LOCAL NEWS.

Amusements.

BENEFIT OF THE WONDERFUL GABRIEL RAVEL, AT FORD'S FASHIONABLE THEATRE, to night, which will be positively the last night of the engagement of Gabriel Ravel, Young America, and the Ravel troupe, who, during their performances in this city, have drawn large audiences, and afforded more enjoyment than any similar troupe that have visited us for years. This evening there will be one of the best of bills. The entertainments embrace two capital pieces—vaudeville and pantomime; the first, the richly comic affair entitled "The Three-faced Frenchman"—Gabriel Ravel in seven characters, also five speaking parts. Young America, for the first time, in his great character of Vol-au-vent, in the pantomime of that name. The ballet of "The Belle of Madrid" will be also represented. They leave on Saturday morning, to open at Niblo's Garden, New York, on Monday night. To-morrow evening, a splendid dramatic entertainment. On Monday, Mr. and Miss Couldock will appear.

NIXON'S WASHINGTON THEATRE—No better evidence could be given of the already marked popularity attending the present judicious and liberal management of this house, than the fact that the audience was both large and fashionable last evening, to witness the terpsichorean efforts of Senorita Cubas. Her dancing is the embodiment of gracefulness, coquetry, and flexibility of person, illustrating all the charms of motion, music and passion. She is well supported by Senor Ximines, a very pleasing dancer; also by a full corps de ballet, consisting of several very pretty young ladies. Mr. Chanfrau appears each night in two of his most popular pieces, and pleases the tastes of all parties by his excellent acting. He is very ably supported by a good stock company. This evening there is an entire change in the programme, the beautiful Cubas appearing in the dances of two nations—one of Hungary and Spain. The latter dance is said to be her best.

GROVER'S THEATRE—Benefit of Lucille Western—"East Lynne."—The thrilling, beautiful five act drama of "East Lynne, or the Elopement," grows more interesting to the public each night. The house is crowded to repletion with the most fashionable audiences. Last night, although the weather was very threatening, the spacious and social auditorium of this fashionable theatre presented to the view a magnificent expanse of loveliness. The stiffness which always attends the working of a first piece, as new machinery always does, has entirely worn off, and the grand play is now magnificently produced. The company belonging to this theatre support Miss Western admirably, and reflect great credit upon their profession. The pathetic feeling awakened by this play is greater than that of any French sensational play we have ever seen, and possesses the advantage of being a play of rare morality. To night is the benefit of the charming Lucille.

CANTERBURY.—The unprecedented success of the great star company at this popular music hall continues unabated. The performances at the Canterbury are certainly of the highest class, and we venture the assertion, that at no music hall in this country has such a superior company ever appeared. Misses Kate Pennoyer, Julia Mortimer, and Agnes Southerland, the three beautiful stars, appear in their splendid acts each night. They will, to-night, appear in new and very attractive acts, and, in addition, Mons. Stoliccy, the celebrated ballet master and pantomimist; George R. De Louis, the world-renowned horizontal bar performer; Prof. Kirbye, the great ventriloquist; his wonderful little son, George, and the splendid corps de ballet, will also appear, together with Bob Hart and Lew Simmons, the ecclentic Ethiopian comedians, and the various other members of the company, in a bill which, for beauty and attraction, cannot be excelled. The engagement of several of the star artistes expires at the close of the present week.

NIXON'S CREMORNE GARDEN CIRCUS.—The cool weather does not affect the pecuniary interests of the "Cremorne," but, afternoon and night, large audiences assemble there to witness the daring though pleasing performances of that intrepid equestrian, Eaton Stone, and listen to the bon mots and happy hits made by that unctuous wag, Dr. James L. Thayer. The dwarfs, Commodore Foote and Colonel Small, appear in the celebrated Crib scene, and give some exciting hints and bits in the manly art of self defence. The Brothers Conrad; Mr. De Vere, an excellent leaper; Master Johnny Whitby, the dashing hurdle rider; Miss Mary Carroll, the young equestrienne, and her fair competitor, Mlle. Elvira, are all favorites with the habitues of the institution. The trained steeds belonging to Mr. H. Whitby form an interesting feature in the programme. On Saturday afternoon and night, Master Johnny Whitby makes an appeal to his many friends to "assist" him in realizing a benefit.

