ALEX. BAND, Observer.
Mandeville Station, La.

If there is an idle carpenter, painter or bricklayer in town we don't know it.

The northern portion of the parish was treated to a copious rain last Tuesday evening.

Claiborne Cottage has been sold, but we are not informed as to the name of the purchaser.

The sunny side of the street is very comfortable these wintry May mornings, and it is cool enough for fires at night.

Mrs L. M. Cloud Principal of Covington Academy, has opened a night school for Commercial Arithmetic and Book-Keeping. See advertisement.

Ice Cold.—There was a heavy frost and a light freeze in the Northwest last Tuesday night, and its chilling effect was felt throughout the South.

New buildings, large and small, are going up in all directions; we will try to get a list of them for publication next week. The boom continues unabated.

Centennial services at the Methodist Church last Tuesday were well attended, and Rev. L. W. Wood delivered an interesting discourse appropriate to the occasion.

Non-residents and unknown owners of property in this parish will find an interesting and instructive editorial from the pen of Sheriff Cook in another column, under the heading of 'Tax Collector's Notice.'

Horse Races at Abita.—There will be several horse and mule races at Abita Springs to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock, which promise to be full of interest and will no doubt afford much amusement to visitors.

Big Head.—Mr. Vincent Ball, who lives about six miles from Covington, presented us, last Tuesday, with the finest head of cabbage we have seen this season; it was perfectly white, and without the outside leaves, measured three feet in circumference and weighed 6¾ pounds. It was of the Higham variety, and raised from seed obtained from his home in England. It appears to be well suited to our soil and climate.

Farewell.—Mr. Frank Ledner who has for the past three years been the passenger conductor on the East Louisiana train, running between Covington and New Orleans, has resigned his position to go into business for himself at Bay St. Louis His successor, Mr. Jas. Dowling, is an old and popular Louisville and Nashville conductor.

Mr. Ledner's genial face and cheerful voice will be greatly missed by his thousands of friends in Covington and along the line of the East Louisiana road. With a pleasant word for all, attentive and courteous alike to rich and poor, old and young, he was every inch an ideal conductor from the soles of his feet to where the hairs of his head ought to be, and it was a pleasure to travel on his train. He was given a pleasant farewell surprise party last Tuesday night, at the residence of Mr. Hardy H. Smith, and on the same day, in the city, the attaches of the Northeastern and East Louisiana Railroads presented him with a handsomely carved gold-headed cane, as a token of their esteem. He carries with him to his new home the best wishes of our entire community, with the hope that he will "live long and prosper" He will make his last trip to-morrow.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

The one hundredth anniversary of the inauguration of Gen. George Washington as the first President of the United States was appropriately celebrated last Tuesday in all parts of the country. The patriotic feeling was not confined to any section, creed or party, but the citizens of the whole country vied with each other in honoring the memory of the Father of his Country, and contributing their mite to swell the grandest celebration the world ever witnessed—millions of freemen rejoicing over the one hundredth anniversary of the establishment of constitutional government in America. The importance and solemnity of the occasion drew the citizens of our common country together as one, and sectionalism and petty dispute were dropped for the day United we stand in times of general rejoicing, and it would be the same in case of danger from beyond our lines. The hatchet of discord is buried, and we enter upon the second century knowing no North, no South, no East, no West—our Union, right or wrong.

GRAND EXCURSION.

The Benevolent Association, Louisiana Division, Army of Northern Virginia, will give a grand excursion to-morrow from New Orleans to Abita Springs and Covington, for the benefit of their Relief Fund. The celebrated Continental Band will furnish the music. There will be two trains, and returning, will leave Covington at 4:15 and 6 P. M. There will be dancing at the pavilion near the Springs, and doubtless both Covington and Abita will be thronged with visitors.

NOT BUNCH

A man was arrested last Tuesday, about six miles from Napoleonville, thought to be Bunch, the train robber. Detective Gaster, of New Orleans, was sent for, and positively identified the prisoner as being the wrong man

COMET COMING.

Prof. Holden, of the Lick Observatory, states that according to computations of the orbit of the comet discovered by Prof. Barnard, the comet will become 7,000 or 8,000 times as bright as at present with a distance of about 4,000,000 miles from the sun, and it should be carefully observed on May 26.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE HON. E. JOHN ELLIS.

[Times-Democrat.]

Abita City La April 30.—The funeral obsequies of the late E. John Ellis were performed to-day, being witnessed by as large and sad a concourse of friends as ever assembled on a similar occasion in this city.

The service was rendered at the home of the deceased's mother, by Revs Drs. Keen and Markham of the local Methodist and New Orleans Presbyterian Churches, of which latter the deceased was a member.

Dr Markham, in an eloquent manner reviewed the utility of the life of the deceased, and how, full of promise and hope, he was taken away in the midday of life; how, even more than the brilliant qualities of his intellect, the magnanimity of his heart contributed to magnetize all who came within his reach.

Perhaps the most touching sentiment was that which attributed the correct guidance of his great ability to the direct influence of a departed Christian father and a likewise devoted mother.

