DEMOCRATS PLAN TO FIGHT FREAR'S REAPPOINTMENT

Use of the Kuhio-Frear feud as an instrument to divide sentiment among the Republican members of the United States senate is now said to be tentatively contemplated by Hawaiian Democrats in case President Taft holds to his promise to send the gubernatorial reappointment to the senate early in the coming session of that body.

With its present Republican majority the Democrats are beginning to believe that the action mentioned above will be about the only line of procedure that will save them from another four-year term under Governor Frear, at the same time cutting off the greater part of the Democratic political patronage in this Territory for four long years.

W. A. Kinney, who turned back at San Francisco from his intended Hawaiian visit, and Judge Quarles, who expects to leave for the East by the next boat, may be instructed to make a careful survey of the situation at the national capital, with a view to taking the initiative in a fight against the reappointment. Both have given out the word that their visit to New York is on private business, but local gossip persists in connecting their trips with Democratic politics.

one of the diminutive Benet-Mercie automatics.

The guns stand less than 2 feet in height, so that the operator has to lie prone to work the sights and fire. After the last phase of the problem had been completed, the general expressed a desire to see what he himself could do in the way of long range markmanship. He threw himself flat on the steaming ground, "got the hang" of the traversing and elevating gear, and turned loose a fusillade of 30 shots at targets 1500 yards away, mere dots against the background of the Waianae hills. In fact, so misty was the atmosphere that the cardboard targets, cut to represent a kneeling marksman, could only be picked up with the telescopic sights. With a spit and rattle that brought back memories of Chinese New Year, the clip of thirty rifle cartridges was emptied in broken volleys. Then the targets were inspected, and the signal flag wig-wagged the news to the firing line that the general had scored 8 hits, a remarkably good percentage and quite exceptional for a novice operator.

Major Julius Penn, First Infantry and Major Cruikshank, First Field Artillery, also fired with good results.

Tests Of Value.

The tests have brought out several important points relative to the handling of machine guns grouped in war strength companies. One is that platoon columns isn't safe formation for infantry advancing over rough ground at a range of 1500 yards, or even up to about 1200 or 1000 yards, provided that an interval of 20 yards was maintained between columns, so that bursting shrapnel would not do damage in more than one platoon. With machine guns playing on them, troops will have to deploy, well before they get within accepted rifle range, and therefore in guarding a defile, bridge, or some other narrow place through which a column must pass, the automatics are invaluable.

Another bit of information gained seems to be that the Benet-Mercie type, while very portable and therefore superior to the heavier Vickers-Maxim, sets too low to the ground to be effective in brushy country. An extendable trypod, capable of being raised a foot or so higher than the present front support, will probably be recommended for adoption.

Another thing badly needed for machine guns is a fixed base range finder, the present Weldon range finder being accurate only in the hands of an experienced operator.

This morning the three machine gun platoons had their record firing, which winds up the work. The guns fired at certain fixed ranges prescribed by the War Department, and from the results the relative effectiveness of all the machine gun platoons in the army is computed and published.

YOUNG MEN OF FASHION

YOUNG MEN of fastidious ideas who are the most critical in their dress prefer "ALFRED BENJAMIN" CLOTHES to clothes made to measure. Many of the best dressers in town are wearing "BENJAMIN" Clothes. There are many reasons why they are wearing them. Come in and let us tell you a few of the reasons.

SHAFTER TROOPS ARE INSPECTED

The garrison of Fort Shafter was put through its paces this morning, when General Macomb made his regular annual inspection of troops, equipment and quarters.

The inspection began at 9 o'clock, the department commander arriving at Moanalua station from Schofield Barracks, and being met there by Lieutenant Colonel Raymond, sanitary inspector, Major Conklin, general staff, and Lieutenant Andrews, aide. The party proceeded to Shafter by motor, and immediately after their arrival the four companies of Captain Jamieson's command passed in review, in full field equipment.

The inspecting officer then passed down the company lines, inspecting rifles and gear, asking questions here and a question there, and generally familiarizing himself with the condition of the command. Afterwards he went through the barracks and kitchen. Colonel Raymond inspected the department hospital.

Yesterday afternoon General Macomb inspected the First Infantry in field equipment, and later the camp.

Both at Schofield and Shafter the inspection showed a high state of efficiency.

This afternoon General Macomb is inspecting Fort De Russy, where men and equipment will be gone over with the same fine-tooth official comb used at Schofield and Shafter. Tomorrow Fort Ruger is slated for an inspection.

I. T. U. BUYER OF HAWAIIAN BONDS

That the bonds of the Territory occupy high place in the investment market is evidenced by the information that the general council of the International Typographical Union has invested $150,000 or more in the bonds recently issued by Hawaii. In the last issue of the Typographical Journal, the official organ of the Union the purchase of these bonds is dwelt upon with much apparent satisfaction. Says that journal:

"Hawaiian government bonds of a par value of $100,000 at a price of 102, the total investment for the same being $102,000, together with $777.78 accumulated interest, making the total price of this issue $102,777.78 have been purchased by the council. These bonds will yield an income of about 3⅞ per cent to the International Typographical Union.

