Upon representation of Indian Agent Stouch, at Tongue River agency, Mont., transmitted through and inquired by the interior department, the war department sent orders to General Brooke, commanding the department of Dakota, to send troops from Fort Custer to the agency to preserve order and stop the killing of cattle by the Indians. TORNADO THROUGH IOWA

Half a Hundred Lives Lost in a Cyclone.

STORIES TOLD BY EYEWITNESSES

Whole Families Wiped Out of Existence—Tornado Went East Through Illinois and Michigan.

Des Moines, Ia., May 27.—Forty-three killed, a score of fatally injured and about fifty people seriously hurt, as near as can be estimated tonight, the result of the destructive tornado which swept portions of Iowa, Illinois and Kansas last night. The property loss is heavy, but accurate estimates thus far are impossible. The list of killed stands as follows:

Jasper county, Iowa, 10; Polk county, Iowa, 9; Rockford county, Iowa, 4; Elgin county, Iowa, 1; North McGregor, Iowa, 13; Durango, Iowa, 6; Fort Scott, Kan., 2.

The storm wrought its greatest havoc in Iowa, where the counties of Polk and Jasper were devastated by two tornadoes. The loss of life was heaviest there.

The storm originated near the town of Anksy, ninety-five miles north of Des Moines. As near as can be ascertained from those who saw the sight, two clouds, one from the west, met and one from the southwest, met and dropped down on the earth and wrought their havoc on all that was loose and fast. The storm moved northeastward.

Near the town of Bondurant it killed its first victims, the members of the Bailey family. The storm was seen coming from Bondurant. Many farmers who had attended the church services had been unable to get home before the storm, and their lives were thus saved. The track of the tornado at this point was about a quarter of a mile wide. It passed onward, going north of the town of Santiago. All along the course the fences and buildings, crops and trees were completely destroyed.

In place bark was peeled from the trees, houses were lifted up and hurled down and broken into splinters; cellars were heaped full of mud, and debris, often partially covering those who had taken refuge in them. Those who had fled to caves were invariably saved, but so sudden was the approach of the storm that many were unable to find that shelter, though the caves were only a few rods from them.

Passing onward the storm struck Valeria. The railroad bridge on the Chicago Great Western was the first object it wreathed with. The bridge was completely demolished, and the rails were twisted and bent out of shape. The town was almost completely ruined. The buildings were demolished when they stood in the full force of the storm, and those which stood along the edges of the storm were moved and twisted, and in other ways injured. A schoolhouse was taken away bodily, and fragments of it have so far escaped discovery.

There were some strange pranks played near this town. An old man holding a babe was lifted up and dropped into an adjoining field without the least injury being done to either him or the child.

Leaving the wrecked town, the storm moved forward, laying the country bare, wrecking houses and killing the inmates. One observer near Valeria, who saw the storm and observed it carefully, says that the cloud appeared to be a high balloon, dark green in color, with a light streak in the center. It traveled at a tremendous rate, tearing up the largest trees by the roots or stripping them clean off, driving posts into the earth, twisting buildings in the edge of its track, and first spattering the houses close to it with mud and sand, stripping hedges and flogging the grass from the fields. From Valeria the storm moved on, passing near the town of Mingo.

Later in the evening, a tornado seems to have struck near Manchester, in Delaware county, although reports are very meager from there. It is possible that this was the same storm, and that, after traveling 150 miles in the air, it once more dipped down to the earth and laid bare a strip half a mile wide and six or eight miles long.

Colorado Miners Strike.

Denver, May 27.—A special to the Rocky Mountain News from Louisville, Colo., states that the Western Federation of Miners has called a strike on the coal mines operated by the United Coal Company and the Citizens' Coal Company. The strike was caused by the discharge of eight men at the Simpson mine, and was over an old trouble with the company in refusing to reinstate twenty-two men who were discharged, the company declining to adopt the schedule under which the men were working. About 500 miners are affected.

Secession in Peru.

New York, May 27.—A Herald dispatch from Buenos Ayres says: The Herald's correspondent in Manaus, Brazil, sends word that a boat arriving there from Iquitos, Peru brings news that Colonel Seminario, leader of the movement to make the department of Loreto, Peru, an independent state, has called into the field all persons able to carry arms. Colonel Seminario has raised about 8,000 men to resist the troops of President Pietero. They have only old-style arms. A small steamer has been armed for service on the Amazon river. Seminario has issued a proclamation declaring the independence of the new state.

Accidental Death of a Child.

