WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

DOINGS OF PEOPLE WHO LIVE JUST ACROSS THE RIVER.

William Pontious, constable of Magnolia district, was arrested Tuesday by Detective De Weese, of the Baldwin-Felts agency, on a warrant issued by Magistrate R. M. Stafford, of Thacker. The constable is charged with the killing of Jim Stepp, a young miner, which occurred early last week on the Kentucky side of the river between Thacker and Matewan.

Although Stepp was shot in Kentucky the West Virginia courts assume jurisdiction of the case and Mr. Pontious will be tried in Mingo county instead of Pike county, Kentucky. The statute covering this point was tested some few years ago in a case arising along the Mingo county border.

Grand jurors in session at the court house yesterday morning declined to indict Willard Miller, 13 years old, son of a prominent McDomas district farmer, who had been arrested on the charge of killing Vint Triplett, 9 years old it was understood. Testimony in the case tended to exonerate young Miller of having wilfully attempted to end the life of his schoolmate. Miss Stella Massie, the school teacher who was present when Miller pushed Triplett into a coal bucket, fracturing his skull, was one of the principal witnesses. She is said to have declared that the boys were apparently playing and their boyish scuffle hardly attracted her attention. Triplett lived three days after he had been injured. His assailant was arrested but was released on $500 bail.

There's much interest felt now in Wayne county regarding oil and gas.

The following well have been located by the United Fuel:

Martin Phelp's farm on Miller's Fork, Union district. The drilling will begin at once on this well.

Abraham Crabtree farm on Joels Branch, Butler district. This well will be drilled soon.

Billy Robinson farm on Breenbrier in Butler district.

David Bartram farm mouth of Paddle creek, Butler district.

The Tabors Creek Oil & Gas Co., are drilling on Tabors creek near the brick church.

The little pieces that have not been leased are being ferreted out by persons eager to gain a foothold in the "good" territory; which is supposed to be between Wayne and Dunlow.

Charleston, W. Va.—The House committee on Militia and Military Affairs, of which C. M. Crane, of tablishment of a department of State Preston county, is chairman, has prepared a bill providing for the es- Mounted Constabulary, designed to supplant in a large measure, the National Guard, so far as police duty during time of strike troubles and riots is concerned. The estimated cost of maintenance is placed at $125,000 per year, but advocates of the bill contend that in the end the creation of the new department would mean a large saving to the state, pointing out in their argument, the fact that the recent strike troubles on Paint and Cabin creeks, near Charleston, cost the taxpayers the sum of $240,000, equalling the amount necessary to sustain the mounted constabulary for a period of two years. The bill is to be introduced by C. M. Seibert of Berkeley.

Congressman Hughes has introduced a bill giving to Mrs. Anna Deboard, of Huntington $5,000.00 for injuries received at the hands of Chief Becody, of the Navajo Indian tribe, while enroute to Cincinnati on February, 1969. This bill will be referred by the house of representatives to the committee on claims for action. Mrs. Deboard was enroute to Cincinnati, and was traveling in the usual ladies' coach in which were three Indians, one of the Indians afterwards being identified as Chief Becody, who was very boisterous and frequently let out war-whoops.

Wayne county don't want Harless James and Willie Wilson since the authorities there have found out what a tremendously difficult time the police of this city have had with them. They want to send them back here. No matter if they are under arrest at Wayne for burglary, Wayne county is willing to forget and forgive—anything to get rid of the miniature but dynamic pests.

Huntington doesn't want them—fact is they never did anything here but behave beautifully so if they are in bad at Wayne, Wayne will have to get rid of them as best as she may.

The C. & O. Ry. Co. will obtain a shipment of six cars of sand and gravel per day from a pit which is being opened one mile north of Lavalette. The N. & W. is laying a spur to the proposed location and work will immediately start in the pit. Another industry for the county.

