☞ We ask our friends to note the following from the New York Herald. We ask those Democrats who are so anxious for a reorganization to beware of what they do and to whom they commit themselves. Remember we were sold in 1848, let us not sign the bond in 1852.

"Efforts have been made, within the last few months, both by the Whigs and Democrats, in this State and throughout the North, to lay still and lie low in reference to anti-slavery and the fugitive slave law. The Van Buren interest have pursued this policy for some time among the Democrats, and the Seward interest have played the same game among the Whigs. Both these anti-slavery factions, attached to the two old parties in the North, are playing a game for the next Presidency, through their conventions, by which they want to catch the South asleep; and after they get into the White House and possess the power of the government, then the Southern States and Southern institutions may look out for squalls on the anti-slavery business again. We are perfectly satisfied, from the various movements now being made by the various anti-slavery interests of the North, among the two old parties, that a vast combination or conspiracy is preparing for a terrible onset on the South and on Southern institutions, as soon as the South shall have voted for either one candidate or the other, at the next Presidential election. Even in the very midst of this interesting contest for the Presidency, it is with extreme difficulty that these anti-slavery factions, which were set agoing in one party by Van Buren, and in the other by Seward, can keep still and quiet, and not show the cloven foot. As far as the interests of the South, and of Southern institutions are concerned, it hardly makes a pin's difference which of the two parties succeeds, or which of the two candidates, Whig or Democratic, is elected. The anti-slavery feeling of the North is not sleeping. It is growing and extending, silently and quietly, in every direction, among all classes, and particularly among foreigners, naturalized in this land—except the honest and patriotic Irish. Under the influence of Seward and his friends, we see a journal started in this city to circulate among the Germans, which comes forward with an unequivocal endorsement of the editors, from Kossuth himself, who is receiving attention from all parties, here and elsewhere.—Other movements we shall notice in due time.

We desire the friends of the Union, North and South, and all who wish to put an end to this anti-slavery excitement, not to be lulled into fancied security, because the two anti-slavery factions—Van Buren's and Seward's—attached to the two old parties in the North, find it their interest, previous to the nomination and election of the next President, to keep quiet and peaceable on the most dangerous topics on which they have been running their career for many years past. They only await the plunder of the general government to enable them to carry on the war against the South at a future day. We have much to say on these points hereafter.

FEMALE MEDICAL COLLEGE OF PA.—The first commencement for conferring degrees in this College, will take place at the Musical Fund Hall, on Tuesday (to-morrow,) the 30th, at 11 o'clock, A. M. We understand that a class of about forty has been in attendance upon the lectures of this flourishing institution, and that eight ladies will receive the degree of M. D. at the ensuing commencement, to which the public are invited.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The trial of the Mr. and Mrs. Forrest case in New York has brought to light a good deal of curious and not a little very disgusting matter. The state of morals prevailing in the circle of which both the plaintiff and defendant formed a part will be inferred from the tone of the following note from the Rev. E. L. Magoon to Mrs. Forrest:

DEAR "Kate:" Your kind invitation to "eatin," at 3 P. M., came to hand at 11 this morning. I forthwith posted to your tabernacle, and now here I is, to say that it is *un*possible utterly to be with you as desired.

At the hour you name the dead are to be buried, and at almost every other hour for many days and nights to come, I shall be up to my eyes in work. Last week I was in four great congregations in Providence, Boston, and Salem; next week—but no matter. Wife sends lots of love.

Yours pertinaciously,
MAGOON.

This was read on the trial, and admitted by the reverend author to be genuine.

A SPECIMEN HUNGARIAN.—In an interesting account, published in French, of the most prominent Hungarian officers, the following is given of a celebrated personage, bearing the singular name of Fervent Kiss:

He was a wealthy proprietor, owning twenty-three villages, and was a man of excessive personal elegance as well as of chivalric courage. He regularly sent his linen all the way from Hungary to Paris to be washed, and was, in similar respects, a D'Orsay, as well as a Bayard. His coolness in danger was remarkable; and it is told of him that one day, within reach of an Austrian battery, making an observation, he ordered his servant to bring him a cup of chocolate. A shot took it from his hand, and killed his horse. "Clumsy rascals!" said Kiss, "they have spoilt my breakfast." When taken out, with three others, to be shot, he was superbly dressed. The order was given to fire, and his companions fell, while he stood untouched. "You have forgotten me," said Kiss, in his usual tone of voice. The corporal of the platoon stepped up and fired, and, the ball striking him in the forehead, he fell dead without a struggle.

