

CORRESPONDENCE

SCAPPOOSE

The patriotic rally Saturday night was an interesting one. The parade of mothers, wives and sisters of our boys in service was truly an inspiring sight. The Liberty chorus and the Czech-Slovaks sang patriotic songs. Mr. Palmer proved an entertaining speaker. About $12,000 of our quota has been subscribed.

Dr. Blatchford, Mr. Watts and Mr. Cathcart attended the Y. M. C. A. banquet at Rainier Tuesday night. Mr. Gilmour took them in his Maxwell.

Scappoose took her usual share of prizes at the county fair last week; taking first prize in decoration; first for best exhibit and first (the cup) for singing.

Miss Helen Harbke was the guest of Gladys Johnson last week.

Mr. Grewell is painting in Hillsboro this week.

Mrs. Hattie Wilson is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Wikstrom. Miss Mary Kirkpatrick, after spending several weeks with Mrs. W. Campbell, has returned to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Handler of Kery, formerly of Scappoose, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Campbell.

Mrs. Jack Duncan has a position in a confectionary store in St. Helens.

The train of German war booty stopped at the depot 20 minutes on Tuesday morning and gave all the school children the opportunity of seeing it.

Congregational Church—Sunday school, 10:15; morning worship, 11:45; evening service, 7:30. Mr. Palmer will occupy the pulpit morning and evening.

The Red Cross are collecting clothing for the Belgians. Should the committee not reach you the articles you care to donate, may be left at the postoffice or depot.

Scappoose mill caught fire Tuesday night. The men had a fight to get it under control. The roof burned off the engine house.

Scappoose friends of Miss Hazel Blackburn will be interested to know of her wedding Tuesday evening to Julius Paulsen, Vancouver barracks. The church was beautifully decorated with flags. Dr. Staub officiated. One of our Scappoose girls, Eva Garrison, was bridesmaid. Gladys Garrison and Ed Wist were also guests at the wedding. Miss Blackburn has given Scappoose much pleasure with her violin music.

Mr. Klapp and Ord Klapp of Tacoma, an old time resident of Scappoose, were visiting friends here on Thursday.

Mrs. Skellinger is a guest of Mrs. Mildred Watts.

Mrs. Getchell went to Oregon City Tuesday to attend a musical given by Prof. A. A. Whitall and his pupils. This was the first of a series of 20 progressive recitals.

A party of our young folks climbed Larch Mountain Sunday.

The Sabbath school purchased a

$50 Liberty Bond for the church last Sabbath.

Scappoose has collected $50 toward the Salvation Army drive.

The Czech-Slovaks of Scappoose, who showed their patriotism in liberally subscribing to the fourth issue of Liberty Bonds in such a remarkable manner, as reported in last week's Mist and Oregonian, belong to a nation that once had been one of the powerful nations of Europe. In the 14th century their dominion extended from the Baltic to the Adriatic Sea and their kings had been repeatedly elected emperors of the Holy Roman Empire. They are the most advanced of the Slavs and their civilization is much older than that of their neighbors: Germans, Hungarians, Poles, Russians, etc. The first university in central Europe was founded in Prague, Bohemia, in 1348 when there was none yet in existence in all Germany and in all the countries west, north and east of it. The Czech-Slovak country came by marriage under the sway of the Hapsburgs of Austria in the year 1438, since which time their nationality and language continually suffered persecution, more or less, by the German reigning house of the Hapsburgs. But, notwithstanding all the oppression and persecution that was especially violent under the emperor, Joseph II, the Czech-Slovaks remained true to their nationality and language. At the outset of the war the Czech-Slovaks did not conceal their sympathies with the allies. They soon paid for this, however, in hundreds of executions and thousands of imprisonments. All Bohemia, Moravia, Silesia and North Hungary (now called Slovakia), countries inhabited by them, became one vast dungeon. Those who escaped imprisonment were forced to fight on the side of their oppressors from whose ranks at the first opportunity, they deserted to the side of the allies, thus forming in course of time, four armies, each under their own leadership; in Russia, Italy, France and in the Balkans. In later times, achieving great success, especially in Russia and Siberia, they were acknowledged by Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States as an autonomous nation that had established a provisional, independent government, forming now, one of the allied nations. After capturing several Russian warships in the Bay of Vladivostak, they formed the beginning of a Czech-Slovak fleet, and their national flag (the white, half above and the red below) and that of the new marine (four silver stars in a blue field bordered by white and red stripes) may be now seen flying in the breeze of the Pacific ocean.

Miss Fannie Cooper has gone to Monmouth, Oregon, where she will take a course at the normal school.

Miss Nora Larson is going to join the U. S. service in the hospital corps. She expects to leave shortly for Portland to begin training.

Ralph Spaulding, formerly Warren's station agent, but now in the radio service, is on a furlough and visiting his numerous friends. Ralph has made one trip across the "big pond" on a merchantman and will soon return to his post of duty.

Rodney Wellborn spent Friday in Portland and vicinity as a guest of Oscar Erickson, at least he had Oscar's car, and returned home early Saturday morning, but Oscar was unable to attend the competitive drill at the fair, owing to the absence of his mode of conveyance.

A large number of the people of Warren have been added to the "Honor Roll" in the Fourth Liberty Loan, Mrs. Joseph Erickson heading the list with a $1000 subscription. Among those who have volunteered are: A. H. Carlson, Gust and Mrs. Isaacson and son Edmond, Elmer Dahlgren, Nora Larson, A. L. Larson, Irving Erickson, J. J. Lundahl, Hazel Farr, Mrs. Mary Farr, John Farr, W. A. Soderberg, Anna Soderberg, Walter Erickson, Chas. D. Erickson, F. W. Boesel, Sophia Nagel, Arthur L. Lindahl, Emil Muhr, August Muhr, K. F. Larson, John Josephson, C. M. Hyskell, A. L. Morris, Harry O. Morris and the number is being rapidly added to. Warren will have her quota completed by Friday night it is confidently expected. The committee will make a thorough canvass of the district during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Anliker of Goble spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. John Farr.

A community warehouse was expected to have been built ere now. The directors were elected over six weeks ago and the officers chosen, but no action has been taken since that time. Many of the subscribers are wondering if it will follow in the footsteps of the creamery and cannery, both of which originated at Warren. Inactivity in any enterprise is the cause of more deaths to business matters than any other cause.

Mrs. Hall, daughter of Mrs. N. F. Baker, is visiting her mother and relatives at Warren. Mrs. Hall lives in Tacoma. Her husband is now on the battle front in France.

WARREN

The social dance given Saturday night by the W. O. W. was a grand success and has done much to awaken the lethargy of Warren's residents. The breaking away from the shell that has bound many of Warren's residents to a realization of broadness that should exist, is to be commended and now that the start has been made it is determined by the promoters to have a social dance quite frequently. The proceeds of the dance were given to the Red Cross, amounting to about $60. Sergeants K. F. Larsen and W. C. Cooper had the affair in charge and a detail of three Home Guards did patrol duty for the evening.

Mrs. Carleton Lewis received a telegram Saturday night from Mr. Lewis, who is at Gardiner, Maine, telling of the death of Weston Lewis, his father. Mr. Lewis, Sr., was a highly respected resident of Gardiner and has frequently visited Oregon to see his son and family. Mr. Lewis has been at his father's bedside for about six weeks, where he was called by his father's illness.

Miss Eta Cooper of Portland is spending a couple of weeks with Mrs. Carleton Lewis.