Police Matters.

James Kennedy was arrested on Wednesday, by Officer Burley, of the First ward, for being drunk and disorderly. Taken before Justice Drury, and fined $3.

Harry Simpson and Charles Johnson were arrested on Wednesday, by Officer Johnson, of the Third ward, for larceny. Taken before Justice Thompson, and committed to jail for court.

Wm. Polkinhorn was arrested on Wednesday by Officer Crown, of the Fourth ward, for assault and battery. Taken before Justice Donn and ordered to give bonds to keep the peace.

Catherine Hendrick was arrested on Wednesday by Officer Crown, of the Fourth ward, for assault. Taken before Justice Barnacle and ordered to give bail for a further hearing.

Wm. Harris, Joseph Thomas and Geo. Evans were arrested on Wednesday by Officers Frazier and Fuss, of the Fourth ward, for assault. They were taken before Justice Walter and fined $2.00 each.

Arrest of Thieves.

The detective officers, under Superintendent Webb, arrested James Franklin Givens on Wednesday last, on the charge of stealing a gold watch and chain, valued at $125.00, the property of Mrs. Eliza Dennis, who lives at No. 25, Four-and-a-half street. The property was recovered, and he was taken before Justice Walter and committed to jail for court. Previous to his being committed his likeness was taken and placed in the rogues' gallery.

James Mowbray (alias) Walley, the notorious Philadelphia thief, was arrested on Tuesday last, and ordered to leave the city by Superintendent Webb. Not complying with this order, he was rearrested and placed in the Central guardhouse, where a shower bath is administered to him twice each day, until he consents to leave the city and not return.

Orphans' Court.

Last court day, Hon. Edward McPherson filed a renunciation against his appointment as executor of the will of the late Major W. W. Russell. The will of Charles B. King was admitted to probate. The brother and heir of Miss E. Scott filed a renunciation of their right to administer on her estate, and B. F. Baily was appointed in their stead. In the case of the estate of Till P. Brown against O'Brien, the defendant filed an answer, and by consent of parties the case was continued until Saturday. Letters of administration were granted to Catherine Kuhn, as the widow of Jos. Kuhn, upon her giving the proper bond. An inventory of the estate of Thomas Cissell was returned; also, an inventory of the estate of Amos B. Little. The Register of Wills reported the second and final account of the administrators of the estate of James O'Brien; also, an account of the balance and distribution of said estate.

Levy Court.

At the last meeting of the Levy Court, a resolution was adopted, requiring the treasurer to collect the fines from the several magistrates which have been collected for violating the law prohibiting the sale of liquor to soldiers. This resolution is based on the section of the act of July 14, 1862, which requires the proceeds to go to the Levy Court.

A committee was appointed to confer with the Mayor of the city, to ascertain his views as to which of the county roads the city is required to pay one moiety for the purpose of keeping the same in order and repair.

The treasurer was directed to enforce, by summary process, the collection of all taxes remaining unpaid on December 1st.

The Emancipation Commission.

The Commissioners are now engaged in the examination of witnesses and taking testimony as to the loyalty of claimants under the emancipation act. The Commissioners hope to bring their labors to a close before the 15th of December, although the law gives until the 15th of January for the completion of their labors, and the rendition of their report.

Sale at the Austrian Minister's.

The household effects of the Austrian Minister were sold at auction a few days since. The sale attracted a large number of our most wealthy citizens, and the articles generally brought good prices, many being anxious to possess relics of the Chevalier de Hülseman.

Visiting the "Monitor."

Yesterday, a vast concourse of people, estimated at from five to six thousand, embraced the opportunity afforded by the Navy Department to visit the far-famed "Monitor." The crowd commenced entering the navy yard at one o'clock, and from that time until sunset a dense crowd was on the famous vessel all the time, though constantly changing.

The many objects of interest underwent the close scrutiny of all, particularly the ladies, a large number of whom were present, and took a lively interest in all that pertained to the "Cheese box."

Of course, the greatest attention was paid to the round tower, which gave her the above name, and where the two black "dogs of war" are ready not only to "cry havoc," but when allowed to speak, "make havoc" with the objects of their wrath. We will not attempt a full description of an object which has been so often described by the press. The indentations made by the balls of the Merrimac, Minnesota and Fort Darling battery, are still visible on the plated iron turret, though it is covered to a thickness of 7½ inches by eight thicknesses of wrought iron plating.