OREGON FARMING.—"SOME TATTOO."—A correspondent of the Oregon Spectator, writing from Puget's Sound, gives an account of a yield of potatoes, which exhibits a fecundity truly astonishing. The crop was raised by Uncle Sam's troops, stationed at the post of Steilacoom. From a space of twelve acres nearly 5,000 bushes have been gathered.

On one stalk one hundred and fifty-nine good sized potatoes were counted.

WINTER FRUIT.—A correspondent writing to one of the Oregon papers, from Yam Hill county, says: "Why don't you break out of your inky sanctum, and take a week's furlough in the country. Strawberries are in full bloom—the air is laden with the fragrant odor of wild flowers, and here at least in the kingdom of nature, autumn has no "sere and yellow leaf."

GEN. TARVER.—This gentleman is dead. He was the richest man in Georgia—owned fifteen hundred slaves. He was moral, benevolent, temperate, and universally esteemed; yet his last words were: "After all, I have spent my life to no important purpose, in the pursuit of unsubstantial things. If I had it to live over again, it should be devoted to the study of the Bible—to prayer—to preparation for the life to come. The things of this world will do to live by, but will not do to die by."

MOTIVES FOR MARRYING.—Goethe said he married to obtain respectability. John Wilkes declared he wedded to please his friends. Wycherly, in his old age, took his servant girl to wife to spite is relations. The Russians have a story of a widow who was so inconsolable for the loss of her husband that she took another to keep from fretting herself to death; and we read of an Irishman who declared he would never have taken a second wife but having a chance to marry a Protistant girl, he just took her to be the means of saving her soul. A young and rather fast gentleman of our acquaintance married a lady nearly old enough to be his grandmother because he owed her a debt of fifty dollars for board.

KOSSUTH'S EXPENSES.—A Washington letter says, we learn that the Kossuth suite is composed of twenty-one persons, who, with their chief, occupied twenty rooms at Brown's Hotel, at an expense of upwards of one hundred and fifty dollars a day. As there is on hand a balance of nearly ten thousand dollars appropriated for the entertainment of Amin Bey, the Turkish agent, it is probable that this surplus may be directed by Congress toward paying the expenses of Kossuth while he remains in our midst as the "nation's guest," which it is assumed he is.

PROSPECTUS OF THE CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE.

The approach of Congress calls for the renewal of my proposals and preparations to spread its debates before the public. The success which has hitherto attended this undertaking it is hoped will continue, and enable me to perpetuate the full history of the proceedings and decisions of the body on which the destiny of the republic depends.

The adoption of Congress has given the Globe an official character as the reporter of all that is said and done in the body. This sanction has been voted at every successive session for many years, and by members of all parties. The press, too, of all parties has borne testimony to the fidelity with which the duty thus confided has been performed.

The great celerity with which the letter-writers for the distant press circulate through the Telegraph their hurried accounts and views of the debates of Congress renders more important than ever, the full and exact official reports of the Congressional Globe. The hasty—and in many instances ex parte—relations by Telegraph of what occurs in Congress supersede, for the most part, the exact reports taken down by the reporters, and which formerly, in a shape more or less abbreviated, went the rounds of the press. Now the Telegraph accounts, with all their imperfections and variety of colorings, take the run of the country, and no press but the official of Congress ever publishes the full debate with the proceedings of both houses unmutilated. Indeed, no newspaper can give them and have room for advertisements and the miscellaneous matter essential to their existence. While therefore, the Telegraph administers to the eager appetite of the public for Congress news, and meets the necessities of the political press by furnishing a rapidly-written epitome suited to the taste of its patrons, perfect information of what passes in Congress, is greatly diminished. The circulation of the official reports have been, to some extent, cut off by the crude and diversified accounts which, flying along the electric wires, satisfy curiosity, and it is almost in vain that Truth puts on its boots to follow. Still there are a great many men of leisure and thought who like to see what is actually said and done in Congress, and to judge for themselves, rather than to receive impressions altogether from galvanic batteries. There are others, too, who, for the sake of the future, willingly patronize a work which preserves a full record of the doings of the great moving and controlling power of the republic.

