HE WOULD LIKE IT

Grover Would Not Flinch From a Nomination.

IF IT SHOULD BE OFFERED HIM

He Feels That He Owes a Duty to His Country and Would Gladly Accept a "Public Trust."

BELMAVERE, March 15.—Grover Cleveland will be a candidate for the presidential nomination before the Chicago convention. This fact is shown beyond a doubt by a letter written by the ex-president to Gen. Edward S. Bragg, author of the famous phrase: "We love him for the enemies he has made." Mr. Cleveland's letter was brought out by one written by Gen. Bragg urging him to define his position. Following is an extract from Gen. Bragg's letter:

"The danger to the public interests which a failure of the democratic party would involve seems to me now to require the open avowal of your willingness to submit to any service to which your party and the people may assign you. Many entertain fears that you may decline further public duty, which none but you can effectually remove, and your voice will be comprehensively heard with benefit and effect. I believe your usefulness to the nation may be greater now than ever in the past, to carry to victory the cause of tariff reform and to restore the blessings of good government to our people; and, as your fellow-democrat and fellow-citizen, I ask you to say to your party and the people that your name may be presented to the national democratic convention as a candidate for the nomination to the presidency, and that you will accept that nomination if the convention shall make it, and again undertake the duties of president if the people shall, as I believe they will, choose you for that office. Sincerely yours, EDWARD S. BRAGG."

"LAKEWOOD, N. J., MARCH 8, 1892.—Hon. EDWARD S. BRAGG. MY DEAR SIR:—Your letter of the 5th inst. is received. I have thought until now that I might continue silent on the subjects which, under the high sanction of your position as my 'fellow democrat and fellow-citizen,' and in your relation as a true and trusted friend, you present to me. If, in answering your questions, I might only consider my personal desires and my individual case and comfort, my response would be promptly made, and without the least reservation or difficulty. But if you are right in supposing that the subject is related to a duty I owe to the country and to my party, a condition exists which makes such private and personal considerations entirely irrelevant. I cannot, however, refrain from declaring to you that my experience in the great office of president of the United States has so impressed me with the solemnity of the trust and its awful responsibilities that I cannot bring myself to regard a candidacy for the place as something to be won by personal strife and active self-assertion.

"I have also an idea that the presidency is preeminently the people's office, and I have been sincere in my constant advocacy of the effective participation in political affairs on the part of all our citizens. Consequently, I believe the people should be heard in the choice of their party candidates and that they themselves should make nominations as directly as is consistent with open, fair and full party organization and methods. I speak of these things solely for the purpose of advising you that my conception of the nature of the presidential office and my conviction that the voters of our party should be free in the selection of their candidates preclude the possibility of my leading and pushing a self-seeking canvass for the presidential nomination, even if I had a desire to be again a candidate.

"Believing that the complete supremacy of democratic principles means increased national prosperity and the increased happiness of our people, I am earnestly anxious for the success of the party. I am confident success is still within our reach, but I believe this is a time for democratic thought, patience and deliberation, not only as to candidates, but concerning party action upon questions of immense interest to the patriotic and intelligent voters of the land, who watch for an assurance of safety as the price of their confidence and support. Yours very truly, "GROVER CLEVELAND."