After the service the cortege accompanied the remains to their final resting place in the family cemetery, Dr. Craig, Eugene Waggaman, Hon. R. C. Davey, Samuel Robertson, Louis Richards, Columbus H. Allen, Judge Morris Marks and Col. Amacker attending as pall bearers. There the friends of E John Ellis, with saddened faces, beheld the remains lowered into their last abode amidst beautiful floral offerings and tokens of sorrow, which spoke louder than words, that though he be gone he is not forgotten.

We have received a circular from Director Kirkham, requesting observers throughout the State to send newspaper accounts and other data in order that a map may be prepared showing all the tornadoes that have affected Louisiana; planters and others will confer a favor by forwarding all facts as to velocity, course and devastation caused by all storms.

EX GOV. ALCORN, OF MISSISSIPPI, ON THE NEGRO.

A Washington special to the Times-Democrat, dated April 30, says:

Ex-Gov. James Alcorn, of Mississippi, is in the city, accompanied by his son James, who is about to make a tour of the world. Talking about the political situation in the South, and the position taken by President Harrison, Gov. Alcorn said:

"I wish him success, but he will not be able to build up a white party in the South. It is born and bred essentially Democratic, and cannot be changed from without. The Republican party missed its opportunity at the close of the war and in the succeeding years. If it had chosen a wise policy then it would have divided the South. When I was elected Governor of Mississippi, in 1869, there was a large white vote cast for me, and when Ames defeated me in 1873, I received 25,000 more white votes than he did. He was a carpet-bagger, and the white people would not have him and overthrew his administration. If Grant had sustained me at the time of my election, there would have been a white Republican party which could have held the State. The Southern people will not have negro rule. The negro is not a white man with a black skin. He is a different race He is a barbarian, and barbarians cannot rule civilized people. His head is covered with wool. He is a sheep. The white man has straight hair like a lion. The negro is an infant He has the flat nose, the retreating chin, the protruding lips of an infant. It will take centuries of development to thoroughly fit him for civilization It is a racial difference, and the strong race will rule."

Gov. Alcorn was an old-time Whig, and has been a conservative Republican since the war.

Uncle Sam has not, as yet, been overwhelmed with congratulations from the crowned heads of Europe, on the hundredth anniversary of his great Republican Yankee Nation. Perhaps they are afraid their own docile subjects may some day break the chains of bondage and serfdom, rise in their might, and try the "experiment" themselves.

THE SAMOAN CONFERENCE

[Daily States.]

It turns out that the alleged preconcerted agreement between Great Britain and Germany respecting the Samoan question had existence only in some fertile imagination; and the course of the conference, so far as it has gone, gives reason to believe that the trouble is going to be settled and the future of Samoa to be arranged on the identical no-foreign intervention lines consistently urged by Mr. Bayard at the previous conference and in all his dispatches since that conference was interrupted. Germany has liberated the deposed King Malietoa, and he will probably be restored to the throne. It is likely moreover, that the Three Nations will appoint an advisory Board, nominally to assist the Samoans in the management of their affairs, but really we may presume to watch each other so that no one of the powers interested may steal an advantage over the other. Mr. Cleveland's Secretary of State is the man who is to get most of the glory out of the Berlin conference.

HOW TO MAKE A HAND GRENADE.

A Georgia physician writes to an Atlanta paper that the solution used in hand grenades now offered so extensively for sale is easily and cheaply made by taking twenty pounds of common salt, ten pounds of sal ammoniac, (muriate of ammonia, to be had of any druggist,) and dissolving in seven gallons of water. When dissolved it can be bottled and kept in each room of the house. In case of a fire one or two bottles should be thrown with force into the burning place, hard enough to break them, and the fire will be extinguished.

A NOTED HUNTER'S TERRIBLE DEATH.

A London special to the City Item dated April 17, says: The funeral of Hon. Guy Dawne, Surveyor General of Ordnance, Lord Salisbury's first administration, and who was killed in February at Nigir, in Mashland, and whose embalmed remains arrived on Saturday's steamer, took place at Dorchester to-day.

The deceased, who was the son of Viscount Downe, and nephew of Bishop Bagot, was a member of Parliament from 1862 to 1885 His love of adventure, however was uncontrollable, and he had hunted in Persia, Abyssinia, India, Zululand and the Soudan and had attained the reputation of being one of the greatest hunters of wild animals in the world. On the day of his death he had winged four buffaloes and apparently killed a fifth. He approached the prostrate animal, believing it to be dead, when it suddenly rose to its knees, broke his rifle in pieces, and drove its horns through his body. Both animal and hunter fell back dead at the same minute.

A MISTAKE.

Mandeville, La., May 1, 1889.

Editor St. Tammany Farmer:

In your issue of April 27th, your Mandeville correspondent referred to the arrival of his friend 'George,' to fire a salute in honor of an opposition boat. As far as I am concerned I am not aware of any opposition boat running or to be run in this summer's trade. The only firing heard of late has been the shot fired by "Teaser" at this flying canard. Yours, etc.,

George.

A RAILROAD HORROR.

How the Dead Were Counted.