The undersigned has made preparations commensurate with the increased importance of the duty he has undertaken as the only reporter and publisher of the complete debates and proceedings of both houses of Congress. The coming session will probably be extended nine months, and the reports will not be comprised in less than 3,500 royal quarto pages of brevier and nonpareil type, making four volumes of near 900 pages each. The reports for the last long session made 3,596 royal quarto pages, and were bound in four volumes, averaging 974 royal quarto pages each.

I will publish in the Appendix for the next session, all laws that may be passed during the session, which has not been done heretofore. Although this will increase in no small degree the expences of the publication, the subscription price will be the same that it has been for several years past.

The Daily Globe will be published during the session on a superfine double royal sheet. It will contain the debates as taken down by the reporters, and as altered by the speakers, whenever they make any alterations, the current news of the day, and miscellaneous matter. The main object for publishing the daily paper, is to enable members to see their remarks in it and alter them if they shall think proper, before they are published in the Congressional Globe and Appendix.

The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two houses of Congress, and printed on a double royal paper, with small type, (brevier and nonpareil) in quarto form, each number containing sixteen royal quarto pages. The speeches of the members in this first form, are sometimes condensed, the full report of the prepared speeches being reserved for the Appendix. All resolutions, motions, and other proceedings, are given in the form of the journals, with the yeas and nays on every important question.

The Appendix is made up of the President's annual message, the reports of the principal officers of the government that accompany it and all speeches of members of Congress, written out or revised by themselves. It is printed in the same form as the Congressional Globe, and usually makes about the same number of pages during a session.

During the first month, or six weeks of a session there is rarely more business done than will make two numbers a week—one of the "Congressional Globe," and one of the "Appendix;" but during the remainder of a session there is usually sufficient matter for two or three numbers of each every week. The next session will be unusually interesting. Therefore I calculate that the Congressional Globe and Appendix together will make at least 3,500 large quarto pages, printed in small type—brevier and nonpareil. Complete indices to both will be furnished at the end of a session.

I will endeavor to print a sufficient number of surplus copies to supply all that may be miscarried or lost in the mails; but subscribers should be very particular to file their papers carefully for fear that I should not be able to supply all the lost numbers.

If subscribers shall not be satisfied with the work, the money paid for it by them, will be refunded to them whenever they return the numbers which may have been received by them. I will give subscribers the subscription price for any of the previous volumes of the Congressional Globe or Appendix, except for the last session, and will thank any person who will let me have them.

I have a few copies of the back volumes of the Congressional Globe and Appendix for sale at $5 a volume, bound, which it is probable will be disposed of soon, and when they are, they will then, no doubt, command at least $10 a volume, as they cannot be reprinted for less than that sum. There are 25 back numbers.

TERMS:

For one copy of the Daily Globe during the session $5
For one copy of Congressional Globe during the session, $3
For one copy of the Appendix during the session, $3

The money may be remitted by mail at my risk.—Bank notes current where a subscriber resides will be received at par. Subscriptions should reach here by the 15th of December at farthest, to secure all the numbers.

The prices for these papers are so low that I cannot afford to credit them out; therefore no person need order them unless the money accompanies the order.

Aberdeen High School.
(PROF. J. CRAWFORD, PRINCIPAL.)

THIS Institution is intended to supply a want which has long been felt in our community. The growing importance of Aberdeen, its healthy position and the interest felt in the cause of Education by its citizens, warrant the belief that a High School of the very first class, will receive a liberal patronage. By the multiplication of teachers, and assigning to each a distinct branch of study, a more thorough, accurate and finished education can be acquired, than where the entire burthern of all the departments devolves upon one individual, whatever be his scholarship.