The places are marked by an engraving cut into the iron, designating the name of the vessel from which the shot came. On the turret were six impressions made by the Merrimac, two by the Minnesota, and one by the Fort Darling battery. On the larboard side of the vessel, just abaft the turret, was an indentation made by the prow of the Merrimac. This apparently did not effect as much as the shot, as the impression was only an inch deep, while on the bow, near the wheel house, the iron plating of the deck appears to have been penetrated by one of the Merrimac's shots. The wheel-house attracted a great deal of attention as being the scene of Lieut. Worden's wounding. This is arranged just below the deck of the vessel, but as the man who steers must have his head above so as to see where his vessel is going, a heavily plated frame work is erected around him and his wheel, with crevices about three quarters of an inch in width left for him to take his observations. A heavy solid shot from the Merrimac broke one of the iron beams which support this house. In order to prevent the sharpshooters from injuring the pilot through his three quarter inch windows, a guard of plated iron has been securely fastened to the sloping sides of the wheel-house and turned up at right angles with those sides, thus catching any bullet or rifle ball which may be aimed at the windows of the wheel-house. This arrangement, we learn, has been affixed since the Monitor arrived at the yard. Several parts of the wheel-house bear evidences of the force of the Merrimac's shot.

The anchor and its steam-hoisting apparatus is below deck; so, also, is the propeller, which is aft and inside of the vessel, so that none of her motive power can be seen or reached by shot or shell.

The two guns in the turret are formidable monsters and attracted the greatest attention. The interior of the turret was visited. The machinery by which it is revolved is out of sight. The guns are placed on a track, and, as soon as discharged, they are run back to be reloaded. At the same time a heavy, plated beam drops down, thus effectually closing the port-holes. The guns are managed by sixteen men, each man having a particular work assigned him.

Below the deck are the accommodations for the inhabitants of this truly wonderful craft. They actually live below the surface of the water, as the vessel is only about fifteen inches above water. Here are the dining-room, kitchen, engineer's room, officers' quarters, sleeping bunks, &c.

When ready for service, the vessel carries only sixty men, including officers, engineers, gunners, sailors, servants, &c. She is now nearly ready for her next trip, and will sail in a day or two.

A Sword from Germany.

Orderly Sergeant Otto Janson, of Scott's Nine Hundred, (First U. S. independent cavalry,) has received a splendid sabre, presented to him by his relatives in Ludwigsburg, Wirtemburg, to be used in the war for freedom in America. The weapon is of the finest polished steel, rapier hilted and the blade a genuine Solinger.

The brave sergeant has seen service in California and Oregon, and is as proud of the weapon opportunely presented to him upon the eve of his departure for Sigel's corps, as eager to try its mettle. He deserves and may expect an early commission.

It is stated, that many soldiers are making their way from Baden and other parts of Germany, to fight with Sigel in America.

Alexandria Affairs.

Yesterday a list of eight conveyances, admitted to record since the last term of the court, was presented and inserted in the minutes.

It was ordered that Justice Payne, of the county, be entered in the classification of justices for December, January, February, June, July, and August, and Justice Wunder for March, April, May, September, and October terms.

The county levy was made by the court.—The indebtedness of the county is $2,940.20, for which a tax of $2.50 was ordered to be laid on each titheable.

Benj. Potter, of the 108th regiment, N. Y. volunteers, was this morning committed to the county jail, charged with murder.—Alexandria Gazette, Nov. 4.

Passing Counterfeit Money.

Some scoundrel, with the unfeeling heart of a fiend, passed a counterfeit $2 note on a poor and worthy apple woman on Seventh street yesterday. The note is a most miserable imitation of the notes of the "Union Bank," Pennsylvania, and the man who passed it undoubtedly knew its character. The rascal ought to be made to suffer.

A Guard

Was passing through our streets yesterday, picking up the straggling soldiers of the army of the Potomac, now skulking about the city. If a strong guard were detailed to pick up the innumerable force of straggling officers who may be seen prowling around our hotels, drinking saloons, and worse places, much more good might be effected, and a bad example to the soldiers abolished.
