PRESIDENT GRANT'S MESSAGE.

Important Legislation Recommended.

WASHINGTON, December 7th.—To the Senate and the House of Representatives: Since the convening of Congress one year ago, the nation has undergone a prostration in its business and industries, such as has not been witnessed with us for many years. Speculation as to the cause for this prostration might be indulged in without profit, because as many theories would be advanced as there would be independent writers; therefore I will call your attention only to the fact, and to some questions as to which it would seem there should be no disagreement. During this prostration two essential elements of prosperity have been most abundant—labor and capital. Both have been largely unemployed. Where security has been undoubted, capital has been obtainable at very moderate rates. Where labor has been wanted it has been found in abundance at cheap rates compared with what the accessories and comforts of life could be purchased with the wages demanded. Two great elements of prosperity, therefore, have not been denied us. A third might be added: Our soil and climate are unequalled within the limits of any contiguous territory, under one nationality, for its varieties of products, to feed and clothe a people—in the amount of surplus to spare to feed less favored people. Therefore, with these facts in view, it seems to me that wise statesmanship at this session of Congress would dictate ignoring the past and distributing, in proper channels, these great elements of prosperity to any people. The debt abroad is the only element that can, with always a sound currency, enter into our affairs to cause any continued depression in the industries or prosperity. A great conflict for national existence made necessary for temporary purposes the raising of a large sum of money from whatever source attainable. It was made necessary, in the wisdom of Congress—and I do not doubt their wisdom in the premises regarding the necessity of the times—to devise a system of national currency, which it proved to be impossible to keep on a par with the recognized currency of the civilized world. This begot a spirit of speculation involving an extravagance and luxuriousness not required for the happiness or prosperity of a people, and involving both directly and indirectly foreign indebtedness. The currency being of a fluctuating value, proved to be unsafe to hold for legitimate transactions requiring money and became a subject of speculation in itself. Those two causes, however, have involved us in a foreign indebtedness contracted in good faith by the borrower and lender, which should be paid in coin, and according to the bond agreed upon when the debt was contracted—gold or its equivalent. The good faith of the Government cannot be violated toward creditors without national disgrace. Our commerce should be encouraged, American ship-building and carrying capacity increased, foreign markets made to seek for the products of the soil and manufactures, to the end that we may be able to pay these debts where a market can be created for the sale of other products, either of the soil, the mine, or the manufactory—a new means is discovered of utilizing our idle capital and labor to the advantage of the whole people.

WISE LEGISLATION FOR SPECIE RESUMPTION.

In my judgment, the first step toward accomplishing this object is to secure a good currency wherever civilization reigns—one which, if it becomes superabundant with one people, will find a market with some other; a currency which has as its basis the labor necessary to produce it which will give us value. Gold and silver are now the recognized mediums of exchange the world over, and to this we should return with the least practicable delay. In view of the pledges of the American Congress when our present legal tender system was adopted, and the debt contracted, there should be no delay—certainly no unnecessary delay, in fixing by legislation a method by which we will return to specie. * * * The steps toward the return to a specie basis are the great requisites to this devoutly-to-be-sought-for end. There are others which I may touch upon hereafter. A nation, dealing in a currency below that of specie in value, labors under two great disadvantages.

First—Having no use for the world's acknowledged medium of exchange, gold and silver. These are driven out of the country because there is no demand for their use.

Second—The mediums of exchange in use being of a fluctuating value; for, after all, it is only worth just what it will purchase of gold and silver, metals having an intrinsic value just in proportion to the honest labor it takes to produce them. A large margin must be allowed for profit by the manufacturers and producers. It is months from the date of production to date of realization. Interest upon capital must be changed, and the risk of fluctuation in the value of getting that which is to be received in payment added. Hence, high prices act as protection to the foreign producer, who receives nothing in exchange for the product of his skill and labor except a currency good at a stable value the world over. It seems to me that nothing is clearer than that the greater part of the burthen of the existing prostration of a sound financial system, falls upon the workingman, who must, after all, produce the wealth, and the salaried man who superintends and conducts business. The burthen falls on them in two ways; by the depreciation of employment and by the decreased purchasing power of their salary. It is the duty of Congress, not mine, to devise the means of correcting the evils which are acknowledged to exist; but I will venture to suggest two or three things which seem to me as absolutely necessary to a return to specie payment—the first great requisite as a return to prosperity. The legal tender clause to the law authorizing the issuing of currency by the National Government should be repealed, to take effect as to all contracts entered into after a day fixed in the repealing act. This should not apply, however, to payments of salaries by the Government, or for other expenses now provided by law to be paid in currency. In the interval pending between repeal and final resumption, provision should be made by which the Secretary of the Treasury can obtain gold as it becomes necessary from time to time, from the date when specie resumption commences. To this might and should be added, a revenue sufficiently in excess of expenses as to insure an accumulation of gold in the Treasury to sustain redemption. I recommend this subject to your careful consideration, believing that a favorable solution is attainable, and that if reached by this Congress the present and future generations will ever gratefully remember it as their delivery from a thraldom of evil and disgrace. * * * * * * *

AT PEACE WITH THE WORLD.

