FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

TUESDAY, May 28.

To-day's stock market was a duplicate of those which have been witnessed many times during the present year following a day when prices of securities displayed extreme weakness. To-day as on corresponding occasions in the past there was a large reduction of the volume of transactions in the market, yet with a good deal of feverish activity and rapidly changing and conflicting movements in the course of the market itself. In the first few minutes of dealings quotations for the standard shares fell in many instances from 1 to 2 points below those last made yesterday, this representing, of course, a continuation of the liquidation and "bear" pressure upon the market that was previously in entire control of affairs. Then the usual rally set in, which carried the market up to a level well above that finally shown on the preceding day. After, this time until the last half hour of the day business was composed of a medley of periods of dulness and sharp outbreaks of buying and selling in particular issues. In the last half hour the market again turned weak and ended with a showing of very irregularly scattered advances and declines. In general the record of the market for the day was hardly such as to indicate any change in Wall Street's present speculative temper. A pessimistic feeling prevails in the financial district and the common remark is that the buying power in the market aside from that made to retire contracts entered into for the fall is small. Speculation for the decline has assumed large proportions and the disposition with the majority of professional market operators is to sell stocks upon every "strong point." The day will come, of course, when this policy will be carried too far.

The foreign markets were dull and heavy to-day, that in London being particularly so. The depression in London was a little surprising inasmuch as buying of stocks in London to-day was for the "new account," that is to say, was under conditions which did not call for payment upon the stocks purchased until a period of two weeks had elapsed. As this advantage on the part of purchasers is of substantial character, prices of stocks in order to be at parity with those of the preceding day should advance a little; and as they did not advance to-day, but declined, it was rightly taken as evidence of a distinct unsettlement of financial opinion in the London market. There were more rumors of trouble among the London Stock Exchange "jobbing" houses, but it was said before the day was over that possible failures in that quarter had been averted. London sales of stocks here were not, however, as great a factor as they were yesterday and did not check the rising tendency of the market in the first two hours of business. The stronger undertone of the market in that period was helped also by a pronounced decline in the price of wheat, and evidences thicken that in order to bring about a material and sustained further advance in wheat prices after their recent notable rise convincing proof must be afforded of damage to the crops beyond that which they have already suffered. It must be admitted, on the other hand, that news from the foreign crop sections does not at all improve and that conditions there seem to be as bad, if not worse, than any in our own country. The prospect of additional gold exports from the country this week was rendered slightly less definite to-day by an advance in sterling in Paris. It is conceded that the gold shipments already arranged for have paid only a small profit to the bankers on this side with whom the negotiations were conducted; and the foreign exchange market is in such a delicately balanced position at the moment that it is obvious that the amount of gold exports, or whether there will be any gold exports at all, depends upon a pretty finely drawn play of forces. It is the general impression, however, that unless money rates on this side of the Altantic harden perceptibly quite a sum of money in gold will be sent abroad in the next few weeks. One matter that figured a good deal in market discussion to-day, although it is doubtful if it affected values to any particular extent, was talk concerning the probable character of the speech to be delivered by the President of the United States at Indianapolis on Memorial Day. Opinions—that is to say, guesses—regarding the sort of an outgiving from a stock market point of view that was likely to be made on this occasion were multifarious and varying. Concerning one acute cause of whatever pessimism regarding the stock market is felt at the present moment there can be no doubt whatever. The abnormally cold weather, which seems to be as pronounced in the eastern half of the United States as in the winter wheat belt and in the spring wheat section in the Northwest, and is, in other words, pretty nearly general over the country, is unquestionably injuring business in very many ways aside from its harmful influence upon the crops. It has severely hurt the country's spring retail trade in mercantile lines, it is interfering severely with real estate business and, presumably, its adverse effect is also felt in degree by the railway companies.

THE CURB MARKET.

After a period of renewed heaviness in the copper shares shortly after the opening, during which Nevada-Utah was depressed to 4⅝ under particular pressure, the curb market to-day experienced a moderate and fairly general rally. Nipissing was especially firm, rising ¼ point on a larger volume of activity than for several days past. A sharp advance of 2½ points occurred in Chicago Subway, while Boston Copper improved ⅝. In spite of these advances a good deal of irregularity also prevailed. Standard Oil lost 5 points and Butte Coalition, Nevada Consolidated and Cumberland-Ely were all fractionally lower. The market was somewhat more active. Transactions in detail in the market to-day were as follows:
