BIG SEND-OFF IS EXTENDED TO CAL STONE

Cal Stone was given a big send-off in San Francisco April 5 by his business associates and the scores of friends he has made while there.

According to the Chronicle of April 6, the former general traffic manager of the Great Northern Pacific Steamship Company was host at a banquet given at the Palace hotel to his former office employes, at which H. A. Jackson, his successor, as general traffic manager for the steamship company, was guest of honor. Mr. Stone's new job is that of passenger traffic manager of the Great Northern railway at St. Paul.

In formally introducing Jackson to his new staff, Stone took occasion to thank his former employes for their support and cooperation during his 15 months' service in the Bay City. He also expressed his sorrow at leaving San Francisco, where he had made scores of friends ever ready to extend the right hand of good fellowship.

A. B. C. Dennistoun, responding on behalf of the employes, congratulated Stone on his advancement and expressed the regret of the staff at being deprived of the genial presence of their retiring manager. Finally, at the close of the banquet, which was informal, and after others had expressed themselves similarly, a toast was drunk to the traffic expert's future success and happiness.

EMBARGO HURTS COPRA TRADE IN TROPICS

That a shortage of coconuts, coconut oil, glycerine and other by-products is resulting on the mainland from the British embargo upon copra and coconut products, is asserted by the San Francisco Examiner of April 10. This paper says:

"According to George E. Billings, one of the largest owners of copra and coconut carrying boats, the only sources of supply for the United States are the Philippines and Tahiti. German Samoa, which formerly supplied the bulk of the copra, is in British hands and with Australia and Fiji, comes under the war restrictions.

"One of the principal by-products of the coconut is glycerine and this in turn forms the principal ingredient of high explosives. For fear that the Germans would obtain glycerine from factories in the United States, the British placed a bar upon coconuts and copra.

"The French have not as yet followed suit, but there is fear that they will.

"The embargo affects about one-half of the normal import of copra and would be even more only that the Philippines switched their export to this coast instead of to Asia. Samoa, Fiji and Australia were withdrawn from trade. American Samoa still is in the trade.

"The Tahiti product is able to find its way into this port in uncertain quantities, as the copra is picked up by schooners owned by Billings & Atkins, Troll & Co., which run from here to Australia with lumber or general cargoes and, if containing no Australian cargo on their return, stop at South Sea ports and load copra."

Nearly two billion dollars are deposited in the savings banks of New York state.