During the past year nothing has occurred to disturb the general friendly and cordial relations of the United States with other nations. * * *

IMMORAL CHINESE IMMIGRATION SHOULD BE PROHIBITED.

In connection with this subject I call the attention of Congress to a generally conceded fact, that the proportion of Chinese immigrants who come to our shores do not come ostensibly to make their homes with us, and their labor productive of general prosperity; but they come under a contract with head men, who own them almost absolutely. In a worse form does this apply to Chinese women. Hardly a perceptible per centage of them perform honorable labor; they are brought for shameful purposes, to the disgrace of the community where settled, and to the great demoralization of those localities. If this evil practice can be legislated against, it will be my pleasure, as well as my duty, to enforce any regulation to insure so desirable an end.

JAPANESE TREATY.

It is hoped that the negotiations between the Government of Japan and the treaty powers, looking to the further opening of that Empire, and to the removal of various restrictions upon trade and travel, may soon produce the result desired, which cannot fail to inure to the benefit of all parties.

Having on previous occasions submitted to the consideration of Congress the policy of relessing the Japanese Goverment from the payment of the indemnity under the Convention of October 22d, 1864, and as no action had been taken therein, it became my duty to regard the obligations of the Convention as in force, and as the other powers interested have received their portion of the indemnity in full, the Minister of the United States in Japan has, on behalf of this Government, received the remainder of the award due the United States under the Convention of Simonoseki.

HOW THE JAPANESE INDEMNITY SHOULD BE APPLIED

I submit the propriety of applying the increase of a part, if not the whole of this fund, to the education in the Japanese language of a number of young men, to be under obligations to serve the Government for a specified time as interpreters at the legations and consulates in Japan. A limited number of Japanese youths might at the same time be educated in our vernacular, and mutual benefit would result to both governments.

The importance of having our own citizens competent and familiar with the language of Japan to act as interpreters and in other capacities connected with the legation and consulates in that country cannot readily be overestimated.

[We omit the paragraph referring to a court to try alien claims—territorial boundaries—Alabama claims—rights of Americans in Turkey—Mexican and South American claims—and American citizenship and nationality—as unimportant to most of our readers.]

THE WAR IN CUBA.

The deplorable strife in Cuba continues without any marked change in the relative advantages of the contesting forces. The insurrection continues, but Spain has gained no superiority. Six years of strife give the insurrection a significance which cannot be ignored. Its duration and the tenacity of its adherents, together with the absence of manifest power in its suppression on the part of Spain, cannot be controverted, and may make some positive steps on the part of other powers a matter of self-necessity.

TREATIES RATIFIED.

Since my last annual message the exchange has been made of the ratification of treaties of extradition with Belgium, Ecuador, Peru and San Salvador—all of which have been duly proclaimed, as has also a declaration with Russia with reference to trade marks.

THE ARMY.

The report of the Secretary of War herewith attached, and forming a part of the message, gives all the information concerning the operations, wants and necessities of the army, and contains many suggestions which I commend to your special attention. There is no class of Government employes who are harder workers than the army officers, and none who perform their tasks more cheerfully and efficiently, and under circumstances of greater privations and hardships. Legislation is desirable to render more efficient this branch of the public service.

THE NAVY.

The efficiency of the navy has been largely increased during the past year under the impulse of the foreign complications which have threatened us at the commencement of the last session of Congress. Most of our efficient wooden ships were put in a condition for immediate service, and the repairs of the iron-clads were pushed with the utmost vigor. The result is that most of these are effective and need only to be manned and set in commission to go at once into service. Some of the new sloops authorized by Congress are already in commission, and most of the remainder are already launched and wait only the completion of their machinery to enable them to take their places as part of the effective force. Two iron-torpedo ships have been completed during the past year, and four of our large double turreted iron-clads are now undergoing repairs. When these are finished everything that is needful for our Navy as now authorized will be in a condition for service, and with the advance in the science of torpedo warfare, the American Navy, comparatively small as it is, will be found at any time powerful enough for the purposes of a peaceful nation.

Much has been also accomplished during the year in the aid of science and to increase the sum of general knowledge and further the interests of commerce and civilization. Extensive and much needed soundings have been made for hydrographic purposes and to fix the proper routes of ocean telegraphs. Further surveys of the great Isthmus Canal have been undertaken and completed. Two vessels of the Navy, now employed in conjunction with those of England, France, Germany and Prussia, in observations connected with the Transit of Venus, is useful and interesting to the scientific world. The estimates for this branch of the public service do not differ materially from those of last year, for the general support of the service being somewhat less, and those for improvement at the various stations rather larger than the corresponding estimate made a year ago. The regular maintenance and the steady increase in the efficiency of this most important arm in proportion to the growth of our marine intercourse and interest, is recommended to the attention of Congress. The use of the Navy during peace might be further utilized by a direct authorization of the employment of naval vessels in surveys of the supposed navigable waters of other nationalities on this continent, especially the tributaries of the two great rivers of South America, the Orinoco and the Amazon. Nothing prevents, under existing laws, such exploration, except that the expenditures must be made in such expeditions beyond those usually provided for by the appropriations. The field designated is unquestionably one of interest and one capable of a large development of commercial interests, advantageous to the people reached and those who may establish relations with them.