"The Union has also purchased Hawaiian government improvements bonds of a par value of $50,000 at a price of 102, the total price being $51,000, together with accumulated interest amounting to $211.11. These bonds will also yield to the Union about 3⅞ per cent interest."

The same article contains the announcement that the Union has purchased bonds of such cities as New York and Chicago, at a net income of 4 per cent to the purchasers.

INSTRUCTION ALONG SEX LINES TO BE WORK OF LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

Institution Plans an Extensive Campaign of Education in Vital Matters

"There are few places so in need of scientific instruction along sex lines as Honolulu," said general secretary Paul Super, of the Young Men's Christian Association, this morning, speaking of the proposed Health League to be established by the local association as a branch of the National League. "One of my chief ambitions for this League is that it may contribute to the public welfare through the wise dissemination of sex information."

The local Y. M. C. A. is projecting a health improvement that is going to be one of more than ordinary significance. It is to be called the Health League, and will be composed of members of the local association and affiliates with the Health League of the National Y. M. C. A. of North America. The physical department of the National Association has for some years realized that its full duty to its members had not been fulfilled when it had provided nothing more than gymnasium classes and games for the welfare of its thousands of members. So the Health League came into being with George G. Pratt, of New York, as the promoting secretary.

The Honolulu association has now decided to organize a branch of this league and a meeting will be held in Cooke Hall one week from tonight at which the movement will be explained and a number of the local business men will be shown its relation to the development of public and social health. Membership in the league will be open to all members of the association upon the payment of a fee of one dollar which makes them members of the National organization and entitles them to the receipt of regular health bulletins issued by the League and their annual publication in book form, the publications this year being "Preventable Diseases," by the well known physician, Wood Hutchinson, and the other "Reproduction and Sex Hygiene," by Professor Winfield Scott Hall, who holds the chair of physiology at Northwestern University, and who is a leading national authority on sex matters.

In addition to these publications sent out from the national headquarters, there will be handbooks and other publications on health, eugenics, sex matters, etc., published by the Honolulu branch of the league from time to time. There will be classes in first-aid, and occasional public lectures. The league will plan an extensive campaign to preach the gospel of health to all the members of the Y. M. C. A., and, through them, to the city in general. In addition to this campaign of education it will be the policy of the League to cooperate with the Board of Health and other agencies in the carrying out of plans to improve the sanitary conditions of the city.

The movement is only a little over a year old, being established in April, 1911, but is spreading rapidly and the local, Y. M. C. A. is this early getting in to the game.

In speaking of the organization, physical director Lau said this morning:

"Thus far there are over four thousand members in the Health League throughout the United States and it is the aim of the league to increase this number to ten thousand. Honolulu will provide at least one hundred members to start off with and it will be planned to get others interested."

FAIR COMMISSION

of the commission said this morning that it is perfectly correct that the commission cannot see its way clear to make any kind of a creditable exhibit on $100,000.

The commercial bodies and various other public and semi-public organizations will be fully informed as to what sum the commission needs and what it will be spent for, and Chairman Wood says that when the Legislature meets he hopes to have public sentiment well defined on the subject of giving the commission an adequate appropriation.

Dollars and Cents.

Mr. Berndt, in speaking of the subject today, said:

"Hawaii cannot afford, both as a matter of dollars and cents, to spend less than $200,000 and we should spend half a million dollars in advertising this Territory when hundreds of thousands of visitors are in San Francisco.

"The exposition authorities expect a great deal from Hawaii and are prepared to do a great deal for Hawaii. We will have a very prominent site for the Hawaii building, and to put up a small or insignificant structure there is going to be a very costly mistake.

"People all over the mainland are ready to listen now to anything about Hawaii, and the next step after listening is to come here and see for themselves. We will realize immediate returns in the shape of tourist traffic from any sum we may spend in our exhibit and building, if only enough is spent so that visitors are attracted to the building in the beginning and kept there after they enter."

Mr. Berndt says that business conditions on the coast are excellent. "Even the election didn't cause a ripple in business," he said, "showing that there was no anxiety as to what effect the Wilson administration will have on industry. In fact, Hawaii is showing more concern over the election than any other community. People on the mainland who are in closest touch with what is to be done by Congress and the president, assured us that there is no reason to look for disaster to the sugar tariff."

General trade conditions, he says, are brisk and Hawaii ought to enter the holiday season very cheerfully. He says that there is no indication elsewhere that sugar is going to be in for more than a moderate and bearable tariff reduction.

"Say, Mame," said the girl who was chewing gum, "what's a bull moose?" "Don't you read the papers, Gladys? A bull moose is one of these new parties." "Oh, I know. But you don't mean new parties. You mean fresh parties."
