COAL, IRON, AND OIL; OR, THE PRACTICAL AMERICAN MINER. A PLAIN AND POPULAR WORK ON OUR MINES AND MINERAL RESOURCES, AND A TEXT BOOK OR GUIDE TO THEIR ECONOMICAL DEVELOPMENT. By SAMUEL HARRISS DADDOW, practical Miner and Engineer of Mines, and BENJAMIN BANNAN, Editor and Proprietor of "The Miners' Journal." 8vo. pp. 500. Pottsville: Benjamin Bannan.

The greater part of this bulky volume is of a practical character. It describes our great mineral fields and the processes generally followed in the extraction of ores; contains a complete system of mine-surveying; treats of the various modes of ventilating mines, with the improvements lately effected or attempted; gives abundant statistics; and supplies a great deal of valuable information respecting particular mines and mining regions. The authors devote, however, a pretty large space to theoretical discussions and scientific geology, and broach several new propositions which will doubtless attract notice. They assert that the material forming both the azoic and palæozoic formations of the earth are almost exclusively and directly from volcanic sources; that volcanic and subterranean heat produced the vapors or gases which resulted in petroleum, naphtha &c.; and that the hydrocarbons, in the shape of naphtha, petroleum, and their resulting bitumen, formed mineral coal. The book is abundantly illustrated with maps, diagrams and woodcuts.

P. O'Shea has just published the third volume of the American translation of Darras's "General History of the Catholic Church from the Commencement of the Christian Era until the Present Time." The work in its original language enjoys a high reputation among European Catholics, and the translation appears to have been made by a competent hand. The Abbé Darras wrote rather for the general public than for scholars; his style is popular and readable; and he spends comparatively little time over the discussion of controverted points of history.

The archbishop of Baltimore, Dr. Spalding, has added an introduction and notes which will materially increase the value of the book; and the printer and binder have performed their respective tasks with excellent taste and liberality. The present volume brings the narrative down to the reformation in the 16th century.

William B. Bradbury has published a new edition of his popular Sunday School Hymn Book, "The Golden Chain," containing all the words and music of the old one, with about one-third more matter. By the use of a different sort of type a change of paging has been avoided, so that the new edition can be used in connection with the old.

An Event in the History of Publishing.

The reception of Dr. Craven's wonderful book, just published, entitled "THE PRISON LIFE OF JEFFERSON DAVIS, by the Post Surgeon at Fortress Monroe," is unprecedented in the annals of Book Publishing.

On the day of the Publication the nine great daily papers of New-York City teemed with extracts, editorials and comments to the extent of

THIRTY-ONE COLUMNS!

The World had FOURTEEN Columns.
The Tribune had FOUR Columns.
The Times had THREE Columns.
The Commercial had THREE Columns.
The News had Two Columns.
The Post had TWO Columns.
The Herald had ONE Column.
The Express had ONE Column.
The Sun had ONE Column.

Thus THIRTY-ONE COLUMNS of praise on the one hand and abuse on the other, by nine of the controlling minds of the New-York Press, evinces how deeply this great publication has struck into the public heart.

THE PRISON LIFE OF JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Details and incidents connected with the captivity of the ex-President of the Confederate States, interesting particulars concerning his health and habits, and conversations on topics of deep public importance. By Dr. John J. Craven, late physician to the prisoner during his confinement in Fortress Monroe.  A large octavo, elegantly bound in beveled cloth, with an engraving of Mr. Davis in his cell. Price $3. Also a popular 12mo edition for the million, cloth bound. Price $2.

☞ The intense interest of this work, and the extraordinary narrative it divulges, has created an enormous demand. Thousands of absorbed readers are already devouring its pages, and the publisher's presses are barely able to supply the orders pouring in.

 These books are all beautifully bound in cloth—are sold everywhere—and will be sent by mail, postage free, on receipt of price, by CARLETON, Publisher, New-York.

AGENTS WANTED for HORACE GREELEY'S "AMERICAN CONFLICT."
Vol. I of this History has met with unparalleled success—130,000 having already been sold—and is emphatically indorsed by the press of all parties, by leading Generals of the army, by the President, members of the Cabinet, Senators and Representatives in Congress, State Governors, Literary men, and by thousands politically opposed to the author.
Vol. II (and last) will be published in August, and will more than sustain the high character of the first. In its preparation, the vast amount of time, labor, and pains-taking research, devoted to a careful sifting of the mass of crude surface material adopted by earlier writers without verification, and to the collection of important information hitherto inaccessible or overlooked—including much from the Rebel side—cannot fail, under the eminent qualifications of the author, to produce a record of surpassing excellence, which will supersede all other works on the subject. THE HARRISON BOILER a SAFE STEAM BOILER.—This new Steam Generator combines essential advantages IN ABSOLUTE SAFETY FROM EXPLOSION, in first cost and cost of repairs, durability, economy of fuel, facility of cleaning and transportation, not possessed by any other boiler.
It is formed of a combination of cast-iron hollow spheres, each eight inches in external diameter and three-eighths of an inch thick. These spheres are held together by wrought-iron bolts with caps at the ends. The form is the strongest known; its strength to resist internal pressure very great—unweakened as it is by punching or riveting, which lessens the strength of the wrought-iron boiler plate about 40 per cent. Every boiler is tested by hydraulic pressure of 400 pounds to the square inch. IT CANNOT BE BURST UNDER ANY PRACTICABLE STEAM PRESSURE.
Under pressure which might cause rupture in ordinary boilers, every joint in this becomes a safety valve. No other steam generator possesses this property of relief under extreme pressure without injury to itself, and thus preventing disaster.
It is not affected by corrosion, which soon destroys the wrought-iron boiler. Most explosions occur from this cause. It has economy in fuel equal to the best boilers, arising from the large extent and nearness to the fire of its heating surface, as also from the waved line of the surface, which, thoroughly mixing the gases, induces better combustion, and, breaking the flame, causes the heat to be more effectually absorbed than in the ordinary tubular or cylinder boiler.
It gets up steam quickly and with little fuel. It produces superheated steam without separate apparatus, and is not liable to priming or foaming. It is easily transported, and may be taken apart so that no piece need weigh more than 80 pounds. In difficult places of access, the largest boiler may be put through an opening one foot square. It is readily cleaned inside and out. Under ordinary circumstances it is kept free from permanent deposit by blowing the water entirely out, under full pressure, once a week. It requires no special skill in its management. Injured parts can be renewed with great facility, as they are uniform in shape and size. When renewed the entire boiler remains as good as new. The greater part of the boiler will never need renewal unless unfairly used.
For the mining districts of California, Colorado and Nevada, it is without a rival in its facility for transportation; as it may be taken apart, so that no single piece need weigh over [illegible] lbs. It has less weight and takes less than one-half [illegible] ground area of the ordinary cylinder boiler without being [illegible] in flight. Any kind of fuel may be used, from the most expensive to refuse coal dust. There are over 100 of these boilers now in use, some of them in the best establishments in England and in this country. Drawings and specifications free of charge. For circulars or prices address JOSEPH HARRISON, JR., Harrison Boiler Works, Gray's Ferry Road, adjoining United States Arsenal, Philadelphia, Pa.
