New Publications

A NEW ATMOSPHERE.
BY GAIL HAMILTON.

No book of the day has won so general notice or passed the ordeal of criticism so successfully as "A New Atmosphere." It deals with questions of universal interest, with a vigor and eloquence that extort praise from the most unwilling judges. The religious press, especially, have given this book a prominence that is vouchsafed to but few modern publications; and in order that their several opinions may have wider publicity, we append a few of many hundred "notices of the press:"

"We have read every word of it, and like it, and dislike it, positively. It is Jeremiah's figs all together. . . . It is a woman's voice on the high key. . . . The sentences march along in a kind of bloomer gait as to a woman's rights convention."—[Boston Review.

"Women will read this book, and men should read it. It has great faults and greater merits."—[Universalist Quarterly.

"The book is one which, taking it all in all, is admirable in its spirit, excellent in its purpose, and most wholesome in its tendency."—[Christian Inquirer.

"We could wish to see this volume in every family, and believe it a most able, eloquent and useful aid to true personal and social reform."—[Congregationalist.

"Her book pitches into the lords of creation, right and left. It is a book which it will do this wicked world good to read."—[Christian Times.

"The book has the right tone about it. . . . We approve her noble purpose, and commend the rare ability as well as attractiveness with which she presents the object."—[Evangelist.

"Gail Hamilton writes because she thinks, feels, enjoys, exists . . . She has shown herself capable of great things. . . . The very excesses that we mention are such as attract the curious and excite popular interest."—[Methodist.

"New atmospheres are apt to be raw. This has a nipping and a biting air. . . . Through four hundred pages she chants, or scolds rather, the doleful strain. That she scolds smartly is true. Katherine could not beat her."—[Christian Advocate and Journal.

"Strong sense, clear comprehension and affluent style characterize her writings."—[Presbyterian.

OUT TO-DAY!
No. XVIII of AMERICAN TALES, viz:
THE FRONTIER SCOUTS;
OR,
THE YOUNG RANGER'S LIFE MYSTERY.
BY JAS. L. BOWEN.

A graphic and stirring romance of the Siege of Fort Meigs, in which the daring and endurance of the American scout are most vividly portrayed. The thread of mystery running through the story gives it a novel interest, and a denouement quite satisfactory. The writer gives fine promise in the field of Border and Indian romance.

For sale by all newsdealers; or sent, post-paid, on receipt of price, FIFTEEN CENTS.

Lectures and Meetings.

ANNA E. DICKINSON on "THE WORK AND WAGES OF WOMEN," at Cooper Institute, FRIDAY EVENING, March 10.
This will be a good opportunity for those who do not like Miss Dickinson's politics to hear her upon a theme having no partisan bearings. Of the lecture, after its recent delivery in Brooklyn, The Work said: "It was a noble, earnest and eloquent plea in behalf of labor for women." The Independent said: "Having heard Miss Dickinson many times we are free to say that we never knew her to be more impressive, sympathetic and all-conquering than on this occasion. Certainly the most accomplished of public speakers might have been abundantly content with the charm and spell wrought by this young enchantress upon the large audience which laughed and wept at her discourse in Brooklyn. Such a speech, from such a speaker, was a salutary sermon; and we envy not the temper of mind of any man or woman in that audience who was not touched, quickened and bettered by that womanly appeal in behalf of woman's work and pay."
Tickets for reserved seats (reserved only till 8 o'clock,) 50 cents; for other seats 25 cents. For sale (till 5 p. m. on Friday) at American News Company, No. 121 Nassau-st.; Fowler & Wells, No. 389 Broadway; James Miller's, No. 522 Broadway; Brentano's, No. 708 Broadway; Miller & Matthews, No. 797 Broadway; Macfarland's, corner Broadway and Twenty-third-st.
