Somebody's Mother.

The woman was old and ragged and gray
And bent with the chill of winter's day;
The street was wet with the winter's snow,
And the woman's feet were aged and slow.
She stood at the crossing and waited long,
Alone, uncared-for, amid the throng
Of human beings, who passed her by,
Nor heeded the glance of her anxious eye.
Down the street with laughter and shout,
Glad in the freedom of school let out,
Came the boys, like a flock of sheep,
Hailing the snow piled white and deep.
Past the woman, so old and gray,
Hastened the children on their way.
Nor offered a helping hand to her,
So meek, so timid, afraid to stir,
Lest the carriage wheels or horses' feet
Should crowd her down in the slippery street.
At last came one of the merry troop,
The gayest laddie of all the group;
He paused beside her and whispered low,
"I'll help you across if you wish to go."
Her aged hand on his strong young arm
She placed, and without hurt or harm
He guided her trembling feet along,
Proud that his arm were firm and strong.
Then back again to his friends he went,
His young heart happy and well content.
"She's somebody's mother, boys, you know,
For she's old and poor and slow;
"And I hope some fellow will lend a hand
To help my mother, you understand,
"If ever she's old and poor and gray,
When her own dear boy is far away."
And "somebody's mother" bowed low her head
In her home that night, and the prayer she said
Was "God be kind to the noble boy
Who is somebody's son and pride and joy."

Miscellaneous.

Thirty-two thousand photographs brought up in the Dead Letter Office at Washington last year.

A stone dwelling at Phoenixville, Pa., weighing 500 tons, has just been moved 1000 yards without injury.

Richard Conway has for the thirteenth time, been sent to the penitentiary by a New York justice for wife-beating.

Alexander Graham Bell of telephone fame, has recently become a citizen of the United States, by naturalization.

During October 1068 miles of railroad were built in the United States, making a total of 9143 miles for the year to Nov. 1st.

The New Orleans Companies turned off the gas in the streets and all public buildings in that city lately because of the non-payment of bills.

Thar is advice enuff now laying around to run three just such worlds as this, what we are suffering most for is sum good examples.—Josh Billings.

The interest on the English national debt amounts to thrice the estimated income of all the members of the House of Peers.

The Duke of Norfolk is the richest of English nobles. They rate him at $15,000,000. Next to him comes the Marquis of Bute.

Sydney, New South Wales, has a refuge which last year, housed and breakfasted 12,000 people for the amazingly low sum of $533.

Seven of the largest English trades-unions have spent in six years $10,000,000 for the defence, support and relief of men out of work.

A woman has just been awarded $2000 damages by a Cleveland court because of a cough she acquired in a freshly plastered hotel.

There are 1817 theaters and halls, equipped with scenery and furnished for theatrical performances and used for that purpose in the United States.

Killing alligators for their skins and teeth employs a large force of men in Florida who have engaged to furnish 500,000 skins to a French tannery in a given time.

During a quarrel between two negro employees in a Virginia iron furnace recently, one of the combatants was hurled into the mass of molten iron, where he was burned to death.

There are about 66,000 locomotive engines in the world, and 120,000 passenger and 600,000 freight cars. There are 200,000 miles of track, and the capital invested is $20,000,000,000.

The four buildings for the World's Industrial and Cotton Exposition in New Orleans are to have 1,000,000 square feet of exhibition space, and are to cost in the aggregate only £255,000.

The largest farm in the world is probably that of Samuel Mackey of New South Wales. His land runs 700 miles in one direction, and comprises 5,000,000 acres, and has been nearly all reclaimed from the desert.

In the whole Russian Empire of nearly 100,000,000 persons there are only 776 journals and periodicals of all kinds. Eighty-two of these are government gazettes, and forty-four are organs of the ecclesiastical authorities.

Postal cards were introduced by Prof. Emanuel Herman of Vienna. They were first used in England, German and Switzerland in 1870, in Blegium and Denmark in 1871, and in Norway, Russia and the United States in 1872-73.

The man who endeavored to discover perpetual motion and failed, somehow never thought of getting a situation as a newspaper reporter. If he had, he would have found it.

The new Bey of Tunis is described as "a short-legged, obese, little man, near sighted and deaf," who, when he desires to review the troops on horseback, must be lifted into the saddle.

There was recently a lively sewing circle at a minister's house in Baltimore, because some one had removed a nice talking parrot from his cage and substituted one which was used to talking in a sailer's boarding house.

A genius has invented an umbrella with a detachable handle, upon withdrawing which the ribs are automatically locked. Replacing it unlocks them, and no two handles fit the same umbrella. There is doubtless in prospect a future when it will not be worth while to steal a man's umbrella.

It is thought that the earliest patent in the United States was that granted by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to Samuel Winslew, who had invented a method of manufacturing salt. "None are to make this article," said the patent, "except in a manner different from his, provided he set up his works within a year."

(Dramatis personæ.—Paterfamilias and his "Only Hope," aged twelve. The latter is busy at his lessons.) Only Hope (suddenly looking up from his books)—"Pa, who was Shylock?" Paterfamilias (with a look of surprise and horror)—"Great goodness, boy, you attend church and Sunday school every week and don't know who Shylock was? Go and read your Bible, sir."

The French Ministry of Commerce is engaged in drawing up the particulars of the patents for inventions granted in France since the foundation of the present republic. The work so far is complete up to the end of 1878. During the eight years prior to 1876 there were nearly a mean annual average of 7,000 applications for patent rights. In the succeeding years the number of applications has considerably increased.

An English firm say they have, after a long series of experiments succeeded in alloying manganese with phosphorus and tinand copper, producing a metal which, for tensile strenth and durability, they think will be superior to any alloy in the market. The phosphor-manganese tin may be used in the same manner and in similar proportions as phosphor tin, though it is better to cast at a little higher temperature, but the result will be found much superior both as regards hardness and tensile strength.

Experiments, says the Nature, have been described regarding the liquefaction of oxygen, nitrogen etc. At 136 deg. oxygen liquefies under a pressure of 22.5 atmospheres. Nitrogen at the same low temperature does not liquefy even under a pressure of 150 atmospheres, but if the temperature is kept constant, and the pressure somewhat slowly diminished, care being taken that it does not become less than 50 atmospheres, the nitrogen becomes liquid. Carbon bisulphide solidifies at about 100 deg., and alcohol at 130.5 deg.

From the latest reports regarding the cholera in Egypt which became epidemic last summer it appears that the germs of the disease are always present in the Nile delta and only wait the circumstances which go to their development to make a pestilence at any time. The disease does not seem to be imported. It has an abiding place in the country. Now that Egypt is so closely connected with the great distributing centres of commerce of the world, the final report of the Scientific Commissioners will be looked with for interest and given an attention worthy of the subject.

It is well known, says a medical journal, that some highly arsenical wall papers have been used without manifest injury to the health, while others, on the other hand, though containing much less arsenic, have produced distressing results. It may be that in the one case volatile arsenical bases have been formed and not in the other. The fact that the frequenters of dissecting-rooms where bodies are injected with preparations of arsenic do not suffer from arsenic poisoning is, however, adverse to the formation of these bodies under the influence of putrefaction unless in very exceptional cases.