It will be the aim of the Faculty in the Aberdeen High School, to prepare their students for entrance into any of the Classes in our Universities; and to afford to that large class of our young men, who do not design taking a College course, an extensive, practical and finished education. As all the members of the Faculty are known to the Aberdeen public, they can refer with pride and confidence, to their numerous patrons and former pupils in this neighborhood, and elsewhere, for their professional success and ability.

The discipline and general supervision of the institution will be under the control of the Principal, whose varied experience, and uniform success in the management of southern boys, will, it is hoped, be a guarantee for the good order and proper deportment of the pupils.

The position selected for the High School is that large and elegant mansion, built by the late George Wightman, esq. It is situated on a beautiful eminence in the suburbs of the City, but sufficiently convenient to students living in any portion of it. The House consists of twelve large rooms, affording ample accommodation and extensive play grounds attached.

FACULTY:

J. CRAWFORD, A. M., Principal and Prof. of English and Ancient Literature, Mental Philosophy and Elocution.
W. H. JOHNSON, A. M., Prof. of Ancient Classics.
J. W. VESLEY, Prof. of Mathematics.

The Modern Languages, if desired, will be taught by a visiting Professor of ability and experience.

—TUITION FEES:—

The English branches, comprising Grammar, Geography, Writing and Arithmetic,	$15 00
The Classical, Mathematical and higher English course,	25 00
Incidental fee, (to be paid at entrance,)	1 00

The session will commence on the 5th. day of January, 1852, and continue 21 weeks.

Students from a distance can obtain board in families of the highest respectibility, at from eight to ten dollars per month, and can procure dormitories in the institution, where they will be under the supervision of the Principal and one of the Professors.

Reports of the conduct of every student and his standing in his various classes, will be furnished monthly to parents.

The following gentlemen, to whom reference may be made, have consented to act as Visitors of the Institution: Bishop Paine, D. D., Rev. J. Harrison, D. D Professor Ingraham, Rev. S. B. Sykes, R. H. Dalton M. D., Judge Rogers, Jas. E. Harrison, esq., John I. Tindall, M. D.

Patrons at a distance are requested to apply as early as possible, in order that suitable arrangements may be made for the accommodation of pupils. Address.

CLIREHUGH'S
Tricopherous; or Patent Medicated COMPOUND.

THOUSANDS have testified to the entire recovery of their hair after having lost it for years, and at various periods of life. No matter how thin or weak, coarse, dry or harsh the hair may be, it will be restored to a soft, glossy, healthy and luxurious crop, if the Tricopherous, be regularly applied. Those who have been threatened with premature gray hair, have by the Tricopherous, not only stopped their progress, but had their hair changed to its original color. The composition of the Tricopherous differs entirely and completely from every other article for a similar purpose, as it is not intended merely to anoint the hair, but is applicable to the skin, and to act, through it, on the nerves, blood-vessels and absorbants, connected with the root or bulb of the hair. The certain preservation of the hair and its color is thus guaranteed to all who will adhere to the directions or advice of Mr. Clirehugh. The prescribed use of the Tricopherous has been found a certain cure for all cutaneous diseases of the scalp, whether in children or adults. Scurf, dandriff, and other excrescences thrown off by the skin, even in its most healthy state, disappear under the effuence of the Tricopherous, leaving the skin clear, healthy and active.

The Tricopherous, from its irritant and blistering principle, has proved to ladies, an invaluable restorative, where the hair has fallen off from the seams or divisions being overstrained or too tightly tied; where the hair has become weak from confinement, or from any other cause peculiar to the female constitution; and its occasional use will preserve the hair to the last period of life.

The public are cautioned against a base and deleterious counterfeit, advertised and sold under the same name. It only virtue is being sold at 25 cents. The total destruction and loss of the hair has, in every instance, followed its use.

Read Clirehugh's "Treatise on the Hair," accompanying each bottle.

Principal Office, 179, Broadway, where advice is given by Mr. Clirehugh on all diseases connected with the growth of the hair.