Dayton, Or., May 27.—A frightful accident occurred near Wheatland, ten miles south of here, in which a 6-year-old girl of D. Magill, a farmer, was killed. It seems the grandfather of the little girl was coming out of the house, with the hammers of a gun cocked, to shoot a Chinese pheasant, which was near the house. He stumbled and both barrels of the gun were discharged, the contents entering one of the lower limbs of the little girl near the hip, and entirely severed the limb from the body. The child died soon after from loss of blood.

There are within the corporate limits of Cosmopolis, according to a census just completed, 353 males and 198 females.

Receiver Balkwill, of the German American Savings bank, of Tacoma, has been discharged of his trust and his accounts approved.

"Cattle, hogs, lumber fence posts and cordwood to trade for horses" is an advertisement of the ordinary in a Columbia county paper.

A traveling tight-rope walker met with an accident at Port Townsend. While performing on the wire, it broke and he fell thirty feet, breaking his leg.

Parties recently coming from the Concoquilly county report that a party of surveyors are engaged in laying off a townsite along the east side of Soyoc lake on the reservation.

The jail part of the Whitman county courthouse has settled eight inches, so twisting the cells and their bearings that it has been necessary to remove the prisoners for safe keeping.

For the first time in several seasons, many of the farmers around Davenport are breaking up a lot of prairie land, which they are preparing for next season's crop. This year has been unusually propitious for spring breaking.

The fees earned in the auditor's office, in Chehalis county, during the months of January, February, March and April, amounted to $2,291.15, of which $1,440.30 was for work done for county and state, and $850.85 was cash fees.

Reports from the lower end of Yakima county indicate that the crops of this season will be larger than for many years past. The unusual amount of rain has proved a blessing to the farmers, especially in the Horse Heaven section.

Walla Walla has a Daniel Webster, who weighs over 300 pounds and is a bigger man than the original Daniel. He makes no pretense of statesmanship, but is a butcher by trade. He has traveled extensively in the Orient, and lived for many years in Japan.

Piling is being driven at Fort Canby for the new life-saving quarters. Great difficulty is experienced in driving them, on account of the rocky nature of the bottom. Some can only be driven down eighteen inches. A government inspector superintends the work.

The treasury of Snohomish county has received notice that $11,300 of the money tied up in the Puget Sound National bank, of Everett, is now ready to be turned over. For the remainder of the indebtedness to the county, the bank proposes to give a first lien on its entire assets.

Miss Agnes E. Adams, who won the Washington intercollegiate oratorical contest at Tacoma, representing Whitman college, is 18 years of age and has been at Walla Walla three years. She is from New Hampshire. Both her parents are dead, and she has been making her home with her aunt, Mrs. Elvira Cobleigh.

A good story has just got out on the Washington militia. It is that, while they were encamped at Sand island, the horses they were using to patrol the beach were taken sick and a veterinary surgeon was sent for. On inquiry he was found that the soldier boys had been watering the poor brutes on the brackish water of the Columbia river. Had they known it they could have found plenty of fresh water on the island by digging five or six feet through the sand.

It costs Coos county $146 to send an insane patient to the asylum.

The Vogt opera house at The Dalles is being fitted with new scenery.

The Washburne mill at Springfield has put in dynamos for its own electric lighting.

The steamer Moor will take out a cargo of Coquille coal on her next trip from Coos bay.

Elisia Bedwell, aged 76 years and a pioneer of 1849, was buried at Monmouth last week.

Daily Proceedings in Senate and House.

IMPORTANT BILLS INTRODUCED

Substance of the Measures Being Considered by the Fifty-Fourth Session—Senate.

Washington, May 23.—The fortifications bill, which passed the senate yesterday, appropriated the liberal sum of $10,763,888. After the committee on coast defenses concluded its investigations, the house committee on appropriations availed itself of information obtained by the senate coast-defense committee; it also followed up the investigation and concluded to appropriate $5,845,887. This was beyond all precedent a departure in the line of coast defenses, but the senate, not content with this, and after due consideration in the committee on appropriations, increased the amount by $4,918,051. Senator Squire was invited to sit with the senate committee during its review of the subject, and matters in question were thoroughly considered. The main question of the importance of having this appropriation made was conceded without objection in the senate so the bill passed unanimously.

Washington, May 25.—In the senate today Butler renewed the motion to take up the bill prohibiting the issue of interest-bearing bonds. After some sparring Hill interposed the objection that this was too important a question to be considered "without a quorum." This was the first evidence of a renewal of the obstruction. A quorum being found quickly, the motion was adopted, the vote being ayes, 34, noes, 20. With the understanding that the Butler bill should not be prejudiced, a bill was passed to quiet titles to lands to persons who had purchased in good faith, without notice, and for a valuable consideration, to enable the government to issue patents on such lands and providing that communications of homestead entries shall take effect from the date of settlement, and not from the date of entry.

