ADDRESSED TO MRS. S. P. ——

[Written only one, a boy of seventeen, left at Hoover's Gap, June —, 1863.]

The ove is calm, the wind is still,
And gently flows the murmuring rill
That sweeps the base of yon green hill,
Then wanders to the sea.

Beside that stream, beneath that shade,
Enshroud'd in the flowery glade,
A mother's fondest hope is laid,
Deep in the grassy lea.

He's resting with the silent dead,
The turf is green above his head,
And lonely in his narrow bed
He's sleeping quietly.

The flowers around unheeded grow,
And fragrance o'er the valley throw,
Their sweetness he can never know,
Nor yet their beauties see.

The birds may warble in the grove,
And sing their artless notes of love—
Response he can never prove,
By fount or forest tree.

But where the flowers are fairer still,
Where birds enchanting sing at will,
Where perfumes sweet each valley fill,
He's where I long to be.

Beyond the reach of fancy's wand,
Far in a bright and happy land,
Enlisted in an angel band,
From mortal trammels free

Where summer flowers ne'er cease to grow,
Where limpid streams for ever flow
Where never enter grief nor woe,
In immortality.

Morgan's last Great Raid.

The Washington Star thinks the recent raid of General J. H. Morgan the most destructive in every sense ever undertaken by the Confederates. He has drawn troops from other States to hurt him; he has destroyed almost everything in his track, and has introduced the horror of war into a country never before visited by hostile troops." Writing under the mistaken impression that Morgan had been captured, the Star says:

The destruction of John Morgan's force is an event of much more importance than is generally known. It is safe to say that his four thousand light cavalry have given our troops more work, and destroyed and taken more property, than any sixteen thousand other rebels in arms. For more than a year past the guerillas have kept occupied, principally in Kentucky, a Union force of some twenty thousand men; the rapidity of their movements making it necessary to endeavor to be ready for their sudden appearance, go where they might. Even if Shackelford fails to capture Morgan himself, in the present desperate condition of the fortunes of the rebellion, if it be possible for him to set another formidable squadron in the field, he can give us little trouble indeed for a year hence.

We therefore regard his utter defeat and the capture of nine-tenths of his entire force, which has just occured, as being of great value to the Union cause, not only because it gives us twenty thousand of our own troops to be employed otherwise than in watching him, but also because it crushes out the remnant of active treason in Kentucky—a consummation greatly to be desired.

Our Northern files do not give any connected account of the movements of the great raider. We have a number of letters from different portions of Ohio and Indiana, describing the movements of the Confederates and the great success of their pursuers. We have added up the statements of the captures in seven letters, and find that out of 4000 men and 6 pieces of artillery that the Yankees said Morgan entered Indiana with, there have been captured 31,000 men and 38 pieces of cannon. The guns which were 12-pounder Parrotts when he entered, grew before they were captured to 60-pounders.

THE BATTLE OF MANASSAS GAP

Promotions in the Army.

BANKS DEFEATED BY DICK TAYLOR.

Yankee Loss 6,000.

New Blockade of the Mississippi River

RICHMOND, August 4.—Authentic accounts of the battle of Manassas Gap, fought July 23, state that Wright's brigade, after about three hours' fighting, was compelled to fall back about four hundred yards, but rallied and returned, driving the enemy back and completely routing them, and holding the position until relieved after night. Our loss was 160 killed, wounded and missing. The enemy's must have been five time this number, including many field officers who were seen to fall. General Ewell, in his report to General Lee, complimented the brigade very highly for their gallantry.

The following promotions have been made recently: Brigadier General Stephen D. Lee, of South Carolina, Major General; Col. O. F. Strahl, of Tennessee, Brigadier General; Col. Jas. Lehker, of Alabama, Brigadier General; Col. Lawrence S. Baker, of North Carolina, Brigadier General; Col. Lunsford L. Lomax, Brigadier General; Col P. D. Roddy, of Alabama, Brigadier General.

Nothing from Fredericksburg to-day, except that there are no yankees in that vicinity.

No news to-night. The Central train has not arrived. The cause of the detention is not ascertained.

There are heavy masses of dark clouds in the western sky, indicating a storm in that direction.

CHARLESTON, 4th.—All quiet to-day. Battery Wagner is fine condition, and far stronger than when the bombardment began. People and troops in fine spirits.

MOBILE, Aug. 2.—A large number of chiefs and braves of the Choctaw tribe passed through yesterday to visit the great father at Richmond.

