Starting for the pepper field.

Mary Pickford Picks a Peck of Pickled Peppers That Peter Piper Planted.

In the carpenter shop preparing fuel for Philadelphia Pepperpot.

Watching the peppers grow and listening to the early morning twitterings of the little peppers.

Registering irony in "The Scorched Skirt."

The clothespin line in a new combination of thrill and pathos entitled "The Week's Wash."

The calf is not expected to fill the pail. But the pail is expected to fill the calf, mother having filled a vacancy in a restaurant.

"Here Comes the Bride?" Not at all. It portrays the way Chicago University students recently entertained Mary Pickford at a reception.