees any of it. Nothing pays so well as neat business stationery and the difference in cost over the other kind is too small to consider.

French Creek, a farming community of about two hundred in Randolph county, was almost destroyed by fire last Saturday morning, and many families are living in barns or staying with their more fortunate neighbors. The fire was started by burglars who blew the safe in the postoffice. Before the flames had been stopped, eighteen dwellings, besides the postoffice and general store, were destroyed. The burglars escaped. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

The department of Justice will send several investigators into West Virginia in the near future to look into the reports of peonage by lumber companies of this state. The reports have reached Washington that a number of cases have been reported from lumber camps in this state, which may lead to criminal prosecution of the guilty parties.

A central switchboard will be installed in the Wayne News office at Wayne, and all the various lines will there be connected, as well as the general lin which will connect the county system with the long distance line of the Southern Bell, operated through Huntington. The system, when in complete working order, as it will be within the next month, will give Wayne county a more nearly general rural telephone system than any other county in the state will have. Hundreds of farmers, living from one to five miles off the main lines of this system have, at their own expense, extended wires to their homes.