Grant is establishing a garrison of about three thousand at Natchez.

Wirt Adams' scouts bring intelligence that Banks attacked Dick Taylor at Donaldsonville on the 23d ult., and was defeated, with a loss of six thousand, including four thousand prisoners. Taylor and Magruder's forces have since united on Teche river, which, if true, will enable Taylor to place in position the siege guns captured at Thibodeaux, and to blockade the river below.

MOBILE, August 3.—Latest accounts from the Mississippi river represents the river above Vicksburg swarming with gunboats and transports. Eight gunboats and transports were counted between Vicksburg and Natchez on last Friday. This does not prevent communication with the trans-Mississippi department. Accounts from that side are cheering, but contraband. The enemy have placed a garrison of 2,500 men at Carthage, which is a prominent point on the river. Logan is watching the movements of the enemy. We shall hear from him soon. No troops gone up the river, save McPherson's corps, part of Burnside's command.

MEADE REPORTED ACROSS THE RAPPAHANNOCK.

Meeting of the Commissioners.

NEGRO REGIMENTS ORGANIZING IN THE NORTH.

Another yankee Flotilla in James River.

THE ALABAMA ELECTIONS.

Arrivals from New Orleans.

RICHMOND, Aug. 5.—The Central train arrived at a late hour last night, but brought no news of importance.

It is reported that Meade has crossed the Rappahannock into Culpepper.

Gen'l Meridith is successor to Ludlow as Commissioner. The Confederate authorities received yesterday, official notification, of the appointment of the meeting of Commissioners to take place this week.

All the papers this morning have editorials, strongly urging the people to respond to the late proclamation of the President.

The New York Herald states, that 25 negro regiments are organized, and are in the course of organization for the Federal army. Northern papers ridicule the idea that it is the purpose of the South, to employ negro troops, as asserted in an anonymous letter to the Tribune, dated at Richmond.

Another yankee flotilla is in James River. Two monitors and two gunboats, came up as far as Sandy Point last night.

HOLLY SPRINGS, August 3.—As far as heard from, Watts has a small majority over Shorter for Governor. Lamar's majority over Dickinson for Congress, is two.

A flag of truce steamer arrived last night from New Orleans, off Fort Morgan, with the Vicksburg paroled prisoners. Mayor Monroe arrived with his family at Pensacola, en route for this city.

PENSACOLA, August 3.—Mayor Monroe of New Orleans, has arrived here from Fort Pickens. His family is with him. He was not permitted to visit New Orleans.

MOBILE, Aug. 4.—Twenty-two transports, laden with troops, passed Natchez going down up to Friday.

A number of Banks' and Bonnalder regiments have been mustered out, their term of service having expired.

Transports loaded with troops are sent up daily to Island No. 10, to be instructed in the manual of arms.

East and West Louisiana have been stripped of their negro recruits.

Rumor says Sherman is furloughing one out of every twenty, and they leave daily for home.

Pillaging parties are sent out daily from the garrisons at Natchez and New Carthage, who strip the country of provisions, and commit every species of vandalism.

Weather extremely warm—thermometer 96.

Patriotic and Praiseworthy.

The following truly patriotic and generous offer of one of the most respectable and substantial planters of this section, is in striking contrast with the course and conduct of the thousand and one extortioners and speculators who are realizing fortunes out of the soldier's hard earnings.

MR. EDITOR:—I hear great complaint from our brave soldiers for something to eat. Now, Sir, our soldiers have to fight the battles of our country, and must be fed. I offer to be one of one ten or twenty thousand farmers to place my people on short allowances of meat, and give, if necessary or sell to the Government, for seven per cent bonds, one thousand pounds of bacon, one thousand pounds of beef, and one hundred bushels of wheat. I appeal to the patriotic men of the South to come to the aid of the Government and help to feed our brave soldiers.

C. A. CRUMP.

HEADQUARTERS PAROLED PRISONERS, Demopolis, July 25, '63.

Circular Order.]

The President of the Confederate States regarding the furloughs granted the paroled prisoners from Vicksburg of too great duration in the present condition of the country, with the exception of those to the men most distant from this camp, therefore, under his instructions, all furloughs are rescinded, with exception of those to the troops from the trans-Mississippi Department, and from the State of Tennessee, which will remain as before. The furloughs of the troops from Georgia are reduced to twenty days; those from Alabama and Mississippi to fifteen days. At the expiration of their furloughs all officers and men will report at this place, as far as practicable, in their former organizations.

