NEW ORLEANS:

TUESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 18, 1851.

The revenue of France for the year 1850, amounted, according to the official statement just published, to 738,242,000 francs; that of 1848 having been 676,790,000 francs, and that of 1849, 701,713,000 francs. The income from the duty on beet sugar was in 1848, 22,824,000 francs, and in 1850, it amounted to 30,526,030 francs; the revenue from colonial sugar on the contrary had decreased.

A SOUTHERN MANUFACTURING VILLAGE.—From the Cahawba (Ala.) Gazette, we clip this interesting description of the village which spring up in the forest almost in a day. We spoke of this very spot some months since, when attempting to show that manufactures were of more advantage to the farmers than to the capitalists:

"The company was organized on the 16th of August, 1848, and the capital stock is now $87,000. The size of the factory building is one hundred and fifty feet long, and fifty feet wide; is built of brick, with tin roof, and window and door sills of cast-iron. There are 3000 spindles, 100 looms, 42 cards, with other necessary machinery for spindles.

"The fabric manufactured is, osnaburgs, 33 inches wide, weighing 9 ounces to the yard; 7-8 shirting; No. 14 thread, 5 1-4 ounce; cotton yarns, all sizes, from No. 4 to 15.

"There are now employed in the factory, eighty-one operatives—a majority of them females. When all the machinery is in operation, one hundred and ten will be required, and the daily product will be 4000 yards of cloth, or forty yards per loom.

"There is water enough to move double the machinery, at all seasons of the year, but there has been some difficulty in consequence of the water wheel not having capacity sufficient to run all the machinery. That difficulty, however, is soon to be remedied.

"Autaugaville has grown up in the woods during two years past. It now has a population of three hundred and fifty souls—four mercantile establishments—two churches, and a third is soon to be built, and two good schools. The village is situated some two or three miles from the Alabama river, and about the same distance from Prattville and Vernon, and is rapidly increasing in population and importance.

"Autauga county is now the 'banner county' of the State in manufactories.

"It is unnecessary to advise our friends to patronize the 'Autauga Manufacturing Company,' for they will give their assistance in sustaining a Southern establishment, in preference to patronizing, indirectly, the overgrown monopolies of the North."

FATAL RENCONTRE.—The Macon (Ga.) Telegraph of the 11th inst. says: "A rencontre took place in East Macon, on Saturday night, between Edwards and —— West, which resulted in the death of the latter. Edwards had just been pardoned from the Penitentiary, where he had been confined for an assault with intent to murder. He has made his escape."

RUMORED MUTINY AND BLOODY RETRIBUTION. The Boston Mail gives as a current report, which it believes to be true, an account of a mutiny alleged to have occurred on board the Boston bark William H. Shaler, Capt. W. H. Gardener, Jr., on her late voyage via the West Indies, to California. It appears that the captain, two new hands, one a Portuguese and the other an Englishman, at Manilla, on ordering one of them aloft he refused to go, and as the captain advanced to enforce the order, the sailor clinched him and both fell upon the deck. At this moment the other sailor approached, with knife unsheathed, to aid his comrade. The captain managed to draw a revolver, and with it shot the seaman with whom he was struggling in the neck. Springing to his feet, he encountered the other sailor, who menaced him with his knife, and shot him through the head, killing him on the spot. The other mutineer survived, although badly wounded. Capt. Gardener left his vessel at San Francisco, and returned in the last steamer. He is now in Boston, and it is said the affair will be investigated.

SOUTHERN NEW YORK.—The population in 1840 in fourteen counties, was 746,767. In 1850, 1,108,718—showing an increase of nearly fifty per cent. within ten years.

One of Raymond & Co.'s panthers, worth $500, died at Cincinnati on the 6th.

The Southern Rights Convention met at Montgomery, Alabama, on Monday 10th instant. Col. Thomas Williams was chosen President.

COUNTERFEITING.—Ten persons have been arrested in New York for counterfeiting, and a large quantity of base coin has been seized.

