NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE CIRCLE OF THE SCIENCES; A CYCLOPEDIA OF EXPERIMENTAL CHEMICAL, MATHEMATICAL AND MECHANICAL PHILOSOPHY AND NATURAL HISTORY. WITH AN INTRODUCTORY DISCOURSE ON THE ORIGIN, PLEASURES AND ADVANTAGES OF SCIENCE. By HENRY, LORD BROUGHAM. Edited by JAMES WYLDE, author of "The Magic of Science," etc. Royal 8vo. Parts I., II., III., and IV., pp. xxviii., 128. London and New-York: The London Printing and Publishing Company.

The plan of this work is so fully set forth in the title-page that no words are required from us to explain it or commend its general usefulness. Many of the treatises are written by distinguished men, among whom are Professors Owen, Ansted, Tennant, and Young, and all are illustrated with excellent cuts. We have no intimation as to the date of the work; but we are inclined to think that it is a new impression of an old publication. The introductory treatise on Heat, by the editor, ignores the modern theory of heat as a mode of motion, which is now generally accepted by the scientific world, and is therefore extremely unsatisfactory, not to say incorrect. One brief paragraph relative to the connection between heat and motion is indeed thrown in, as if it were an after-thought; but its total disconnection from all that precedes and follows it must be apparent to the most unscientific reader. The new theory of heat is so beautiful in itself and so widely adopted, and makes such a complete revolution in previous views of the nature and effects of that agent, that it is impossible now for any respectable treatise on the imponderable forces to pass it over. In like manner the doctrine of the correlation of the physical forces, which may be termed the complement of this new theory of heat, is inexcusably overlooked in Mr. Wylde's "Circle of the Sciences," and this defect vitiates the whole of his preliminary treatise on "The Undulatory Forces." In an appendix to the article on heat certain important experiments of Prof. Tyndall's, an account of which was published in The Saturday Review in March, 1861, are referred to as having been communicated to the public "while the previous pages were passing through the press." This confirms us in our impression that the work which now appears as a new one, is, in reality, old and behind the age.

CHAS. SCRIBNER & Co.
654 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK,
will publish on Saturday, 22d inst.,

DR. JOHNS;

BEING A NARRATIVE OF CERTAIN EVENTS IN THE LIFE OF AN ORTHODOX CONGREGATIONAL MINISTER OF CONNECTICUT. By DONALD G. MITCHELL, author of "Reveries of a Bachelor," "Dream Life," "My Farm of Edgewood," etc., etc. In 2 vols. 12mo. Price $3 50.

Extract from Author's Preface.

The author's chief object has been to illustrate the phases of New-England village-life, twenty to forty years ago. This I have tried to do faithfully, and have sought to bring the religious manifestations into higher relief by introducing a foreign element in the person of the French girl, Adèle. It is quite possible that my pictures may seem untrue to many who have had equal opportunities of observation; all I can say is, that if they had not seemed true to me, I should never have written them.

A. A. FAVARGER'S FRENCH CLASSES for Ladies and Gentlemen will REOPEN September 20. One to meet at No. 9 University-place, one near Fulton-st., and one on Brooklyn Heights.

In his instruction Mr. F. aims to follow the method of nature; that by which a child learns to speak, viz.: The constant repetition of sentences until they become permanently impressed upon the memory, and their correct use becomes a fixed habit. By thus dealing with the mechanical difficulties, apart from the theoretical, the mastery of the spoken language is speedily acquired.

Mr. F. will be at No. 9 University-place from September 15 between the hours of 9 and 11 a. m. and 2 and 5 p. m. The First Term of 20 Lessons is $30; the second, $25; the third, $20; the fourth, $18. Address letters P. O. Box No. 6,168.

FARRAND'S COLLEGIATE ACADEMY, No. 698 Sixth-ave., between Thirty-ninth and Fortieth-sts., Reopens Sept. 17. See Circular.

The undersigned have had the best opportunities for testing practically the skill, method and spirit of Mr. Farrand, as a Teacher, their own children, or children under their immediate care or observation, having been entrusted to his tuition; and we take great pleasure in commending his work as peculiar in its thoroughness and completeness.

We are convinced that Mr. Farrand is more than the bearer of recitations; he teaches his pupils how to study; he does not so crowd his pupils as to make the home only a study, or the school-room only a recitation room; he considers the temperament and capacity of each pupil in the endeavor not to destroy, but to educate the individuality of each. And he seems to us to value not merely the quantity, but also the quality of learning; not merely the accumulation of facts, but the discipline of powers. He is conscientious in his work, and commands to an unusual degree the sympathy and affection of his pupils.