Brigade commanders are authorized and instructed to publish this order in the newspapers of the districts in which their respective commands were organized, and will supervise the gathering together and reorganization of the same.

By order of Lt. Gen. PEMBERTON.

THE SPIRIT OF GENERAL JOHNSTON'S ARMY.—Alluding to the report of the desertion of Mississippi troops, which he does not believe, the editor of the Macon Telegraph says:

We have the best accounts of the temper and spirit of General Johnston's army, from a friend who was there only a few days ago, and mingled freely with the soldiers partaking of their fare and sharing with them the blanket and for a pillow at night. He says a more undaunted set of men never walked the green earth, and if some of our whipped people at home should go there with their long faces and croaking tongues, the boys would be very apt to give a halter upon them. They have not the smallest idea of being whipped, but are brim full of confidence in themselves and their leader—are down on the Administration, down on Pemberton, and particularly down on substitutes, the latter being ridiculed with every device the wit of the camp could contrive.

OBJECT OF GRANT'S MOVEMENTS.—Various have been the objects surmised. The first is that mentioned by the New York Times, viz:

To rest his soldiers during the sickly season in that hot and unwholesome country. The second is to send a portion of his men up the river to the assistance of Rosecrans, who thus may be enabled to attack Bragg to advantage. The third is to send a large portion of his force to Virginia to operate against Lee. Whatever may be the object, whether any of these or not, is yet to be determined, for Grant as yet has developed no plan.

Murder of Lieut. Rob't J. Tipton, and Abduction of his Brother by Bushwhackers and Tories.

JONESBORO, Tenn., Aug. 1, 1863.

MESSRS. EDITORS: I have the sad duty to perform of announcing the abduction of Lieut. Rob't J. Tipton and Lieut. Elbridge L. Tipton, sons of Isaac Tipton, Esq., and nephews of Senator Haynes, by the tory bushwhackers and Union-Lincolnites of Carter county, from their father's house, near Elizabethton, on Thursday night last. Lieut. Rob't J. Tipton was a member of Capt. Deaderick's company, 19th Tennessee regiment, under Col. Walker. Lieut. Elbridge L. was a member of Capt. Boddie's company, 20th Tennessee volunteers.

Robert, the elder brother, had been ordered into the recruiting service in Carter county, where he had before acted with much efficiency. Elbridge, after more than twelve months' absence, had just returned on furlough for ten days, to spend them with his father's family. These young officers had been at home only about two days, when at midnight, the Union murderers and thieves came to their father's house, called for them, and said the yankees had burned the bridge at Carter's Depot, and asked them to come out. Believing they were friends, they rose and hastily threw on their clothes, went out and were seized and abducted.

There were about twenty-five tories engaged. They took them off, and in about one mile of their father's house Robert J. Tipton was shot through the brain and through the region of the heart. His body was found by pursuers next morning in the road. Elbridge L. has not been found or heard from. What has been his fate, God and the base villains who led him, at the dead of night, from his bed and father's house, only know. I fear he was murdered also.

These two young officers were worthy the best blood of a gallant ancestry. They were distinguished for great courage and passionate devotion to the cause of the South. They were the gallant sons of a worthy father, who has ever been as true to the cause as they. Now that they are gone, it cannot be amiss to say that they volunteered at the commencement of the war as privates, and served with distinction through the bloodiest battles in the valleys of Tennessee and Mississippi, from Shiloh to Murfreesboro. Better soldiers never breathed the breath of life. After they had been tested in the severest manner, each was promoted to the rank of first lieutenant in his regiment, in which capacity they have served for twelve months past.—[Knoxville Register.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

HEADQUARTERS VOL. AND CONSCRIPT BUREAU, DEPARTMENT NO. 2, MARIETTA, GA., July 27, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 2.

I. All officers acting under orders of commandants of Conscripts, and all officers acting under orders of commanders of Rendezvous in this geographical department, are instructed to arrest, and send to their respective regiments, all stragglers and deserters. Likewise, the officers of both organizations will arrest all men liable to duty under the Conscript law, between the ages of 18 and 45 years, who have no legal exemptions and who fail voluntarily to report themselves for service.

II. No furloughs will be granted to Conscripts. To those who report themselves as volunteers, a few days, (not exceeding five,) will be allowed, to make the preparations necessary for entering the service.

