THE PARKER LIBRARY.
SPECIAL NOTICE.
It is a well-known fact, which has been abundantly proved both in this country and in England, that in the dispersion of large and valuable private Libraries at auction (such for instance as the one now being sold in this city) the prices realized have, in the majority of cases, far exceeded, and very frequently have brought full three times as much as even better copies and editions could have been procured at private sale. In view of these facts the undersigned beg to invite the attention of book buyers to their large and valuable collection of Old and New Books, which embraces fine copies of a large portion of the most valuable works in the "Parker Library" as well as many thousand rare and valuable works not in that collection. The attention of enthusiastic purchasers is particularly solicited to our prices, which will be found plainly marked in every book.

ENGLAND'S GREAT EPIC POET.—
GOULD & LINCOLN
WILL PUBLISH,
On MONDAY, the 28th inst.,
LIFE OF JOHN MILTON.
Narrated in connection with the Political Ecclesiastical and Literary History of his Time.
By DAVID MASSON, M. A.,
Professor of English Literature in University College, London.
Vol. I., from 1608–1639.
This work has received the highest praise from English critics, and is admitted to be one of the finest biographies in the language. It contains two admirable portraits of Milton—one in his tenth and the other in his twenty-first year—and two pages of fac-similes of its handwriting at different periods of life. It is altogether a fascinating volume, and a worthy tribute to the great poet of England.
NOTICES FROM ENGLISH REVIEWS.
"The author has endeavored not only to sketch Milton such as he was the representative poet and literary man of his day, but to exhibit him in connection with the more notable phenomena in which his life was cast, its State politics, its ecclesiastical variations, its literature, and speculative thought. Such an historical area does Mr. Masson's Life of Milton occupy. There is scarce a page which does not bear witness of careful antiquarian research, and minute as well as extensive reading. The biographer has large acquaintance with his period, deep love for his author."—[Athenæum.
"Mr. Masson seems thoroughly to understand the character of the period he has chosen for illustration. We have, we hope, conveyed to our readers a tolerably complete impression of the able and delightful volume, of its enduring and exquisite excellence. The whole reading public are bound to afford him their warmest encouragements, and to forget all minor differences of opinion in contemplating labors destined, we trust, to increase the European reputation of our literature."—[Literary Gazette.