A horrible railroad accident occurred last Monday near Hamilton, Ont. The train was going east at the rate of 40 miles an hour, and jumped the track near a curve, where the rails had spread. The cars were telescoped and then consumed by fire. Many passengers injured, and a number instantly killed and burned to a crisp. One account of the accident says that the remains of from sixteen to eighteen men were taken out of the wreck. They were cut to pieces almost to a man, and burned almost beyond the possibility of recognition. Nothing could be done for them, as the fierceness of the flames made it out of the question to rescue them. The only way in which it could be ascertained that from 16 to 18 bodies had been taken out was from the fact that legs and arms corresponding to about that number were found.

SELF-BEHEADING IN DREAMS.

A prominent Worcester business man passed through an experience in dreamland a few nights ago that is puzzling the local psychologists, and will add interesting data for the society for psychological research. He had an idea he ought to shave and proceeded to do so; just before he began work it occurred to him that it would be the easiest thing in the world to take off his head, and, placing it on the table, facilitate matters. It seemed in the dream that this was allowable for a certain number of minutes without endangering life. So he hung up his watch to count the minutes.

The operation continued till some errand called the man across the room, and he returned to find his head was missing. He looked at the watch and found the time was near when he must have his head in its proper place if he cared to keep it. Then he "lost his head" in two ways, and he rushed frantically about the room, looking in every available place Just as the minute hand was about to cross the fatal point the Worcester man woke up, felt for his head, and was relieved to find it there.—Springfield Republic.

We have personally known of a similar case. A lady once dreamed that she was in the habit of taking off her head, and setting it in her lap so as to arrange her hair at convenience. When this was done she put it back. The notion of this habit formed a background for the particular dream in question, which was this: While sitting with her head in her lap, and at work with her hair, there was a sudden ring at the door. She put on her head in a hurry, ran down stairs, opened the door, found some friends, welcomed them, showed them into the parlor, and only then, on taking a chair to sit down and talk to them, discovered that in her haste she had put on her head wrong side before. In the midst of the embarrassment which followed, she awoke.—Weekly Star.

A SELF MEASURING TANK.

The Alexandria Town Talk says: Mr. A. Hosedale, of this place, has received letters for a very ingenious invention of his which he studied out last winter. It is an oil tank, or can be used for any fluid, and is self-measuring. It completely does away with all measures, and being air-tight prevents evaporation. For grocers or retail dealers in coal oil, or other oil, it will prove of great benefit, doing away with the pumping parts, and there is no chance of spilling the oil on the floor. It is very a simple invention. One faucet is turned which allows the oil to flow from a large tank into a small measuring tank underneath: then another faucet is turned which allows the oil to flow direct from the measuring tank into the vessel brought to the store by the consumer. Mr. Hosedale has refused $10,000 for the patent.

Deschamps was found guilty of the murder of Juliette Deitsch: he will appeal to the Supreme Court.

DR. GOSS ACQUITTED.

The trial of Dr. Goss, at Magnolia, charged with the murder of Felix Varnado, closed yesterday morning; the jury, after being out all night, brought in a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner was discharged.

MANDEVILLE ITEMS.

Mandeville, May 2, 1889.

Editor St. Tammany Farmer:

April has left us, with a most welcome shower, and May, the month of flowers, has entered with a cool northwest wind.

The excursion of the steamer Heroine, Capt. Miller, the "old sea-horse," was a perfect success. Among the passengers we had the pleasure of meeting Messrs. Tyler, Selleck, Lange, Wallis and Redwood, who came over to see about their properties.

We were most agreeably surprised with a visit from Mrs. F. A. Cousin, last Monday, accompanied by her daughter Regina, and Victor and Lilia, the children of our lamented Chas. Aubry; the came to see the old landmark of Mandeville, the Coquillon homestead.

It was with sorrow that we heard of the death of Hon. E John Ellis, a native of Covington; he and your correspondent were old friends; we extend our most heartfelt sympathy to his family in their hour of bereavement; also to the Talley family upon the death of their father, Mr. Enoch Talley.

The first shipment of Irish potatoes from our town was made Saturday by Mrs. Alphonse, wife of our popular hack driver. I remained for about one hour while she was using the hoe, and in one row of 120 feet she gathered half a barrel of the largest kind.

I have been informed by a party who went to see the steamer New Camelia, that she will make her first excursion on Sunday, the 12th inst., as all her machinery and woodwork are completed, and all to be done now is the painting and gilding. He remarked that she ought to be called the "Re-New Camelia," as she looks like a swan, and will be able to cross the Lake in less than two hours.

For the round trip, he added, there will be many ladies and gentlemen, who will go to enjoy the beautiful scenery along the Mississippi river, view the jetties, and enjoy the salty breezes of the Gulf; we hope that the Magnier Bros. will have their hands full, for the more they are known the better they are liked.

Our stores have all received a full supply of goods for the summer season. Depre Bros. are overstocked. Ribaut is ready to sell from a pin to a hogshead of sugar, and is always on the go with his wagon.

Our noble old friend Francois Colomes will have his hottles trying for next Sunday, and he guarantees that any one who will call upon him will be well satisfied.
