Nearly 18 thousand copies of the Republican are circulated among the floating population every day, besides the large number served to regular subscribers. Advertisers will take note accordingly.

"Working and Shirking."

The lecture of Dr. J. G. Holland, the eminent literateur, lecturer and novelist, delivered before the Washington Lecture Association last night, was eminently practical and successful. He began by asserting that Adam and Eve introduced the habit by shirking a moral responsibility, and announced the principle that all mankind are naturally lazy, while labor is the price we pay for all needed things that are uncommon. He ran through all the ramifications of productive industry, and hit severely the whole tribe of speculators, sutlers, supernumeraries, and sinners generally. A board of stock brokers he denominated the paradise of shirks, who had better exchange their paper for pasteboard, and a private practice limited to four knaves in a pack.

He created a manifest sensation in his hit at Washington office-seekers. He denied that "the world owes a living" to any but a worker. He then addressed himself to shirkers of moral obligations, and all fence men; and asserted next, that a bully with backers is likely to be the poltroon of the company. The shirking of social duties—of society obligations—was admirably drawn. Our best society had for its elements, blood, breeding, brains, and bullion. Finally, he drew an admirable picture of the political shirk, and showed that the best men of the country held themselves too pure to be contaminated by politics, or too busy to attend to political affairs, while bad men easily obtained power for public mischief and private advantage. He closed by expressing his belief that the war was a providential remedy for the evils induced by the neglect of good men and the ambition of demagogues, and would result in the purification of political life and the resurrection of political virtue.

Canterbury.

The Canterbury offers extraordinary attraction to-night and this afternoon. A new pantomime, "Le Statue Blanche," with a strong cast. All of the Leoni artistes in separate acts of rare merit, in competition with each other. Miss Wells and Mr. Butler sing one of the famous Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams duets.

Signor Raffaele Abecco, the national ballad virtuoso, appears on Monday.

OUR MOTTO.

We use such Balms as have no strife
With Nature or the Laws of Life:
With Blood our hands we never stain
Nor poison men to ease their pain.

Our Father—whom all goodness fills,
Provides the means to cure all ills;
The Simple Herbs beneath our feet,
Well used, relieve our pain complete.

A simple Herb, a simple Flower,
Call'd from the dewy Lea—
These, these shall speak with touching power
Of change and health to thee.
