
Oil Appears on the Troubled Waters

By Lieutenant Henri Farré
Observateur-Bombardier au Premier Groupe d'Escadrille de Bombardment

A French F. B. A. hydro-aeroplane, flying over the North Sea in 1916 at an altitude of 1,600 metres, swooped on the silhouette of a German submarine, dropped a bomb from ninety metres and hit the U-boat two yards back of her periscope. That is the end of the story of the U-Boat.