MONUMENT TO A REVOLUTIONARY HERO.—The Massachusetts House of Representatives has passed resolutions appropriating $2000, to erect a monument on Acton Common, to the memory of Captain Isaac Davis, who fell at the old North Bridge, on the 19th of April, 1775.

PROFESSOR SCHUMACHER.—This distinguished savan, the astronomer in the observatory at Altona, died on the 28th of December, in his seventy-first year. For many years he has been before the scientific world, as the editor of the "Astronomische Nachrichten."

A PRIZE WEDDING.—The first wedding in the stirring town of Trevorton—which has sprung into existence within the last six months, in the valley, a few miles back of Sunbury, on the road to Pottsville, Pa., was celebrated on the 24th ult., with great rejoicings. According to previous stipulation, the happy couple became entitled to, and received the following substantial premiums, viz: The wife the best dress in the company's store, and the husband a handsome town lot, and a loan of $100 from the company to build upon it.

Brinckley Bishop, who was convicted during the recent session of Bibb County (Georgia) Superior Court, of the murder of Turner Smith, was on Friday last brought before Judge Stark, and sentenced to be hung on the 28th day of March next.

A RICH TANNER.—The Hon. Zadok Pratt, of Prattville, Greene county, NewYork, who is said to be the greatest tanner in the world, is also said to be the richest one. It is stated that he has consumed in the course of his business, 200,000 cords of wood, tanned 1,000,000 sides of leather, and employed and fully paid 30,000 men. He has also represented his district in Congress, and is worth $2,000,000. We have already mentioned that he intends to send specimens of leather from each of his seven tanneries to the World's Fair.

SLAVE TRADE.—From official documents it appears that, of the vessels engaged in the Brazilian slave trade, nineteen were from Massachusetts, twelve from NewYork, three from Pennsylvania, three from Maine, two from Rhode Island, and one from Connecticut.

The gig used by Stephen Girard, during his lifetime, was sold at Philadelphia, at auction, on the 6th instant.

There are no less than nine editors in the two branches of the Wisconsin Legislature.

AN AUSTRALIAN EXPLORER.—The Australian papers are beginning to ask the question: Where is Dr. Leichhardt? The time has already elapsed, according to his own estimate, when he should have been heard of at the end of a successful journey. Three years have passed since he undertook his task of exploring an unknown part of the great Australian continent; two years since he was heard of last. He had then returned three hundred miles to the last station on the frontier, for the purpose of describing the beauty and fertility of the country through which he and his companions had passed, saying in justification of the proceeding, that he feared he might never return from his great journey, and was anxious that the knowledge which he had already gained, should not be lost. He departed again, in high spirits, into the pathless wilderness, and has never since been heard of or seen. The authorities of New South Wales should at once set the machinery of succor at work' [London Athenæum.

HEIGHT OF NATIONS.—Professor Forbes states the Irish to be the taller, on the average, than either the English or the Scotch. Having measured a thousand of each nation—English, Irish, and Scotch. He gives the following as an average height of each: English, 68 1-2 inches; Scotch, 68 1-4; Irish, 70; and the ages of each, 22 years.

A cockney conducted two ladies to the observatory to see an eclipse of the moon. They were too late; the eclipse was over, and the ladies were disappointed. "Oh," exclaimed our hero, "don't fret; I know the astronomer very well—he is a polite man, and I am sure he will begin again."

At the Pittsburg theatre the drama of Anthony Wayne is being performed, and when the horse is brought on the stage, an night by ten one, the other actors have to retire while his horship goes through with his exercises, as there is not room enough on the stage for all the members of the company to be there at one time.

The Western Star is the name of a new paper started at Milwaukie, Oregon, on the Wilamette. It belongs to the democratic school of politics.

A singular discovery has been made by one Nicholas Zach, a lithographer of Munich. He has found that by a preparation applied to designs traced by a pointed instrument, on a plate of any sort of metal, the drawing reproduces itself in relief, in less than an hour on the plate. Zach has given to his discovery the name of metallography.
