He is a black negro, rather sharp faced, big mouth, thick lips. He says he was raised in Kentucky, by a man named Fisher. But was bought by me about 7 months since in Hamburg, South Carolina. He says he was brought from Petersburg, Va., to Hamburg. Had on when he left, brown jeans pants, brown jeans coat and black cloth cap—his coat had on it, white bone coat buttons, and the cloth out of which his coat was made had two colors in it, a part of it being a darker brown than the other. Lookout Mountain Property for Sale.

I OFFER for sale the above property belonging to H. W. Von Aldehoff, and used by him for several years as a Boarding School, and more recently as a Hotel. It contains two large two-story buildings and Seventy rooms. The ground, containing eight acres, embraces a magnificent Spring of never failing water, free stone water within a cave, and a fine water fall in the latter; also a large Stable, Kitchen, negro house, Smokehouse, &c.

As the Mountain is a favorite place for summer resort, and will undoubtedly become much more so, this property, being the only one possessing an abundant supply of water within convenient reach, is justly considered one of the most valuable of the kind.

VOL. 1. CHATTANOOGA, FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 20, 1863. No. 169.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 20, 1863.

OUR ARMY IN VIRGINIA.

[From our Own Correspondent.]

NEW GUINEA STATION, Va., Feb. 8, 1863.

Dear Rebel:—As the smoke of the recent great battle clears away, the evidences accumulate and strengthen us in the belief that that blow has been the most stunning which they have yet received at the hands of General Lee, and now, like Belshazzar's knees they are quaking for the very existence of "the flag," "the Union," and Doodle generally. As an evidence of this, they have been for two months in carbon-shot of our position and have made but one weak attempt at an advance, which, like all their former endeavors to "on to Richmond," has resulted in signal discomfiture. They abandoned the last effort to "crush the Rebellion" on the dimpy pretext that the mud was too deep, while the general opinion among we Rebels is, that a certain very meddlesom man called Lee had about as much to do with the thwarting of Almighty Doodle's plans as did the mud. But now that "fighting" Joe Hooker has assumed command we expect to be eaten up in no time. So forcibly are we impressed with this one appalling idea, that I for one, like Bob Acres, feel my valor escaping through my palms, and have fearful dreams of being roasted on the coals to satisfy voracious Doodle.

"The Yankees call him fighting Joe Hooker where did he get his name? At Williamsburg where Longstreet gave him his first lesson in warfare? "Was it at Richmond, at Sharpsburg, or was it at Fredericksburg? He is the individual, who at the battle of Williamsburg, cut dirt in such a quarter-horse style that Longstreet found it impossible to pursue him. So much for fighting Joe. No one expects an early advance on his part; it will take Joe some time to fix things up to his and Abe's liking. I suppose that Abraham will again submit "my plan" to the commanding General, and by the time he (Joe) can prove that his plan is superior to "my plan" the Spring will be here. It seems that all of Yankeedom are in a rampant; Hooker is the cry, and every one is perfectly amazed that they have not found him before. I predict that in less than six months Joe will be clear "busted," and like Pope, will "Stink."

Picket duty, every two days comes to relieve the tedium of camp-life, and with knapsacks on our backs, and haversacks filled we take ourselves to the river, as the boys say, "to devil the Yankees." "Hello, Yankee," they will say, "come over and get your blankets canteens, and haversacks, we've got 'em all over here. Don't you need them?" "This is generally answered with a smothered "d—n you" from the other side. "We are all going back into the Union before long," exclaimed a little fellow across lst. "Bully for you," replied a sturdy Yankee, "when are you coming?" "I don't exactly know," replied the lad, "but they say that General Lee is aiming to invade Pennsylvania next Spring." This was greeted with peal on peal of laughter from "our side of the house," and Yankee swears at the impertinence of Rebels.

The weather for the last twenty days has been exceedingly unpleasant, until yesterday when the snow disappeared, and the indications now are that fair weather will rule for a while at least. No one who is unacquainted with the nature of Virginia soil, can imagine the condition of the roads. Wagons and mules can be seen sticking in the mud holes at regular intervals between here and Guinea.

Yours &c.,
AMANDA.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—The 2d Quarterly Meeting for this Station will be held in the M. E. Church in this City, next Saturday and Sunday.
W. H. MUNSY.

YANKEE CONFESSIONS OF THEIR OWN DEMORALIZATION.—So inhuman and barbarous are the excesses of the Yankee troops becoming, that even many of the Northern papers are driven to tell of them. A correspondent of the New York Herald, writing from Memphis, says—

The most startling reports daily reach us of outrages by our soldiers all along the line of the Memphis and Charleston railroad. The Seventh Kansas regiment of cavalry are particularly mentioned as the perpetrators of outrages for which their officers ought to be dismissed the service. Fences are pulled down and burned, hogs, cattle and fowls killed, horses and mules stolen, houses burned, and pillage and rapine are their common, every day pursuits. Even ladies have had their clothes on their persons thrown over their heads, on the pretext that they had money on their persons which they would not give up. Such desolation as has followed in their tracks in West Tennessee can never be adequately shadowed forth in words. It has to be seen to be appreciated. Officers who fail to command their men are guilty, and should be made suffer.