Charleston, W. Va.—The House to-day appointed a committee of Delegates Arbenz, Asbury and Calhoun to call upon C. H. Boswell, editor of the Labor Argus, a local Socialist newspaper to answer for an article which appeared in that paper to-day declaring the members of the legislature spend their time in resorts in this city rather than looing after matters of legislation.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE AT EVENING TIDE.

It is Home.

Many young men, standing among the most tremendous realities, have their eyes half shut or entirely closed. A mighty defence for a young man is a good home Some of our readers look back with tender satisfaction to their early home. It may have been rude and rustic, hidden among the hills, and architect or upholsterer never planned or adorned it. But all the fresco on princely walls never looked so enticing to you as those rough-hewn rafters. You can think of no park or arbor of trees planted on a fashionable country seat so attractive as the plain brook that ran in front of the old farm-house and sang under the weeping willows. No barred gateway, adorned with statue of bronze, and swung open by obsequious porter in full dress, has half the glory of the old swing gate. Many of you have a second dwelling place, your adopted home, that also is sacred forever. There you built the first family altar. There your children were born. All those trees you planted. That room is sacred, because once in it, over the hot pillow, flapped the wing of death. Under that roof you expect, when your work is done, to lie down and die. You try with many words to tell the excellency of the place, but you fail. There is only one word in the English language that can describe your feeling. It is "home."

A Reply.

Mr. Editor:—In starting out into life there is proffered to me two maxims that are said to lead to success: "Do your whole duty in whatever state of life you may be placed," and "There is the White House; get into it if you can." Which shall I choose?

My young friend, to me these two maxims indicate contentment and ambition, and would reply: there is no need of both in this day and age to attain success. Aim to advance in worldly position if possible; the best road to success is devotion to your present duty. Aim to do your work with whole souled and contented thoroughness; this may lead you to higher spheres of life. The important question is not where you stand in the world, but what you really are; and this is determined not by the outside of circumstances of wealth or rank, but by the character within. Get riches and honor if you can, but do not seek them simply for their own sake, there are more precious things. The best prize in life can be won by the most humble citizen. A useful career and the love and esteem of those around you, are more than titles and millions; a noble character is a brighter crown than one of gold and jewels.

The Value Of Kind Words.

Let the young people who weekly read this column never lose an opportunity to say a kind word to their parents. Your parents have planned for your best interests all these years. They may sometimes (their nervous system all used up by the cares, and losses, the disappointments, the worries of life) be more irritable than they ought to be and they probably have faults which have become oppressive as the years go by. But those eyes, long before they look on spectacles, were watching for your welfare, and their hands, not as smooth and more deeply lined than once, have done for you many a good days work. Life has been to them more of a struggle than you shall ever know about, and much of the struggle has been for you, and how much they are wrapped up in your welfare you will never appreciate.

Have you by word or gift or behavior, expressed your thanks? Or if you cannot quite get up to saying it face to face you have written it in some holiday salutation? The time will soon pass and they will be gone out of your sight and their ears will not hear, and their eyes will not see. If you owe them any kindness of deed or any word of appreciation, why do you not say so? How much we might all of us save ourselves in the matter of regrets if we did not delay until too late in expression of obligation that would have made the last years of earthly life more attractive. The grave is deaf, and epitaphs on cold marble cannot make reparation.

The New Woman.

If the new woman comes as the creator planned when he "created man of his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them," by all that is good and holy, by all that is peaceable pure and praiseworthy, let her come, and welcome. Let her voice be heard not only in the house but on the house top; let her place and power be recognized, carefully considered, and joyfully accepted and adopted, with a rising vote of the "party of the other part' unanimously expressed. If she comes possessed of the precious instincts of motherly affection, of sisterly devotion, homelike emotions and tendencies; of desire for mutual help and protection to the wayfarers on the highway of human and earthly endeavor. God speed the day that places her in the front ranks of human effort and worldly progress. A womanly woman has a place which no man nor woman nor saint nor angel, can ever displace. Here's is the seat of honor in the front ranks of the better elements of soul being, or religious sentiment, of purity, of saintliness, and of the home.