Washington, May 27.—The general deficiency appropriation bill, the last of the supply bills, was before the senate throughout the day and passed just before adjournment. It temporarily displaced the bill to prohibit the issue of bonds. As passed, the bill carries about $10,000,000, an increase of $6,000,000 over the house bill. The most important amendment agreed to up to 3 o'clock was that of $1,543,979, to the Southern Pacific company for the transportation of mails. At 3 o'clock the bond bill was formally laid before the senate, and Pritchard was recognized, but after some discussion the bond bill was informally laid aside and the consideration of the deficiency bill continued. All the committee amendments were agreed to.

House.

Washington, May 23.—So much of the time of the house was occupied today in considering the president's veto of the bill to pension Francis E. Hoover, a private in the Sixty-fourth Ohio volunteer infantry, and in listening to a personal explanation from Grosvener relative to a newspaper misrepresentation of his position on the subject of reciprocity, that the time for the debate on the Phillips commission bill was extended. The bill provides for the appointment by the president of a non-partisan commission of twenty-one, seven representatives each from labor, agriculture and business circles, to collect information and consider and recommend legislation to meet problems presented by labor. The author of the bill made the principal argument today.

Washington, May 25.—The Phillips labor commission bill, which was to have come to a vote in the house today under the special order, was completely crowded out by the conference report on the river and harbor, and sundry civil bills. The conference report on the river and harbor bill, which reported an agreement on all the items save that relating to the Santa Monica and San Pedro harbors, was made the basis of a very bitter attack on the bill by Hepburn and Dockery. The latter said he opposed this measure because it contained riotous appropriations not warranted by the condition of the treasury. He said he realized that his remarks would not be punctuated by applause. At the night session, Cummings made a stirring speech, appealing to his Democratic friends not to stand in the way of meritorious pension bills. Twelve bills were favorably acted on.

Washington, May 27.—Shortly after the opening of the session today, the house went into a committee of the whole to consider the bill to repeal the free-alcohol clause of the existing tariff law. Evans, in charge of the bill, opened the debate in support of the measure, explaining the necessity of the legislation. He said the bill would not affect the claims now pending, amounting to $15,000,000. Evans offered the amendment to the bill which had been agreed upon as a compromise by some of the friends and opponents of the measure. It provided for a joint committee of three members from each house of congress to consider all questions relating to the free use of alcohol in the arts, to report their conclusions to congress in December. At 5 o'clock the committee rose. Strode presented the majority report in the contested election case of Martin vs. Lockhart, from the sixth North Carolina district, and at 5:15 the house adjourned.

Idaho Mining Notes.

The Campbell tunnel at the Standard mine is now in 1,730 feet.

A new mining district has been organized in this state. It is on Indian creek and will be known by the same name.

The flume for the Standard mine is now 6,500 feet long. Some heavy work is now being encountered in blasting rock.

The old Granite mill near Gem is being put in condition for use. A tramway is also being erected connecting the railroad siding with the ore bins.

The capacity of the mill of the Black Jack mine is being considerably increased and many other needed improvements are being made in and about the plant.

The Consolidated Tiger-Poorman Company at Burke is now employing about sixty men. Good headway is being made in clearing the debris and getting ready to erect the new milling plant.

The Frisco shaft is down 400 feet, and as soon as the station is out the new level will be started. A fine body of ore was struck in the hanging wall at the 400-foot point. The ore is of a better grade than has ever been found in the mine.

Montana Mining Notes.

The Butte & Boston company have leased the Blue Jay mine down to the 500-foot level to Messrs. White & Farry. Several other properties of the company have been leased in similar manner.

Work has been commenced on the Copperopolis mine near White Sulphur Springs. It was recently bonded by Chicago parties. Lumber and necessary machinery is being shipped to sink the present shaft, which is now 150 feet deep.

The Butte miners' union is already making great preparations for their annual meeting which takes place in that city June 13. There will be a street parade and speaking during the day and wind up in the evening with a ball.

The Anaconda Company has commenced work on the old Buffalo mine in the Centerville district. The foundation for a new hoisting plant is now being built. It is the company's intention to work this property quite extensively from now on.

Washington, May 23.—So much of the time of the house was occupied today in considering the president's veto of the bill to pension Francis E.