SWEEPING ORDER OF GEN. LOAN IN MISSOURI.—The enemy in Missouri is far from relaxing in his atrocities. A dispatch from St. Louis says:

General Loan, commanding the central district of Missouri, has issued orders that all bushwhackers, guerillas, robbers, Confederate recruiting officers, emissaries assuming to act under rebel authority, found in that military district, shall be promptly executed by the first commissioned officer into whose hands they may be delivered; and all persons knowingly harboring, or in any way aiding and abetting such parties, shall suffer like punishment, and their houses be destroyed, and all the personal property on the premises seized and applied to the indemnification of Union citizens. Any officer failing promptly to execute this order will be court-martialed for disobedience of orders.

BY GRAPE-VINE AND OTHERWISE.

OF DIES OF THE DAY.

CHATTANOOGA.....Thursday Evening, 6 P. M.

All other telegraphic lines have gone under the weather but the indefatigable and irrepressible "grape-vine."

I have dispatches this evening from every quarter of the globe—regardless of blockades or freebots.

The first comes in the "unmentionable shape" of a general order from the "Pill Department" at Washington and reads:

HEADQUARTERS PILL DEPARTMENT,
ARMY OF TENNESSEE,
Wartrace, Tenn., Feb. 14, 1863.

General Order No. 90.

In pursuance of Special Order, No. 13, dated 1863, the officer in command would lay claim to lay before the General in command, the following exposé of his position in front of the enemy, together with certain complaints and grievances to be redressed, he would state in the first place that the enemy are in a great state of dilapidation and decay, most of the units having descended from General George Washington's army of the revolution with the exception of a few better or a few that have been gathered up through the country, they having been left by General Andrew Jackson's army when they passed through this State a few years since. He would state that the department is so much devoted to the interest of the country and the well fare of themselves that it makes little difference whether they sleep in doors or out, so they have a plenty of chalybeate and a few doctors to drench their fame. The enemy is reported by the pickets to be in heavy force about eight miles to our left, but really we do not know, knowing as we do that his only means of offence is as glare, and we are willing, any day or night either to meet him half way and drink his very blood face to face with the toast of "any on McDuff." The enemy is busy and his defences are weak, being nothing more than a sort of underground work with some flying artillery that has more report than shell. We would further state that most of the units have "Mama" and are very fretful, fellows pilot about kilt "shot."

Your most obedient servant,
LEFTON NASH,
Maj. Commanding Cut Foot.

To Gen. Surrox Barrin,
Commanding Department.

I cannot resist an inclination to give the following to the world. It is a Tennysonian lay worthy of preservation among the records of the times. The chorus of sublimity is reached in the end of the 4th verse—relating to "Bull 53"—and the reader will please not wonder and ponder as to the meaning it is alleged to be for "Bull-53."

MEDICAL DEP'T, CARE DIMMOCK,
Feb. 14, 1863.

For the Chattanooga Rebel.

When I was sick three months ago
In the M. E. Church, I lay so low—
Which was a Hospital then you know—
With Surgeon T——in charge.

From day to day I got no better,
Until at last—received a letter,
From one sweet girl (Miss Henrietta)
Which so cured all disponding fetters.

From that same hour I felt right well,
Just recovering from my Corinth spell,
But the very next day again I fell
In love, with a Chattanooga belle.

She is not a native of Tennessee,
As all who know, may plainly see,
But she was very dear to me
When I occupied Bunk 53.

What droll fellows these sports are, be sure!

The Grapevine acknowledges the receipt from that distingue gentleman, counselor and literateur, the "Sa De Kay" of the Shelbyville Rebel Banner, of an invitation to a select party at Eakin's Hall in Shelbyville. Thoughtful of you, Charlie, mon ami. "This way Mister Merryman."

I have a private dispatch, this evening, "strictly confidential" that Brigham Young, of the "Kingdom by the Sea" has openly declared that "if the American war comes not in twenty days, he will give old Abe a specimen of Foreign intervention over the left."

The last perfectly reliable dispatch is to the effect that the entire Federal army has deserted and that old Grant astraddle of a military gun-boat was charging on Vicksburg at last accounts.

DIED—At the residence of A. J. Wadsworth, Esq., on the 15th inst., of Brain Fever, LOUISA E. wife of Wm. P. Buchanan.

Gen. Richmond, Va., and Cedar, Georgia, papers please copy.

OBITUARY.

Departed this life in Marietta, on Sunday, the 8th inst., Mrs. Annie Dickson McKamy, the beloved and devoted consort of Capt. Jas. C. McKamy, of Memphis, Tenn. After an illness of eight days, she surrendered her pure spirit to Him who gave it.

Simple words alone cannot do justice to the memory christian, fond mother, and devoted wife. To Him who juleth all, we beseech a pretending hand to the little images left behind. Her remains with that of her little emblem babe, were temporarily deposited in St. James Cemetery.