III. Those arrested as conscripts will be examined by a surgical board, and if received as competent, will be enrolled as Conscripts.

IV. Commanders of Rendezvous, who have no examining board for Conscripts, may engage the services of competent surgeons or private physicians, who will be governed by the instructions in orders of the Inspector General of the army, copies of which will be furnished.

V. Officers of the rendezvous operating in the neighborhood of camps of instruction, arresting conscripts, will return them over to such camps; and officers of camps of instruction, operating in the neighborhood of Rendezvous, arresting deserters and stragglers, will turn them over to the nearest Rendezvous.

By order of Brig-Gen. Pillow, Chief of Bureau.

PLANTATION TO RENT.—I would respectfully call the attention of planters from Mississippi and Tennessee, to my plantation in Coosa county, Alabama.

It is composed of between 350 or 400 acres of cleared land. The land is fine, and well suited for raising every variety of grain. One hundred and fifty acres is bottom, and the balance upland. It is well watered, with numerous blue limestone springs, and a small creek running through the entire length of it. The location is healthy, and 4½ miles from Talladega Sulpher Springs, a place of considerable Summer resort. It has good outlet and Summer range, and is well fitted for raising stock.

The plantation is in splendid repair, the most of the fencing having been rebuilt last Fall, and staked and ridered. There are all the necessary buildings on the place. If desired, the place will be divided, there being two settlements on it.

One great advantage of this place, is its security against the raids of the enemy. It is 65 miles above Montgomery on the east bank of Coosa river, by which it is protected west. On the east, it is some distance to the usual traveled route, through the country, and rough country intervening. At the same time that it is difficult of access, it is convenient to market, being 12 miles from Columbiana, and 15 from Coosa Station, on Coosa River and Tenn. River Railroad. There are other excellent lands in the same section of country left vacant by the men entering the military service.

Persons wishing quiet, and a safe asylum from the encroachments of the enemy, would do well to examine the above tract of land before making other arrangements.

For particulars, inquire of Thos. E. Gilchrist, Marble Valley, Coosa county Ala., who is my legal agent, or of me, 34th Alabama Regiment, Maulsault's Brigade, at present, on Provost Guard in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

General Order, Organizing Volunteer and Conscript Bureau of Geographical Department No. 2.

HEADQUARTERS VOL. AND CON. BU., DEP'T NO. 2, Marietta, Ga., July 27, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS No 3.

The undersigned having been, by orders of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, in obedience to an order of the Secretary of War, placed in charge of the Conscript service in Department No. 2, and the officers and agencies of the Conscript Bureau of the Government within the States of Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, having been by the Secretary of War transferred and assigned to duty under me, as Superintendent of Conscripts for this Department, it is ordered that Those officers and the organizations as heretofore existing within this Department, will continue their duties without change until otherwise ordered. The President, by his proclamation, having called out all men liable to duty under the Conscript Law to the age of forty five years, all such are required to report themselves for duty to the enrolling officers of their respective districts, or to the officers of the recruiting bureau. Upon so reporting, they will be received and enrolled as volunteers. If they fail so to do until arrested, they will be enrolled as conscripts. In addition to the camps of instruction established by order of the War Department, and now existing in the States composing this geographical department, the system of rendezvous established by the chief of the bureau of the army of Tennessee, will be continued. The officers engaged in the last named organization, belonging to the army of Tennessee, and subject to be withdrawn from this bureau by the exigencies of the service, will not for the present be blended with the former organization. The two corps of officers will work in their respective spheres, and under the orders heretofore existing. Both organizations will arrest all deserters and stragglers, receive all volunteers who may present themselves, and will arrest all conscripts between the ages of eighteen and forty-five.

The commanders of rendezvous will furnish the commandants of conscripts for their States with the names and descriptive lists of all conscripts by them arrested and sent to the army.

Each class of officers will respect the decisions of the other, and while engaged in the same labor, will avoid all conflicts. Should any collisions of authority occur, they will be referred to the common superior directing the operations of both corps. Each organization will keep a record of its proceedings, and will make weekly reports to the General Superintendent of both organizations.

The hopes of the country depend upon the labors of this Bureau in strengthening the armies of Tennessee and Mississippi. No higher motive for exertion could be presented to the patriotic soldier. We have the population required for this purpose, and it is our duty to put it in these armies. Prompt effort will accomplish it, and deliver our country from desolation and despotism.