THE SEA MOUSE.—The sea mouse is one of the prettiest creatures that live under the water. It sparkles like a diamond and is radiant, with all the colors of the rainbow, although it lives in the bottom of the ocean. It should not have been called a mouse, for it is larger than a big rat. It is covered with scales that move up and down as it breathes, and glitters like gold shining through a flocky down, from which fine silky bristles wave that constantly change from one brilliant tint into another, so that, as Cuvier, the great naturalist, says, the plumage of the humming bird is no more beautiful. Sea mice are sometimes thrown up on the beach by storms.

A MORTIFIED BRIDE.—A Brooklyn bride's hair fell down and fell off during the ceremony in church the other evening. There was an instant's pause, but nobody was brave enough to stoop down and pick up the mass of blonde stuff and hair pins. The bride left the church leaning heavily on her husband's arm. Her face was very red, and a sprout of hair (possibly eleven hairs in all) stuck out at the back of her head, tied with a bit of shoe-string. And now her pa is mean enough to refuse to pay the poor hair-dresser's bill.

PURCHASE OF THE MOUNT OF OLIVES.—"While in Jerusalem," writes a lady traveller, "we paid our respects to the Princess de la Tour d'Auvergne, who resides there, and who has purchased the Mount of Olives for the Catholics, for $100,000, ceding it to the French Government. For seven centuries it was lost to the Catholics, ever since the Crusaders were driven out of Jerusalem. She is now erecting a convent on the very spot were Christ prayed. The prayer is inscribed in thirty-two different languages around the inclosure of the court yard. The Countess is very agreable, rather past fifty. She lives in an old Oriental cottage, and her sole companions are her tortoise-shell cat Marmaduke and her brown dog Honey. She speaks English very well. She will remain until her work is done, which has already been in progress seven years.

MAXIMS OF ROTHSCHILD.—The will of the late Baron Rothschild consisted of twenty-five articles, of which paragraph twenty, remarkable for its beautiful lessons of filial obedience and brotherly love, is as follows: "I exhort all my beloved children always to live in harmony; never to loosen the family bonds; to avoid evil differences, dissension and litigations; to use forbearance toward each other and not to allow temper to get the better of them, and to be friendly in their disposition. My children possess a good example in their excellent grandparent. Friendliness was also the sure condition to the happiness and success of the whole Rothschild family. May my children now and never lose sight of this family tradition, and may they follow the exhortation of my late father, their grandfather, contained in paragraph fifteen of his last will, always to remain true and faithful, and without changing, to the paternal faith of Israel."

Games for Winter Evenings.

THE CHRISTMAS BAG.

Make a large bag of thin white paper—silver paper will do; fill it with sugar plums, and tie a string around the top to keep it fast. Suspend from the ceiling, or from a large door-frame, and provide a long, light stick. Each little player is blindfolded in turn, and the stick put into her hand. She is then led within reach of the bag, and told to strike it. If she succeeds in her aim and tears a hole in it, the sugar plums are scattered on the floor, and the little ones scramble for them; but it is by no means easy to strike a suspended object blindfolded; generally many attempts are made unsuccessfully. Each player is allowed three trials. If the giver of the bag pleases, small gifts may be put into it, tiny books, pin-cushions, dolls, etc., with the sugar-plums.

THE BLINDMAN'S TRAP.

All sit in a row. One to be blindfolded on the opposite side of the room, who crosses over, when they all hold out their hands, and taking the first one with which he comes in contact in his own, he proceeds to ask the individual four questions, each of which should almost necessitate the using of the adverbs Yes and No in the answers given. Now, the players must bear in mind that on no account must the adverb Yes or No be used, or any word beginning with Y or N; and it will require no small amount of care of ingenuity to avoid the trap thus laid for them. Should, however, the first player avoid being caught, the blindman must return to his corner, and they all change places, when he again takes a hand as before. Whoever is first entrapped becomes blindman.

THE LOVE TEST.

Join hands in a circle. One player, being blindfolded, goes in the middle. All dance around until the blindman holds out his hand, which the one immediately opposite takes hold of and enters the circle. The blind player then asks in succession the following questions: "Do you love me? Can you love me? Will you love me?" and he should endeavor to render his tone and attitude as ludicrous as possible, in order to provoke a smile from the young lady or gentleman (as the case may be) whom he is addressing, for which those players forming the circle must carefully watch, the rule being, that in the answers given, which should always be given in a feigned voice, the adverbs Yes and No are inadmissible, and no smile is allowed on the countenance. Otherwise, by way of penalty, they must kiss each other, and if the blind player can then tell the name of the individual before him, they change places. It should also be observed that those players who pass through the ordeal of the three questions without breaking the rules, return to their places, and all dance around as before.
